

MIFFLINTOWN, PA.

WEDNESDAY JULY 12, 1899.

B. F. SCHWEIER,

EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

CHESTNUT trees are reported to have bloomed profusely.

Spain has reduced her army to 108,000 men. One year ago she had more than that number of soldiers in Cuba.

State Superintendent N. C. Schaefer has been elected principal of the Keystone Normal School at Kutztown, Berks county.

York county has harvested one hundred thousand acres of wheat, which will not average over ten bushels to an acre; so York county people say.

Democratic politicians of Jefferson county, Pa., in county convention have declared for Bryan for President, but the democratic gold bugs have not spoken.

The Republican State Convention will meet at Harrisburg on Thursday, August 24, to nominate candidates for Judge of the Supreme Court, Judge of the Superior Court, State Treasurer.

The Methodist ministers of Altoona, have arranged for the holding of a series of meetings next October, to snatch as it were as many persons as they can from the circle of Satan's kingdom in Altoona. Old Satan is running rampant in the Mountain City.

What say you? A man takes hog fat, the refuse of ham, shoulder and such; he takes the lye of wood-ashes and with a certain amount of water, he boils the fat, the lye, the water, the result is soap. Now what is soap. Is it the result of evolution? or is it a special creation.

For the sting of a wasp, bee or hornet or other insect there is no handier or more effective cure than mud plain mud. Put a handful on the punctured parts. In ten minutes after fresh application of mud. Renew the mud every ten or fifteen minutes and your suffering will soon be over.

The Barber shop inspector is a new officer whose duties are to inspect barber shops as to the way the shaving brushes and cups and razors are kept. It has drawn upon the minds of many people in large towns that certain diseases or their modified types are given to many people by the barber's general brush and general razor, hence the law for a barber shop inspector.

Ten days after the 4th like the day after the ball was quiet. These who had industriously pursued the even tenor of their way, content that their way was the best way to celebrate the day, had mixed with their work grateful thoughts of the sacrifices of the forefathers for the equality of all men before the law which the 4th of July stands for. The noisy patriots were quiet. They had expended their means in fireworks, and they had expended of their physical energy in shouting the glories of the glorious 4th and their quiet was a reaction that was enforced upon them. So then the 4th was rather a satisfactory day for all, except those who had been engaged in debauchery. And the day as a whole shows plainly that the people have an abiding faith that all men are created equal before the law.

A man who spent two weeks at the Virginia water springs to sweat the tobacco, the booze and the rheumatism grease out of his body says it is all right, it is a nice place to go to, but a man with a lean purse cannot go through such a process of getting rid of the tobacco habit and the booze habit and the rheumatism grease or the stuff in his blood that makes rheumatism. He can however get rid of all those things in a cheaper way at home by a complete daily sweating by putting on his old clothes, enough of them to insure a sweating upon the least exercise. Then exercise till every pore aches. Two weeks of that kind of treatment and care in diet will cure malaria, the tobacco and booze habit and most cases cure rheumatism. Care must be taken in changing clothes. But this remedy is so near at hand, like the river of Jordan of old few can believe in it.

A MURDERER HUNG.

Joseph Hollinger was hung in the Harrisburg jail yard on the 28th day of last June.

"The crime for which Joseph Hollinger was executed, was committed August 26, 1898. On the afternoon of that day he became involved in a quarrel with his wife, which culminated in the cutting of her throat with a small pocket-knife. At the time Mr. Hollinger was not living with his wife because of frequent troubles between them. Prior to that they had been separated for several times for the same reason. The murder was committed while the woman was picking grapes at the old homestead, to which she had returned for that purpose. She was accompanied to the place by another woman. When Hollinger saw them, he wanted his wife away. She paid no attention to his remarks, and while she stood on a bench gathering grapes he seized her about the waist and threw her to the ground, struck her on the head and face and while holding her down with his knee drew a knife from his pocket and cut her throat, almost severing her head from the body.

Fearing bodily harm at the hands of his neighbors, he sought refuge in the hands of a Justice of the Peace, to whom he confessed his crime. The same evening he was removed to the Dauphin county jail, in which he made a full confession of the murder to District Attorney Detweiler. All efforts in the courts and with the Board of Pardons to save him from the gallows on the ground of insanity failed.

HIS LIFE WAS SAVED.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Harrisburg, Pa., lately had a wonderful escape from a fatal death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I could not get out of bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave me great relief. I continued to use it, and in a few days I was well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise. This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular sizes 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at M. F. Crawford's drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

A BUREAU OF CONJURY.

"A curious innovation," says the Boston Transcript, "at the coming Omaha exposition will be a bureau of conjury. Not only is the idea novel, but it is surprising to learn that nearly all the people of the city will be enrolled in the committee. Every member will wear a badge, and visitors will be at liberty to address any one who wears the badge and ask for information just as much as he likes. The member, on the other hand, will be pledged to treat the visitor courteously and answer his questions, or put him in the way of getting them answered."

