There will be fewer democrats in the next Pennsylvania legislature than in the last. The tax-collectors were before the County Commissioners in the court house on Saturday. Albert Hackenberger has painted his grocery awning red on Washington street. W. H. Gallagher of Waterloo was on a business trip to the county seat on Saturday. A brisk but brief shower of rain fell at Mifflintown about 3 o'clock on Monday morning. The death rate in Juniata county last week was larger than in many previous weeks. The dashing rain on the evening of the 9th inst., extended only a couple of miles square. There was a brisk shower of rain on the evening of the 9th inst. The first rain in many days. Soldiering is a trade or business and army officers are the managers of the trade. Dr. Drew Crawford is home from a dental business sojourn of some weeks in New Orleans. He says New Orleans is not as warm as Juniata county.

Mr. James London of Waterloo visited the county seat on Saturday. The commissioners of Lycoming county this year do not tax bicycle riders. The picnic season is drawing to a close. The fall rains when they come will stop the fun. The red squirrel is said to destroy birds' nests, that is the squirrel robs the nests of eggs. The Pennsylvania railroad supervisors are putting their sections in order for the fall inspection. A good many people of this vicinity attended the Brown's Mills festival in Fayette township last Saturday. Farmers are on the look-out for roasting ear thieves, who take the stuff to the Lewistown market and there sell it. What will be the difference between the man in shirt sleeves and the man in shirt waist? After a couple of weeks outing at Atlantic City, Mr. and Mrs. John Thrush of Washington, D. C., are visiting Mrs. Thrush's mother Mrs. Ellen Allison. If you want to work hard and learn how to study you can get that at Mifflin Academy. Mr. Dy-singer has a reputation for doing the best kind of work. The ice plant at this place puts out 50 tons of ice every day. It is the purest ice that's made, purer than that formed on river or creek by zero winter weather. John Trego of Milford township, was thrown from his horse while riding the beast to pasture and was hurt. He was confined to the house a number of days. A couple in Venango, heaved 77 and she 67, were married last week when the thermometer registered 98 in the shade. It was James Meyers and Sarah Snell. Boys encountered a copperhead snake in the ravine south of town last Friday, killed the reptile, opened it and found many little snakes, which they killed. E. G. Sheaffer of Oriental was waylaid several nights ago by 3 negroes, who robbed him of his money and watch. When you go into that region at night carry a gun. A band of two hundred Chinese men left New York on Monday to return to China. They will leave America by way of Seattle. They have made money enough in New York to keep them all their lives in China. They are laundrymen, gamblers and merchants. A wild-cat paid a visit to the tent of a party camping near Hollidaysburg last Friday and a lively time was had. The men of the party cut clubs and clubbed it till it ran out of reach. Most of the women in the party fainted. A few cheered the men in their battle with the cat. The Newport Ledger says: Some of our delinquent subscribers are mighty good fellows, but that doesn't do us good in any way of paying our bills. This is intended as a gentle hint. Times are good now and there is no excuse for a man neglecting to settle his small accounts. Justice Garrison of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, appeared on the bench in Court in Camden last Friday in a silk shirt waist, white duck trousers, leather belt and frowning silk neck-tie and opened the court with the salutation, "Good morning, gentlemen. Have you any matter to bring before me this morning." For ways that are dark Lewistown stuns all others into silence by the report of Miss Mary Steely last Friday, August 10. Miss Steely says she was passing the Mifflin county National Bank corner with her pocket book in hand when a stranger took the pocket-book, removed the money, some eight dollars, handed the book back and threatened to shoot her if she raised an alarm. The outrage was so bold and unexpected that her tongue clove to the roof of her mouth. She could not utter a word.

