

B. F. SCHWEIBER, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL FOR PRESIDENT. Wm. McKinley of Ohio.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT. Theodore Roosevelt of New York.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET FOR AUDITOR GENERAL, Edmund B. Hardenbaugh, of Wayne.

CONGRESSMAN-AT-LARGE, Galusha A. Grow, of Susquehanna, Robert S. Foerderer, of Philadelphia.

COUNTY TICKET. CONGRESS. Thad. M. Mahon. STATE SENATOR. James W. McKee.

ASSEMBLY. T. K. Beaver. REGISTER & RECORDER. D. Samuel Leonard.

SHERIFF. Joseph M. Evans. JURY COMMISSIONER. David G. Shellenberger.

By Bryan and a democratic Congress be elected, look out for the greatest financial disturbance since the days of the democratic slaveholders rebellion.

If you vote for Keller you vote for a democratic United States Senator, who will be a Bryan man, and Bryan in the Presidential chair with a Bryan Congress means the greatest financial revolution since the days of the rebellion. Stay on the safe side. Vote for McKee for State Senator and Beaver for Assembly.

When Democrat James Buchanan became President, the whole financial system of the country fell to pieces. So if Bryan and a democratic Congress be elected the present financial system will be uprooted and the greatest financial panic you ever dreamed of will take place. So don't venture to vote for Hocking for Congress; don't vote for Keller for Senate; don't work for Hocking for Assembly. They are all jolly millionaires, but in Congress, in the State Senate, in the State Legislature, they would be like politicians in the hands of the Bryan leaders.

Between two and two hundred thousand coal miners quit work on Monday. The strike will affect a million people directly and indirectly. It will affect every branch of business in the stricken communities. It destroys the business of both employer and employee. There are few men outside of the bosses, who have forced the strike, who can see any good to the miner and his family to strike when winter is at the door, and the season is at hand when people need more supplies of all kinds than at any other time in the year to keep them alive and comfortable. It is their work however and if it did not affect other people one might say of them as they make their bid, they must live it.

When a storm comes in from the sea like the one that came in and destroyed Galveston last week, destroying the lives of several thousand people and destroying property valued at millions of dollars, it sets the mind of men to thinking about the towns that are located on the low-lands along the sea-shore. How soon a storm like that at Galveston could destroy a place like Atlantic City. Atlantic City may never be visited by such a storm. The Holland centuries ago experienced the powers of the sea, and they have raised embankments along the coast line of their country to keep out the sea when it becomes tempestuous. There are low-lands along the United States that will have to be protected in that way, if they are to be continued habitable places.

The first fighting people had a quarrel or rather Jim Corbett, a prominent fist fighter, had a quarrel with his wife and she has been telling some secrets of the ring that the public did not know. The public did not know that the prize fighters manage the fights themselves, that is they arrange it among themselves, who is to be defeated. Tom will arrange with Dick before they go into the ring which one is to be whipped. That is an old dodge of the horse racing ring carried into the fist fighting ring. The horse jockeys can arrange among themselves what horse shall win a race. Mrs. Corbett says the fist fighters do the same thing, and the betting public have the wool pulled over their eyes. It is betting ignorantly unless one is close enough to the horse jockeys and the prize-fighters to get information from them as to which horse is to win or which prize fighter is to win the fight. These days the honest prize fight is a fight between two chickens and dogs, for when they fight they fight for the sake of a fight and not for money, and there is no system of management by which one chicken or dog may have the fight in him so reduced that it can be determined that his opponent cannot fail of winning the battle unless the one be given booze or other drug to lessen his power to fight. Mrs. Corbett's exposure of the trickery of prize-fighters will result in public good.

DEATH IN THE VIAL.

THE FIFTH TABLET CARRIED A DOSE THAT WAS FATAL.

Why the Doctor Had a Prescription That Misfortune Had Overtaken a Wealthy Planter—How the Story of the Crime Unfolded.

The story was told by a police commissioner of another city who was in New Orleans recently on a visit. "The most ingenious murder I ever knew anything about," he said, "was committed by a young physician. He was a rising practitioner at a place where I formerly lived, and with your permission, I will speak of him simply as Dr. Smith.

"About a dozen years ago, as nearly as I remember, this young man went on a visit to a relative in a neighboring city, and one afternoon, on the third or fourth day of his stay, he started a lady member of the household by remarking that he had a feeling that some misfortune had overtaken a wealthy planter whom they both knew very well, and whom he will call Colonel Jones. The colonel was a prominent resident of the doctor's home town and had a large outlying estate, which he was in the habit of visiting once a week.

"On the day of Smith's singular prediction he was on one of those tours of inspection, but failed to come back, and the following morning his corpse was found lying in a cornfield. He had evidently been dead about 24 hours at the time the body was discovered, and it was found to have been set with some sort of fit or convulsion. "Of course the affair created a great stir, and the police made a pretty thorough investigation, but the only thing they found that merited any special attention was a small, round vial in the dead man's vest pocket. It was about the diameter of a lead pencil but four inches long, and had four inches continued a couple of dozen medicinal tablets, which meant in the top of the other, filled the little bottle to the cork. A few still remained in the bottom.

