Uncle Sam Grants Few Requests For Passes on the Revenue Cutters Which Go Out to Meet the Steam ships From European Ports.

When it is generally understood, as it reperally is not, that fully 300 persons make application daily in season for passes to board incoming ocean steamers from revenue cutters and that not more than 2 per cent of the requests are granted. It may be understood how valuable the treasury department considers these privileges. The occurrence is rare, but is nevertheless legal for the master of the ship for which a pass

SUITS OF ARMOR.

The Last Battle In Which They Were Worn by European Soldiers

The last occasion, it is believed, which suits of armor were worn in battle by European soldiers was in 1790. The incident, according to chroniclers of the Napoleonie wars, took place in that year, when a small French force was holding the little fort at Aquilla in the Abruzzi against a rising of the hostile peasantry of the district.

The French were not strong end to fight their way through the lines of their opponents, who outnumbered them 20 to 1, while, as the latter had no guns, the Frenchmen could hold their position with confidence.

There were, however, left on the space lying between the opposing forces some dozen or so guns which the beleaguered had not been able to take with them into the fort.

THE CRIMEAN WAR.

Over a Door Key.

An attempt was made by the besieg ers to remove these guns by means of a long rope worked by a capstan placed in a house a short distance away, and, though their first endeavors resulted in failure, the French realized that the ultimate capture of the ordnance would seriously jeopardize the chances of the fort holding out.

The necessity of spiking the guns was apparent, but a sortle in the face of the overwhelming musketry fire of the insurgents was out of the question At this juncture an idea occurred to an artillery officer. He remembered having noticed, in making an inspection of
