You say you are against the United States taking the Philippine Islands, so you are. Such may be the best judgment of the country at large, so it was with the war, but the war came, Cuba came, Porto Rico came, and the Philippines came, it seems to be the inexorability of destiny.

The Stewart horse sale was poorly attended last week, and prices were low, if good large horses have anything like a price in the market. The average price was between 95 and 96 dollars. The proprietor said he lost three hundred dollars on the car load. If the price of heavy horses is to do better in the near future, the buyers secured bargains.

The Franklin county teachers' institute held at Chambersburg last week, had a lively time over the discussion of the New Jersey law that has abolished the use of the rod in the schools and provides for punishment of "unruly" pupils in the courts. The Franklin county teachers after a spirited debate that was the distinguishing feature of this year's institute, resolved that correction by the use of the rod is better than a resort to the law. That a whipping does the pupil more good than a rest fine and imprisonment.

Bloomfield Advocate, November 16. Hon. Chester I. Long, a native of Perry county, defeated Hon. Jerry Simpson in their congressional district in Kansas at the late election. This is the fourth time these gentlemen were pitted against each other for congressional honors. Twice Simpson defeated Long, and twice Long has been successful in defeating Simpson. There was a slump in the Populist vote in Kansas, and that State is believed to have returned permanently to the Republican party.

Ex-Sheriff James A. Gray died suddenly at his home, in Elliptsburg, Thursday morning, about 8 o'clock, from heart disease, in the 62nd year of his age. Mr. Gray had been back in his yard and upon returning was conversing with his wife in the kitchen when he sank to the floor unconscious, and in a few minutes breathed his last. For some years past he had been troubled with heart disease, but for the past few weeks had been enjoying unusually good health, and on the morning of his death had attended to his accustomed duties.

The Presbyterian church in Mifflintown was well filled last Thursday evening with people of the town and surrounding country to witness the marriage of Miss Marion V. Scholl, daughter of coach maker Henry S. Scholl, and Carl F. Espenachade, deputy collector of internal revenue, and eldest son of ex-merchant Frederick Espenachade. Miss Ellie V. Stone, of Washington presided at the organ, and precisely at 8 p. m., the bridal party entered the church. Dr. Fred H. Espenachade, brother of the groom was best man. Miss Grace Cascard, of Philadelphia, was maid of honor. James G. Thompson and A. G. Scholl, of Mifflintown, F. W. Culbertson, of Lancaster, G. L. Fondermish, of Lancaster, were the ushers. Miss Emma Scott, of Richmond, Va., and Miss Beesie Hughes, of Philadelphia, were the bridesmaids. They were all elegantly dressed and carried bouquets. Mr. Scholl gave the bride away. Dr. George Scholl, of Baltimore, Md., performed the ceremony, reading and having the high contracting parties, separately and slowly repeat what he read, then using the ring, then a kneeling prayer, to close the ceremony. Carriages were in waiting at the door to convey the wedding party to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held, after which a sumptuous repast was served. The hour of midnight had almost come when the bride and groom left for an extended trip east. They left amidst the good speed expressions and showers of rice that hearty friends precipitated upon them. The calithumpians were also present, and cut more capers on the street than that many howling derisives. The groom is building a handsome and convenient residence in the east end of town where he and his bride expect to begin housekeeping.

Hollobaugh & Son's store was burglarized last Friday night, and clothes and shoes taken. The thieves entered by way of a window in the back end of the store. A grubbing hoe was used as a lever to open the window. The hoe belonged to Mr. Samuel Strayer and was kept in his stable which was locked. The fact that the alley door of the stable was hooked on the inside, and the yard door of the stable was locked on the outside gives rise to the conjecture that the thieves were in the stable when Strayer locked the door on Friday evening. There is another conjecture, that the thieves were not in the stable but came in the rear of the store room across lots of other adjoining property, and then passed through a window into Strayer's stable and there secured the grubbing hoe and unhooked the alley door of the stable so that they could go out that way. Mr. Strayer who sleeps in a room directly over the store and was awake a number of times that night but heard no disturbing noise. The burglars were not disturbed and took their time, one of them left his entire outfit of clothes, coat, vest, shirt, drawers, stockings and shoes. In his pants pocket was a knife that he got in Strayer's stable, which seems to indicate that they looked about the stable carefully. The night was damp and the ground packed easily showing a well defined track from the window of the new suit must have looked like another man than when he entered. How many there were engaged in carrying the clothing from the window of the store to the stable window, and how long they were at it will never be known till conscience compels some of the gang to reveal the facts of the robbery. They got into the store, and sized men, and clothing that will fit good sized boys, and always broke a suit, that is taking a coat of one suit, a vest of another suit, and pants of a third suit. Hollough & Son's have such a large stock that they cannot tell how many suits they have lost. There is no way by which they may learn how much, and what was taken except by taking an inventory, and then taking an account of their sales up to the time of the robbery, which they in all probability will not do.

CORN. Three ears of corn grown together has been on exhibition in the Racket Store window during the past few days. The corn is quite a curiosity and was grown by J. P. Motter of Watts township. An ear of corn of prolific growth has been left at the News office by Lewis Messersmith, of Howe township. It contains 24 rows at the butt and 32 at the top. The longest row has 57 grains and the shortest row 46 grains. There are 1252 grains on the ear. The corn is of the Early Illinois variety ("90 day corn"), which matures in 90 days from time of planting.—Newport News.

The preacher was through with the preaching of the first sermon and Mr. Stouffer's remains were laid away in its earthly resting place to await the call of the resurrection, he then returned to the church and preached the funeral sermon for Mr. Michael. Bloomfield Advocate, November 16. Hon. Chester I. Long, a native of Perry county, defeated Hon. Jerry Simpson in their congressional district in Kansas at the late election. This is the fourth time these gentlemen were pitted against each other for congressional honors. Twice Simpson defeated Long, and twice Long has been successful in defeating Simpson.
