They are divided into four batches, and their ages range from 17 to 30. They come almost exclusively from Shima, Miyeken, a noted fishery centre in Japan. THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE. The teachers' institute came and went its way like a morning sun beam, under the superintendency of Professor Odin C. Gortner. It was as much a success as the fine weather that prevailed during the week. Professor Gortner handled it, as he does school work, as the born disciplinarian, and by the ladies he is considered a dandy. The order was better than in any previous institute held in the county within the period of a generation.

The personnel of the institute was youthful to such a degree as to awaken the general observation of visitors. Here and there was a veteran teacher, who longed for the time when teachers are to be pensioned like old soldiers, which the tax payers would like to do if some one would pension the tax payers. The youthful portion of the teachers seemed to be animated more by the feeling that their teaching is to be used as a stepping stone to something more congenial to their taste. It was a week joyfully spent mingling with each other. It was a treat to get to the county capitol and sing and talk and flirt and enjoy the companionship of a convention at the expense of the tax payers, and enjoy the electric lights at night, and the lectures and entertainments in the evening by people who studied and prepared for just such occasions. It was as much a treat for the teachers from the hills and valleys of this mountain girt county to get to the county seat as for county seat people to go to the capitol of the nation on a week's visit. Prof. Gortner called the institute to order promptly at the appointed time. Dr. S. C. Schumaker invoked the divine blessing, and ex-county superintendent D. M. Marshall was elected vice president, and D. M. Heterick was elected secretary, and E. E. Snyder assistant secretary. F. M. Pennell made the address of welcome, which was responded to by Harvey Dillnet. All the officers expressed thanks for the honor conferred upon them by this election, and then the institute was ready for business. Professor D. C. Ellis talked on the subject of "The Blue Juniata," and Dr. Schumaker dwelt upon the subject of "Nature," and Dr. J. P. Welsh discussed the subject of the "Human Brain."

On Monday evening Professor Ellis delivered a lecture on the "Biggest Word in the English Language." Possibility.

On Tuesday morning after the regular routine opening services, Miss Lilia E. Patridge requested the ladies to take off their hats. She did not say so, but all the young men and the old ones too, said under their voices, "that is a good thing to do, and it improves the appearance of the ladies and we can see to the front better."

Dr. Schumaker again took up and elaborated his subject "Nature." Dr. Welsh had not gotten through with the "Human Brain," and he too continued the consideration of the subject of Human Brain. Miss Patridge talked on the subject of "Child Study." Frank S. Fox addressed himself to the subject of "Primary Reading." Professor Fox continued the consideration of "Primary Reading" after dinner, and was followed on the same subject by another name. He called it Elementary Reading. After his address the reading course adopted by the committee on reading, are educational foundations,

Carpenters Geographical Reader. This was followed by Professor Ellis on the subject of "Idea of Education." Miss Patridge then entertained on the subject of "Child Study." ON TUESDAY EVENING. The Rogers Grillelly Recital took place. It was good, that which seem to take best was the old Waterloo corporals march to the time of the Girl that I left behind me, and the poetical recital and singing of "Green Guard The Rushes Oh," and the two boys washing a couple of teachers courtship and "Getting an Education."

WEDNESDAY MORNING. Professor Fox continued his subject "Primary Reading." Professor Ellis spoke to the subject of "School Government." Miss Patridge talked on "Written Language." Professor Little showed his skill at chalk drawing on the black board.

THURSDAY. It was Thanksgiving morning, Professor Fox in connection with scripture reading made appropriate remarks pertaining to the Thanksgiving occasion, after which Dr. Culp preached the Thanksgiving sermon from the text, "What is man that thou art mindful of Him." After the preaching Dr. Schumaker resumed his discourse on Nature Study. Professor Fox finished his address on Primary Reading and the directors held a convention which was lectured by Professor Fox on the subject of salary and the rights of teachers and directors.

Miss Patridge also talked to the directors, and Professor Snucker talked about birds and their habits.

THURSDAY EVENING. Was a musical entertainment by C. M. Parker Grand Concert Company. The music was good, but the best of it all was the elocutionary work of the elocutionist of the company. She was natural in her work, and the best the writer has listened to in Mifflintown.

At the close of his address a vote of thanks by rising to their feet was tendered him. Miss Patridge talked on the subject of language and made farewell remarks and received the thanks of the institute by a rising vote. Superintendent Gortner made the closing address, expressing his appreciation of the kindness and courtesy that the teachers manifested in their help to make the institute a success. Of the 112 teachers in the county, 110 attended the institute. A vote of thanks was extended to the instructors, to the music, to all who contributed to making the institute a success, to the superintendent for his management of the institute. A series of resolutions of the usual kind were passed, embracing one in favor of a law pensioning teachers, who have taught school twenty-five years.

FRIDAY EVENING. Was devoted to a lecture by George Wendling on the subject of Saul of Tarsus, in which was passed in eloquent review, the great empires that anti-dated the rise of the Jewish nation, from the time that Abraham galloped from his home across the valley of the Euphrates and became the father of the wonderful Jewish nation that has leavened the life of all modern nations with the spirit of a new religion, that was intolerant and exclusive till the paradoxical coming of the Redeemer, made it of general application to both Jew and Gentile with Paul of Tarsus as its world-wide messenger and missionary, after his marvellous conversion under the influence of the flash-light from the clouds and the voice from the clouds changed him from a man of murderous purpose to one of peace and good-will, teaching the life to come. Paul's appearance, his occupation, his travels, his work, his courage, his eloquence, his oratory, were learnedly dwelt upon and his satisfaction at the close of life, that the ride to Damascus was not a dream, and that he had fought the good fight were so pleasingly presented that the attention of the large audience was closely held to the last word good-night was said.

It is not like the many "bitters," "compounds" and "tonics," now so widely sold, which heat and inflame the blood, doing more injury than good. Favorite Remedy cures troubles of women just as certainly as it cures troubles of men. It restores the Liver to a healthy condition, and cures the worst cases of Constipation. It cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, all Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Diseases, Gravel, Diabetes and Bright's Disease. "My complaint was Stone in the Bladder.