Coke in Different Countries. The prices at which coke is quoted in different countries are given as $1.44 in the United States, $3.16 in Great Britain, $3.24 in France, $3.36 in Germany, $3.48 in Belgium, and in Spain $5.05. These figures are based on the quantity of coke used in the manufacture of a ton of Bessemer pig iron.

At a Georgia camp meeting a good brother continually repeated in the course of a long prayer: "Lord, send the mourners up higher! Send 'em up higher right away!" A storm was brewing outside, and as the hurricane swept down on them the brother qualified his closing petition with: "But not through the roof, Lord! Don't send 'em through the roof! That would be too high!"—Atlanta Constitution.

A Dilemma. Henry Higgins—Here is an ad in the paper that says "have your old rag." Why Watkins—That sounds all right, but I bet the fellow that gives that advice had no barb wire fence in front of him and a big dog behind him.—Indianapolis Journal.

A FEW ODD ISLANDS.

DESCRIBED BY THE WAYNE COUNTY (PA.) MAN.

They float around in a certain sort of fashion. With occasional queer freaks, one being to spin around like a monster top.

"I read about the floating islands off the mouth of the Mississippi the other day," said the veracious man from Homestead, Pa. "That reminded me that my own little odd county can boast a few islands of the sort. What county? Wayne, young man. You'll find it in the name due north of Pike county. You city chaps have an idea that all of northern Pennsylvania is Pike county in expansion, but you were never so much mistaken about anything in your lives. Pike county is an island, and it is, but its way runs to fish lands and rattlesnakes. Now, Wayne has none of the latter, but of the former—well, talk about Pike county fishing! Young fellow, Pike county isn't a marker to Wayne when it comes to floating islands. Clean out piscatorial sport. Pike may lie about it better, but when you come to sift the facts from the fiction before an investigating commission you'll find that Wayne catches the biggest trout and the lightest bass every time, and don't you forget it. But I start to tell you about the floating islands in the old county. Way back in the twenties the Delaware and Hudson Canal company gorged a channel in the face of the earth from Rondont to Homestead and called it canal. For recreation and fishing the canal the level of ponds and lakes along the route was raised by means of dams from 12 to 20 feet. While the dams were in process of building the timber about the ponds was felled up to the artificial water line, and in many cases the valuable lumber was left to decay where it fell. These dead trunks formed, when the water rose to its newer level, the basis of these floating islands, which may be found in so many of the lakes of Wayne county. Interlocking branches and twigs of the trees themselves and large quantities of underbrush served to bind the logs together in something like a solid mass, thereby forming rafts of more or less buoyancy and size. In the course of time these rafts of logs and twigs kind attached themselves to the raft, and eventually became a part of it. Gradually a light, thin mold accumulated on the island, and in this mold birds planted seeds and grain, which, sprouting, growing, finally forming a floating island. The part in the making of the whole. All of the larger islands bear from one to a score of trees, many of which have attained a considerable growth.

"You might suppose that to walk upon one of these islands would be a source of some danger, but, aside from an occasional wetting of the feet no accidents from this cause have ever occurred, so far as I have been able to learn. The sensation produced by walking on a floating island is very similar to that which you and I have both experienced when, as boys, we ran on thin, young ice, or thicker old and rotten ice. You remember how the ice used to bend under your weight as you ran across it, and how the next step sent you and the ice with the next step flying to meet you, possibly throwing you and perhaps giving you a ducking? Well, it's the same way with the floating islands, but with the element of danger eliminated. It has the same fascination. "Strange as it may seem, very few of these floating islands have become permanently anchored to the bottom of the lakes. They are as nomadic and as unsettled in their habits as the Arab. The wind will carry them about as much as it will. They are the contrary, stick-to-itiveness. They are the contrary cases that ever happened. Sometimes a mere breath of wind will send one of them scooting from one end of the lake to the other and again you couldn't budge them same old way. I have seen one of these islands locomotive and a political pull. Once thoroughly domesticated, however, they make excellent water skis, for they invariably seek the lee shore of the lake.

"I recall a peculiar thing that happened years ago, and that is, I believe, Oak pond, near Aldenville, some eight or nine miles to the north and west of Homestead. By the way, this particular island is the largest of the lot so far as I know. In fact, the center rises fully ten feet above the water line. The farmer owning this island proposed erecting a summer house on the elevation, but was obliged to give it up owing to his inability to lay a proper foundation without driving piles, and to do that would result in nailing the island to the bottom.

"Well, as I was going to say, this island one day eloped with a southwest zephyr, which promptly deserted as soon as it had got its consort into the middle of the lake. There it floated in a solitary way, with no means of motion in itself and making time approaching. Presently the edge of a little breeze from the northwest struck the wanderer on the port quarter and things began to look a little brighter. Unfortunately for the island however, the center of the island was struck and landed a wind of equal intensity came up from the southeast and its edge caught the island on the starboard bow. In less than a minute these two contrary winds had that island spinning like a top. You can bet I saw this or not, as you like. I can show you the island any time that you'll come up to the old county.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The proportion of deaf mutes to the population is one to every 2,043. In 1881 there was one deaf mute to every 1,738 of the population. Physicians claim that this decrease is solely attributable to greater knowledge and care in the treatment of scarlatina in children.
