"If he (Belknap) was only a barnacle' siid a prominent Republican at Washing ton, "he could be scraped off and no harm would be done; but he is a part of a wen, and to cut it all out may prove dangerous to the patient.

It is now alleged that there is suffi cient evidence to convict every member of the Cabinet except Bristow and Fish including Grant and other high officials. The lips of old army officers will now be unclosed and startling developments made of the corruption and rottenness of the present Administration.

There is abundant material to work on, and as a prominent Republican remarks, another Belknap case and the Cincinnati Convention will not be held. If the people of this country will submit to a further extension of the Republican party, they are no longer fit for self-government.
