STROUBENBERG, Pa., preachers are in favor of women taking off their hats in church.

Spain has sold the Caroline Islands to Germany. A good thing to do. The islands were costing her more than she received. They were of no good except as a place for naval offices.

At the late Republican primary election held in Chester county, the election boards refused to take the votes of such Republicans as voted the fusion ticket last fall. The kickers have employed lawyers to sue election officers for not taking their votes.

The action of the democratic county committee last Saturday, in the fixing of the near time for the holding of the primary election on the 17th inst., has called all the democratic candidates to "boots and saddles," in hot haste to chase up and down the county for enough votes to secure the nomination.

BRADSTREET'S journal of trade of June 3, among other things said: Illinois is now producing only half as much wheat as twenty years ago, and Indiana has decreased its production. Kansas, on the other hand, has doubled its yield, and Nebraska more than doubled its crop, while Texas and Oklahoma are now raising much wheat against nothing twenty years ago.

SOME Bellefonte, Pa., people inaugurated a movement to secure a Sunday railroad train for Bellefonte, and now the town is in a state of agitation over the question. An indignation meeting was held in the Presbyterian church on Monday evening. Among the speakers against the Sunday train were preachers Laaric and Holloway and politicians Beaver and Hastings. A copy of the proceedings of the meeting have been sent to head officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

In nearly all the counties of the state where Republican primary elections have been held, they have been easily carried in favor of those who represented the organization of the Republican party. The election for delegates to the State Convention have nearly all resulted in large majorities for the men who stood up vigorously for the regular nomination of the party, whether for state, nation or country office. The majority rule in American and revolution by minority disorganization is Mexican practice.

Congressman Mahon made what is considered by Franklin county people, a narrow escape from death by a bolt of lightning. He had gone from his farm, a short distance from Chambersburg. While there a storm came. He delayed going till the storm was near. Then he started, he proceeded a short distance and stopped under a tree, but the second thought came to his relief and suggested that he had better move on. He left the tree and had scarcely done so till a bolt of lightning struck the tree and knocked it into splinters. If Mahon had remained under the tree, he would have been killed.

There are over two hundred million dollars gold in the United States Treasury. When Cleveland was President the gold reserve ran so low in the Treasury, that it gave rise to the plea before the people that there is not enough gold to float the promises to pay, therefore silver should be made legal tender for all of the promises to pay of the government, bonds and all other promises to pay. Now under McKinley the apprehension has disappeared. The belief is gaining ground that there is enough gold to float the indebtedness, and the gold that was hidden is being brought out and put into circulation. There is a great difference between the Cleveland and McKinley administration on the coin question.

FRANK THOMSON, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, died at his home near Philadelphia at 7.20 on the evening of June 5, 1899, aged 58 years. He died from the effects of a bilious attack on the 20th of May.

Frank Thomson was born in Chambersburg, Pa., July 5, 1841. He came of Scotch ancestry, his grandfather having been Alexander Thomson, who in 1771 sailed from Scotland and settled in the Cumberland Valley. Among the children of Alexander Thomson was a son also named Alexander, who won great honors at the bar of the State, and afterwards represented his district in Congress from 1824 to 1826. He then became Judge of the Sixteenth Judicial District, and subsequently Professor of law at Marshall College.

Frank Thomson was the son of this latter. He was educated at the Chambersburg Academy, and, betraying no taste for the profession of law, at the age of 17 entered the Altoona shops of the Pennsylvania railroad to be instructed in the great work of a railroad. For four years he worked in this school and was graduated a mechanical engineer. He could build a locomotive through every stage of its progress, from the crude iron to the finished on the rails. He was also qualified to operate, as engineer, such engines. Mr. Thomson's advancement along the lines of promotion was rapid. Upon the death of President Geo. B. Roberts in 1877, he was elected President of the road. He was one of the most capable Presidents the Company has had. He leaves three children, a daughter and two sons. Mrs. Thompson's wife died some years ago.

GLORIOUS NEWS.
Came from Dr. D. B. Gargile, of Wash. D. C. He writes: "Four Bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help, but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, skin boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion builds up the strength. Only 50c. Sold by M. P. Crawford, Druggist. Guaranteed.

DEMOCRATIC DELEGATES ELECTED.

The Democratic County Committee met in the Court House on Saturday afternoon and elected Geo. C. Crozier of Port Royal and Geo. Watts of Fayette, delegates to the State Convention.

Saturday, June 17, was set as the date on which to hold the Democratic Primary Election.

Regulations were adopted endorsing the action of Hon. A. J. Fisher in the Legislature during the past winter, and condemning Governor Sions for cutting down the School appropriation.

The delegates were instructed to vote for Hon. Lucian W. Doty of Westmoreland county for Judge of the Supreme Court, in case he is a candidate for that office.

The committee meeting was a quiet one, the Banks element of the party having entire control of the situation.

Twenty seven out of the thirty-six members of the Committee were present.

WIDOWS THE BEST WIVES.

TUPELO, Miss., is famous for two of its citizens. One is John Allen, member of Congress, and the other is Jack Wallace, a negro cotton farmer.

Wallace is the oldest man in Tupelo, if not in the state of Mississippi.