"Upon inquiry it was learned without trouble that the tablets were a harmless preparation of soda, and that Jones himself had bought them at a local drug store. That called suspicion in that quarter, and for lack of anything better, the coroner returned a verdict of death from sunstroke. There was no autopsy. "Some time after Jones had been buried," continued the police commissioner, "I learned accidentally of Dr. Smith's curious prophecy, and it set me to thinking. Eventually I evolved a theory, but it was impossible at the time to sustain it with proof, and for five or six years I kept it pigeonholed in my brain, waiting for something to happen. Meanwhile, to everybody's surprise, Dr. Smith went to the dogs. He began by drinking heavily, and finally lost his practice, and finally skipped out to avoid prosecution for cashing a fake draft. After his flight I learned enough to absolutely confirm my theory as to Jones' death. What had happened was this: Jones had given a note, upon which he had forged his father's name as indorser. The planter was pressing him for payment and had threatened suit, which meant inevitable exposure. One day, while they were conversing, Jones pulled out a little glass vial and swallowed one of the tablets it contained, remarking that he took one daily, after dinner, for sour stomach.

"That suggested a diabolical scheme of assassination, which the doctor proceeded to put into execution. Repairing to his office, he made up a duplicate tablet of strychnine, and, encountering the colonel next day, asked him to let him have the vial for a moment, so he could copy the address of the makers from the label. "Jones handed it over unsuspectingly, and while his attention was briefly diverted elsewhere Smith put in the poison. It was placed in the top four, thus making it reasonably certain that his victim would take it on the fifth day from that date. Next morning he left town, so as to be far away when the tragedy was accomplished, and he never returned, uncontrollable impulse evidently led him to make the prediction that first excited my suspicion.

"When I made a check of all this, I located Smith in Oklahoma and was on the point of applying for an extradition warrant when he anticipated me by contracting pneumonia and dying. I thereupon returned the case to its mental pigeonhole, where it has remained ever since. "Upon one day asking," said one of the listeners, "but is that really a true story, or are you entertaining us with interesting fiction?" "It is absolutely true," replied the narrator.

"But how did you learn the particulars?" "Well," said the police commissioner, smiling, "Smith was like most clever criminals—he had one weak spot. He was fool enough to tell a woman. She blabbed."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

ATE COURSE DINNERS. A woman just arrived from Australia has recently negotiated with an agent in London for a house in one of the newer districts of Kensington. She asked if it was a nice neighborhood. "It is thoroughly desirable, madam," replied the house agent. "They are without exception soup and fish families."

IT IS NOT CORRECT to say that a girl "renders" a song. If she lives long enough to become of some use to the world, she may some day render lard, but she can't render a song.—Aitchison Globe.

SAVED BY SEAWEED. "I was once saved by seaweed," said an old sea captain, "down in the Falkland Islands. We were being washed on a lee shore when the skipper, an old fellow from Nova Scotia, picked up a stick that was floating on the water and hauled it in until it got pretty near as big as a man's body; then he made it fast, and we swung by it, as good as cable as you would want to see, and it was the roughest things."—Philadelphia Press.

MECHANISM OF A FISH. People marvel at the mechanism of the human body, with its 462 bones and 60 arteries, but man is simple in this respect compared with the carp. That remarkable fish moves no fewer than 4,386 bones and muscles every time it breathes. It has 4,320 veins to say nothing of its 99 muscles.

Court Proceedings

The regular Argument Court for September, was held on Tuesday, the 18th inst.

The following business was transacted:— Jos. Nelmond, Esq., with his report as Auditor in the estate of George Waldsmith, a supposed decedent. The auditor finding the supposed decedent to be alive, awarded the estate to George Waldsmith. Daniel W. Beasore was granted a peddler's license.

PORT ROYAL FAIR.

Those who last year expressed the belief that the Carlisle Indians drew the great crowd to Port Royal, had no such basis to found the crowd on that attended the fair last Thursday. The fact is Port Royal Fair time is becoming a county re-union season with the agricultural association as a nucleus to furnish grounds and buildings in which to exhibit the products of the household, shop and farm, and entertainments, and track on which to speed horses, with a small admission fee to pay for the running expenses and gradual liquidation of the debt incurred in purchasing the ground and erecting the buildings. The most popular thing on the ground last Thursday was the well and it kept a steam engine working to supply the people with drinking water, and the man who handed out the drinks had not time to look around or flirt with the girls. It was probably the third best day ever assembled on the grounds as it had good reason to be on account of the unprecedented drought and dust. The race track in front of the grandstand was kept sprinkled so that the trotters could be seen with satisfaction and the spectators kept from getting more than two pecks of Juniata dirt this year. The race went off finely according to program. The exhibition of live stock was larger than in many past years and everyone was on the tip-toe of expectancy to see Colonel Moorehead's Angora goats. Goats whose pedigree run back to Asia minor, to a date long before the Christian era dawned. Now render don't fall into a mistake and say that the Sentinel and Republican are ever associated with more than 2000 years old. It only meant that the ancestors of the Colonel's goats came from Asia minor where the animal was cultivated more than two thousand years ago. It would have been a sight worth seeing. A herd of Angoras in their silky hair, eight inches long. Their hair, fleece, is worth 30 to 35 cents a pound, but the Colonel's goats did not materialize. There were handsome black legged, black faced and black eared sheep on the ground. Floral Hall had a percentage of heirloom quilts and other bed-room finery and jellies galore and other good things to eat. The Colonel's goats are more than 2000 years old. A herd of Angoras in their silky hair, eight inches long. Their hair, fleece, is worth 30 to 35 cents a pound, but the Colonel's goats did not materialize. There were handsome black legged, black faced and black eared sheep on the ground. Floral Hall had a percentage of heirloom quilts and other bed-room finery and jellies galore and other good things to eat. The Colonel's goats are more than 2000 years old. It only meant that the ancestors of the Colonel's goats came from Asia minor where the animal was cultivated more than two thousand years ago. It would have been a sight worth seeing.
