Thad, M. Mahon. STATE SENATOR. ASSEMBLY. T. K. Beaver. REGISTER & RECORDER. D. Samuel Leonard SHERIFF. Joseph M. Evans. JURY COMMISSIONER. David G. Shellenberger

WHEN Mr. Cleveland was President he vetoed 560 pension bills. Republican Presidents never vetoed a pension bill. Mr. Cieveland's post office department was instructed to see to it that the post-masters should send in a list of names of pensioners who in their opinion should be dropped from the pension roll. There were pensioners in Juniata county dropped from the pension roll and that was the way it was brought about. The post-masters were also instructed to report a list of peasioners whose pension should be reduced and Juniata county pensioners know how pension drops and pension reductions were plainly visible throughout the eaunty. The Cleveland pension department dropped 6423 names from the pension rolls and they reduced the pensions of 20,350 veterans. The pension raductions amounted to $16,819,911.-87, which is more money than the state government of Pennsylvania receives and pays out in one year. If Bryan gets into power with a supporting Congress, the same thing will happen to the pensioner on an enlarged scale. If you want to cut the pensioners, vote for Heading for Congress and Keller for State Senate. Keller if elected to the Senate will vote for a Democratic United States Senator and that will be in the direction of a cut on the pensions. By voting for Mahon for Congress and McKee for State Senator, you

A fire in the town school house on last Thursday afternoon created a stampede among the pupils. The announcement that the school house had taken fire immediately gave rise to remarks on the street that the fire was incentional and for the purpose of getting rid of the present school building as a preparatory step to the erection of a new school house. Just what grounds of suspicion there were for such remarks has not been particularly inquired into. If there is ground for suspicion that someone wants to barn the school house for the purpose of having another house built, it was a mistake to say that the fire on Thursday was a move in that direction. The fire on Thursday came from the heater. The morning was cool and the janitor was fastructed to put fire in the heaters. He did as he was instructed. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon the teacher of school No. 3 and her pupils at one and the same time noticed smoke coming from around the edges of the register in that room in the heater chimney. The heater chimney is of brick with tin lining and it seemel strange that smoke should come out at such a place. But there was no mistake the fire was there ready to burst into a blaze in the wain scoting that had been constracted too close to the outlet of the heater flue into the reom. A bucket of water in the room was brought and the fire was put out. Roon No. 3 is an upstairs room on the south side of the building, and the fire there was caused by the wains oting igniting. The wains coting when it was constructed by the curpenters was placed to close to the heater flue. The edge of the wainscoting around the heater flue was allowed by the carpenters to be almost even with inside edge of the flae. With the register to cova: the nearness of the wainscot ing to the flue no one would suspast the nearness of inflamable pine material to the mouth of the flue in the room. The heat coming from the furnace in the cellar up against the edge of the pine-Wain 33 cotting was enough to set it on fire, and the wonder is that the bail ting has escaped conflagration. Tages should not be another fire kin l'el in the heaters till all the registers in the building are taken off and an examination made as to ready to speak out: the neurness of wainescoting and other wood-work to the heater

SCENES THAT USED TO THRILL AUDIENCES YEARS AGO.

Ludlerous Mishap That Oue Ploored Frank Mayo in the Climax In "Davy Crockett"-A Crude Fire Scene That Was Very Popular.

"Great Scott, how a modern andlace would gibe at the stage effects that used to thrill folks thirty or so years ago!" said an old theatrical man- but if he whas a philosopher he would ager who was in the city recently en route to Frisco. "Take the famous well scene in 'Davy Crockett,' for instance, that made a fortune for dear old Frank Mayo. That was considered one of the most realistic things of its day, and it stirred audiences to absolutely frantle excitement. You remember how it went: Davy and the beroine have taken refuge in a mountain cablu, and suddenly they hear a long drawn wail - Ow-o-o-o-o! Ow-o-o-o-o: It sounded like a toment on a moonlit fence and was emitted by the 'prop' man, standing in the wings. Davy springs to his feet. He listens with his hand to his ear. The orchestra plays tremolo. "The wolves!" be eries, and the horse begins to hold its breath.