He proves by dates and circumstances that he generally convicts that he is 110 years old. He was born soon after the Revolution, and was a boy the white folks talked a good deal about George Washington. During his 110 years on this earth he has had an interesting matrimonial experience. His own longevity and the rather short lives of his wives have caused him to marry six times. Three times he went to the altar with young girls, and his three other wives were widows. His conclusion is that widows make the best wives. In his own words, "They are more savin' an' more knowin' is their main advantage."

Wallace is the father of forty-eight children, two dozen boys and two dozen girls. The oldest is a man of 78 years and the next is a woman of 77. They alternate boy and girl all the way down. There are six pairs of twins among the children, and their is a boy and girl in each pair. Each of the six wives has been the mother of one pair of twins.

LOST A BIG FORTUNE.

THE STORY OF A NERVOUS BLUFF IN A GAME OF POKER.

The Southern Colonel had the Eastern Plunger sized up properly, but lost confidence in his own hand at the wrong moment.

Big games on the Mississippi river steamers, where poker flourished at its best, were by no means the only instances where fortunes were made and lost on the turn of a card. The record of the game wherein Pete Welch, a noted eastern plunger, met Colonel Wallace of South Carolina is regarded as one of the stiffest battles on the green baize ever fought in any land. Wallace was very wealthy, a heavy state officer, and an extremely lucky man at cards. He was, as every southern gentleman was, and is, perfectly honorable, and his victories were the admiration of his friends. Pete was a gambler, by profession, had plenty of money and was full of nerve; a battle between the two was certain to be of absorbing interest.

When Colonel Wallace heard that Welch was coming to meet him, he calmly replied he would not play. He said he had a limit fixed, and if the gambler went beyond that, he would drop out and let the money go. Welch came on the colonel was notified and, when stamped by Joint Agent at Los Angeles, good to return arriving at final destination, until September 5.

"CARTHAGINIAN OF MAINE."

How Hannibal Hamlin Won the Title in the Maine Legislature.

Among the many stories of Maine's early experiences in the Maine legislature none is more animated than his tilt with John Holmes, interesting because it gives the origin of "The Carthaginian of Maine," a name that stuck to Hamlin through life. Holmes had been in the United States senate, and at this particular time, writes General Hamlin, a member of the state house of representatives, was endeavoring to dominate over it.

Hamlin repented the leadership with him, and Holmes attempted to crush his worthy opponent by coarsely ridiculing his swarthy complexion. Instantly Hamlin jumped to his feet and, pointing his finger at Holmes, retorted: "If the gentleman chooses to find fault with his complexion, what can he say about himself? I take my complexion from nature. He gets his from the brandy bottle. Which is more honorable?" This retort was greeted with great applause and cries of "Go on!"

Hamlin then continued, pointing his finger at Holmes: "I will also tell the member from Alfred that he is more conspicuous for trying to run dryshod over young men than for trying to encourage them. But as long as they are true to themselves and to nature, and as long as the member from Alfred sticks to the brandy bottle they need not fear him." As soon as the cheers of the house could be sufficiently silenced Holmes refracted his words and made a hasty apology.

Hamlin's retort was a masterpiece of humor and from that time Hamlin was thus frequently characterized.—Lewiston Journal.

THE CLIMATE OF CHICAGO.

How Cold the Poor Frenchman Told What It Could Do.

While in Chicago M. de Monvel, the French artist, heard the story that puzzled him. It was told at a dinner party, and he smiled just as if he understood it. That night he thought it over, but the more he thought the less he comprehended it. Finally a fellow artist who had heard the story repeated it, drew pictures of it, and then a light broke on M. de Monvel, and he laughed.

"Ah, we Frenchmen are stupid when compared with the Americans!" he exclaimed. "I shall tell that story, and it will make Paris laugh."

The little tale was about a French carpenter who bought a saw from a Chicago manufacturer who made a specialty of advertising. Engraved on the tool was the assurance that "day in and day out this saw will wear longer than any other on the market." The Frenchman read the advertisement, and the day he bought the saw he put it carefully away. The next day he used it and left it out of doors in the pouring rain. A neighbor who looked with him for the saw, pointed to its inscription and exclaimed:

"Does not he see—no, I mean he saw say on your saw in one hour out of one day in and day out this saw will wear longer than any other on the market. I have left him in one day. Now I follow the climate of Chicago—how can I tell what she will do!"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A BUREAU OF CONSCIENCE.

"A curious innovation," says the Boston Transcript, "at the coming Omaha convention will be a bureau of conscience. Not only is the idea novel, but it is surprising to learn that nearly all the people of the city will be enrolled in the committee. Every member will wear a badge, and will be at liberty to address any one who wears the badge and ask for information just as much as he likes. The member, on the other hand, will be pledged to treat the visitor courteously and answer his questions or put him in the way of getting them answered."

COKE IN DIFFERENT COUNTRIES.

The prices at which coke is quoted in different countries are given as $1.44 in the United States, $3.15 in Great Britain, $3.24 in France, $3.36 in Germany, $3.48 in Belgium, and in Spain $5.08. These figures are based on the quantity of coke used in the manufacture of a ton of bessemer pig iron.

The proportion of deaf mutes to the population is one to every 2,043. In 1851 there was one deaf mute to every 1,748 of the population. Physicians claim that this decrease is mainly traceable to greater knowledge and care in the treatment of scarlatina in children.