Imperial—belonging to the Emperor. As for example, the imperial coat of arms, the coat of arms of the emperor—imperial belonging to the empire, the dominion of the emperor. Question referred to Bryan. The enemies of Senator Hertzler have been busy the past week talking against Hertzler to influence as much as they can voters in Perry and Mifflin counties to vote against him. The burden of their song is: "He's a Quay man," a machine man." Bryan delivered a long address on imperialism without telling what imperialism is. If he intended to play Hamlet, as the actor said, with Hamlet left out he succeeded. He does not say that was his intention, but he certainly said a great deal about imperialism without telling what imperialism is. When General Grant was president the democrats—that is some democrats called him an imperialist, that is they said he wanted imperial honors, such honors as are bestowed upon an emperor, the ruler of an empire, the ruler of a kingdom. They said he wanted to be a king. Question referred to Bryan. Some one says that the great drought is one of nature's ways of replenishing the soil with plant food for the next year's crops. That the invisible laws of nature supplies the dry ground with fertilizing ingredients from lower depth and from the atmosphere. What do you think of that view of a drought? One hundred in the shade in Philadelphia last Friday; York and Chicago. Thermometer records the past 50 years, indicate that the summers are getting warmer. The reason that someone wants to give is, the ice line from the north is gradually being drawn further north. The Bloomfield Times of the 10th inst., says: Boltz's threshing machine broke through a bridge east of town. Nothing was broken but the king bolt of the engine. The horse sale at Loyville was largely attended. Yet the sale was not a success. Only about half a dozen were sold and a few were disposed of at private sale. If Providence sends drought as a punishment to men Juniata county people were in need of a great deal of punishment for they have had a great deal of drought. The probability is the people would not mind the drought if it didn't pinch their pocket-books by lessening the crops and in that way cut down their income and destroy the fruits of their labor. The Agricultural department of the state under John Hamilton's administration, have brought two hundred and fifty-six prosecutions against impure food dealers. Ninety-seven cases for illegally selling oleomargarine. Forty-seven cases for selling impure vinegar. Nine cases for selling bad cheese; twelve cases for selling renovated butter; ten cases for selling bad milk. Mrs. Catherine Adams Thompson, wife of W. Patterson Thompson, deceased, died at her home in Logansport, Ind., on Aug. 9, 1906, after an illness of ten days of dysentery. She was a sister of the Misses Adams on Washington St., Mifflintown and Alton S. Adams of Walker township. Her husband died some years ago. She leaves three children, two daughters and a son. George Murray of Lancaster Co., was bitten by a copperhead snake while he was at work in a tobacco field on the 10th inst. He was a long distance from a doctor's office and started for the doctor's. While on the way he drank a quart of whisky and was so drunk when he reached the doctor's that he became unconscious. He was unconscious 24 hours, but will survive the bite and the whisky. Philadelphia heat 106 on Saturday. Michael Kirch, Sr., of near Spangler is said to be the oldest bicycle rider in Cambria county. He is 76 years old. A new process of making and cooling pig iron has been put into use in Chicago. Under the old process, several hours elapsed from the time the molten metal was run into the sand moulds till it could be taken out in pigs. By the new process, in three or four minutes the mould till the pigs may be lifted out to the cars. Six men by the new process do as much work as 250 men under the old process. Soap serves many purposes as almost everyone knows. Kader perhaps you know how some glib tongue faked a soap game over you. A new soap game is now reported by newspapers. A fakir drives through the country selling soap at five dollars a box, which soap includes the price of 40 yards of carpet selected from sample pieces in his wagon. He takes the $5. Leaves a box of soap worth 50 cents. The fakir, if you received it would probably be worth fifteen dollars, but you never afterwards hear of fakir or carpet. You have 50 cents worth of soap. He has $4.50 of your money. Jonas Hertzler formerly a citizen of Juniata county, was dangerously ill not fatally injured by the explosion of an empty whisky barrel at his home in Cumberland valley. He had purchased an empty whisky barrel in Mechanicsburg. The bung hole was so small. He heated a rod of iron, got astride of the barrel and proceeded to enlarge the hole by burning its edge with the red hot iron rod. Gas, vapor or whatever of an explosive nature in the barrel exploded with a noise that was heard a mile distant. The barrel staves were scattered over the premises and Mr. Hertzler was picked up more dead than alive. There are cuts and gashes in his face. His body is bruised and he is hurt internally.

class where everyone belonged geologically. A wag of a boy placed a piece of brick-bat among the specimens. The Professor took up one piece after another and classified each piece. When he took up the piece of brick-bat he looked it over carefully and then scrutinized each member of the class and remarked: Young gentlemen this stone is a piece of impudence. What will be said in the hundred years to come when the stones with iron pins in them are dug out of the foundation walls of the Lutheran church now being built. A few nights since near the city of Columbus, Ohio, an express car was entered by robbers. The express messenger shot dead and the car was captured in Columbus on Sunday. Charles R. H. Ferrill is his name. He was at one time employed by the company. He confessed the robbery. He knew Lane the agent he killed. He provided himself with a revolver and went to the station at Urban where the train stopped. He told Lane the agent in charge of the car that he was out of money and asked permission to ride. His request was granted. When Lane's back was turned he shot the messenger dead, fired five bullets into him, took the key of the safe, opened the safe, took out money packages, money orders, placed them in a small satchel and rode to Plain city. There the train stopped. He got off, went to a hotel, took a room. In the room he took the money out of the packages. He fastened his revolver in the spring of the bed. The express material he tied in a bundle, went in the morning to the express office, expressed it to a fictitious address in distant city and then took a car for Columbus. He was in a state of great worry, called to see the girl he was so sorry, bought some clothes. Detective soon got track of him and found him with his girl. He was arrested, put in jail and there broke down and confessed as above stated. His wedding day was fixed for Thursday, August 16. The young lady he was to marry was shocked almost to death. He had given her one thousand dollars of the blood money. She speedily gave it to the officers. Mrs. Elder wife of Dr. Thomas Elder lost her life at her home in Aurora, Illinois, on the 11th inst., under exceedingly distressing circumstances. She had touched a match to a burner in a coal oil stove in their kitchen with the intention of preparing dinner. The turn-down of the burner was fast. She could not control the fire. The fire shot up as high as the ceiling. To keep the house from taking fire she laid hold of the stove, which was on wheels and started to run it out of the kitchen. She succeeded in getting it out of the room onto a porch. A stairs of three or four steps led from the porch to the ground. The stove angled on the steps, coal oil splashed out over her dress and in a flash her clothes were aflame. The oil in the stove tank took fire and exploded the stove. Through the exertions of her daughters and neighbors heavy bed spreads were thrown over Mrs. Elder and the fire in that way was extinguished, not in time however, to save her from fatal burning. Everything on her person excepting her shoes were burned off. An ambulance was secured and she was taken to the hospital. On the way there she said she had no feeling of pain and expressed the belief that her burns were not deep or dangerous. She lay quietly all afternoon at 6 o'clock in the evening of that day she passed away so quietly that the friends about her did not for the time being realize the change. Mrs. Elder's maiden name was Julia Sulouff, daughter of Henry Sulouff, late of Fernanagh, Juniata county, Pa., deceased. Her husband Dr. Thomas Elder was born in Mifflintown and it was here that they first took up house-keeping. They have many relatives and acquaintances in this town and vicinity, who all feel and express the deepest sympathy in this time of distress that has overtaken the doctor and his family.