"Meanwhile the prop man puts on more steam. The beasts are nearing. Davy glares around distractedly. Merciful herings! He has burned up the door har for fuel! The prop man see howls at the top of his voice. Davy dashes up his sleeve. He springs to the door, rams his bare arm through the empty staples, and two stuffed leetle. wolves' heads are poked suddenly through a hole at the bottom! Then the curtain drops, there is more tremolo, and it rises again to discover Davy fainting at the portal with a couple of streaks of red paint around his good right arm to show where the staples pinched. That scepe would excite derision teday, but it kept the wolf from Mayo's own door for many a long year. Incidentally it was responsible for some ludlerous mishaps. "On one occasion, while touring through Iowa, the special scenery was delayed by a railread wreck and a local stage enrpeater undertook to 'fake up' the cabin interior. By some mistake be made the staples several inches too small, and when Mayo, who was rather portly, rushed to the rescue he was horrified to discover that he could not get his arm through the irons. He pushed and squirmed and sweat blood, but it was no go, and as the wolves were supposed to be advancing on a dead lope the situation was decidedly critical. It so happened that the actress who played the heroine that season was very spirituelle, not to say scrawny, and while poor Davy was still wriggling at the door some gallery god suddenly piped out; 'Break away, fatty, and let de lady try! The audience roared and Mayo signaled for a quick curtain.

"Fire effects are regarded with disfavor nowadays," continued the manager, "because if too realistic they are was no danger of mistaking them for folks together?" the real thing, and they were great drawing cards. Back in the early seventles Joe Murphy, the Irish come-den in San Francisco, Presently a back, carrying a lamp; and a moment later a crash was heard, indicating that he had dropped it. A red glow immediately came through the chinks in the rear wall and grew rapidly brighter and brighter, while there was a sound of excited footsteps, indistinct shouting and furniture being dragged across the floor. All that, occurring out of sight. worked the audience to a high pitch of nervous tension. Then smoke began to coze through the cracks, the red glow continued to increase, and all of a sudden the entire back wall tottered and sank forward on the stage, disclosing a dire perspective with dames shooting up here and there and themen | ington Star.

rushing pelimell in every direction. "That spectacle created a tremendou sensation wherever it was put on, yet the entire effect was produced by a few shovelfuls of red fire burned in the wings and a little lycopedium powder, which fashes into a big, harmless blaze and was concented in tin ooxes attached to different parts of the set ting. The back wall was let down on a couple of piano wires, which used to get stuck occasionally and suspend it in midair. There was a celebrated fire scene in Chanfran's play of 'Mose,' but it was admitted to be inferior to the one I have described, and the cruditles of both are very laughable when compared to modern attempts along the same line.

"The last thing of that kind I saw was in London a few years ago. It represented the burning of a tenement Smoke and flames poured out of the casements; !mmense beams crashed down, scattering showers of sparks; walls crumbled, people leaped from the windows and were caught in nets, and firemen sent streams of real water into the blazing rulus. As I watched the ment in Mifflintown Presbyterian mimic conflagration my mind reverted to the days of Chanfrau and Murphy. and I smole several smiles a yard wide and all teeth."-New Orleans Times-

The Explanation.

One morning the readers of a certain newspaper were perplexed to see in sion yesterday." The afternoon paper of the town, with which the morning paper for years had held a bitter controversy, interesting none but themselves, laughed that day, as the poets say, "in ghoulish glee," and it was up $12; wheat straw $7; lard 7 to 8c. to the morning paper the next day to explain that "the types" made them say that the Scotus did so and so when the telegraph editor should have known that that word was merely the abbreviation of the telegrapher for supreme court of the United States.

Municipal ownership long ago passed out of the stage of theory and experiment, if, in fact, it ever belonged there. Centuries before America was discovered public ownership of public utiliies was highly developed. The city of Rome 2,000 years ago possessed its splendid public baths, its superb aqueducts and other utilities owned and managed by the government.

Judge Woodward will in a few days institute proceedings against Mr. Garman for contempt of court, the charges to be based upon the abuse of the Judge by Garman in his speech at the recent democratic county convention, and also in saloons, in the streets of the city and elsewhere.
