How It is Made in the Country Where

What the unrivaled doughnut, such as our grandmothers used to make, is to good old New England, the tamale (pronounced tay-mah-lee) is to the great Southwest. The doughnut is a sociologic and historical factor in New England, and the tamale is no less a familiar factor in Southern California.

Medical Profrances for Clay Over Wood-Oleum-Monocite. Tobacco smoking is justifiable as an hygienic ground, it is generally conceded that the pipe is the least injurious means.

DUQUEE AND NUTMEG GRATER

An Incident Indicating the Seriousness of the Case. A half dozen college men were in New York one night not a great while ago indulging in a dinner at the expense of one whose enthusiasm on grid iron heroics had somewhat belatedly his judgment.

an up-raiding conscience. Let the balls roll through the bowing-ally; let the drum and the sharp cymbal cannot overpower the strokes of condemnation. Let him whirl in the dance of sin and temptation and death.

A BELIEVER IN DREAMS.

At the top of a steep hill two young men sat on a stone wall by the roadside, resting. It was late on a Sunday afternoon in October. Stretching away on every side, with here and there the roofs of farm-houses visible, were the bright colors of ripening foliage.

THE TAMALES

It is no easy task for an American who does not speak the Spanish language to learn the authentic, laborious process of making real, old-time Mexican tamales, but I obtained the following recipe from a reliable source: 'Take two quarts of yellow, dried corn and boil in water one-half teaspoon of lime. Let boil till well cooked, wash thoroughly and grind on the metala three times till it becomes very fine. Take two full grown chickens and boil in water enough to cover them; season with a little salt; let boil till quite tender, remove and let cool, then cut in small pieces. Mix with the corn dough which has been rolled on the metala enough of the water in which the chickens were boiled to make it soft and add about two cups of lard. Season with a little salt and knead thoroughly.'

THE TAMALES

The voice of a woman is audible in a balcony at the height of about two miles, while that of a man has never reached higher than a mile. The introduction of the electric light in the Roman catacombs has been chronicled already. Now it is proposed to light the galleries of the great pyramids of Egypt in like manner.

But he never got his metaphors mixed any further. The crowd yelled him down, and for a week afterward he was trying to choke off unfeeling allusions.

SERMONS OF THE DAY

I am going to preach something this morning which some of you do not believe, and that is that the greatest possible benefit to the world will be done by the spread of the Christian religion.

THE TAMALES

After this take three dozen chillies (red peppers), remove seeds, roast in a pan over a fire, and grind on the metala and place in tepid water, then grind on the metala several times with a head of garlic, then strain well. In a stewing pot place some lard; when hot drop in one onion, cut fine, and about a spoonful of flour. Let cook a little while, then add the chillies, let cook a little, add the cut chicken, a cupful of lard, a cupful of raisins, a teaspoonful of sugar, a little salt and pepper and let come to a boil again; then take away from the fire. Soak in cold water dry corn husks. When well soaked, wash thoroughly and grind on the metala a thin layer of the corn dough with the half of each husk. Put a spoonful of the stew on a prepared husk and cover with a prepared husk. Tie the ends with strings made from the same husks. Place in a large pot of boiling water, let cook for an hour, then remove the tamales, and place in tepid water, then strain well. In a stewing pot place some lard; when hot drop in one onion, cut fine, and about a spoonful of flour. Let cook a little while, then add the chillies, let cook a little, add the cut chicken, a cupful of lard, a cupful of raisins, a teaspoonful of sugar, a little salt and pepper and let come to a boil again; then take away from the fire.

TOBACCO PIPES DIAGNOSED.

Dr. L. L. J. See found the cause of the twining of stars to be the presence of the atmosphere of innumerable little air currents or waves, which dart through the air and cause a break in the light from the star. These little air currents can be distinguished through the 24-inch telescope very plainly, on nights when the twinkling of the stars is most noticeable by removing the eyepiece of the instrument.
