An air of self-importance never deceives anybody but the wearer.

Ecru is the fashionable shade for everything this spring. It is French for unbleached. -Persons having books belonging to the Montrose Reading Room Association are requested to return them to Dr. Halsey without delay.

-J. F. Brorson and E. McKenzie have each received a stock of new spring goods, reduced their prices, and commenced the business of the Centennial year in earnest. Read their respective advertisements on the third page of to-day's DEMOCRAT.

-With the opening of spring comes busi ness encouragements. Our merchants are all looking for better times. + Binghamton Demo-

As much may be said of Montrose. Watch our advertisement columns.

-The Bradford Era says, that on the Bradford Branch of the Eric Railway there is a house wherein the father sits in Pennsylvania, the mother in the state of New York, the son in the county of McRean, the daughter in Cattaraugus county, N. Y., the Grandmother in one town and the grandchild in another, and the hired man in a state of ecstacy looks out upon a flowing oil well.

A trick has been discovered in Rochester they hire men to beg, in one case $120 a year each being paid. These men are provided with a paper detailing family misfortunes and troubles, and many of them realize considerable sums on their travels, for they are sent to other cities. A gang of this kind was captured in Rochester and made to pay a good portion of their dishonest gams into the city treas-

-The Senate at Harrisburg has passed a bill relating to the costs in criminal prosecutions, exclusive of murder and voluntary manslaughter. It provides that when grand jurors ignore bills they must decide whether the county or the prosecutor shall pay the costs, and that in cases where the grand jury determines that the prosecutor shall pay the costs the court shall forthwith proceed to pass sentence to that effect, and order them to be committed to fail until the costs are paid, or until he is discharged by due process of law, unless he gives security to pay the cost within ten days.

The latest thing in the line of swindles has recently appeared in Troy. A young girl of ten or twelve years of age, directed, of course, by male or female sharpers who do not appear in the transaction at all-enters the store of any kind, and laying down a ten cent scrip asks to be obliged by two five cent pieces. Receiving them, she departs only to return in a few minutes holding in her hand a leaden fac-simile of a five cent coin, which she says is "not good." The merchant readily exchanges it, giving no thought to the matter. In this manner a smart girl can easily earn for her managers several dollars per day.

-It is a great year for the old man. Grandfathers who have been neglected and made to feel that they are in the way, and wished they were dead, who have long been thrust away in the kitchen and left to mumble to themselves in the chimney corner, are astonished by being brushed up an evening and brought into the parlor, where they are shown off, to the company as Centennial relics. "Grandfather, you knew Washington, didn't you?" screams a granddaughter in his ear, for he is very deat.-"Yes, yes," says the grandfather, "the Gin're borrer'd a chaw terbaccer of me many and many a time!" The old man is going to Philadelphia sure.

-- There is considerable effort being made by some of our citizens to have a Centennial celebration of our nation's birthday. 'This is certainly a worthy cause, and we have no dispositon to infer that any but the highest patriotic motives inspire the action of all who are foremost in the enterprise The Centennial committee of the state requested that each county in the state shall have a historical orator whose oration shall form a part of a Centennial state history. The idea has occurred to us that If our orator be true to the history of the county and faithfully presents the facts respecting the Soldier's Monument fund, which is "on interest" and has been for the last eight or nine years every honest and patriotic citizen will blush with shame to have it recorded in the archives of the state. While we would give every encouragement in our power for a genuine old fashioned Independence celebration in this county, yet we hope it never will be allowed to take place until that sacred covenant with the "boys in white" has been fulfilled, and something exected in their memory, in accordance with the promise made to those who freely and patriotically gave material aid for that object. No honest man or true patriot will enjoy listening to a spread eagle oration from some "cornfield soldier" who fought, bled and perhaps died (politically) at the ballot-box, while the silent warriors that gave their lifeblood for their country, and who endured the hardships and met the dangers of "the front" in our stead, profession of patriotism if a celebration takes place on the fourth day of July next, to celebrate our nation's birth, and the money which its future life, is still found "upon interest." For shame! Let no such hypocrisy appear!

CARELESS USE OF FIREARMS.—The follow ing bill has finally passed the legislature:

Be it enucted, etc., That any person within this common wealth who shall playfully or wantonly point or discharge a gun, pistol, or other firearms at any other person, shall be guilty of onment not exceeding one year, or either or others. The pledge was circulated and signed both, at the discretion of the court.

A MEMORABLE HOUSE.—There is a log house in Perry county which was used as a defense by the early settlers against the attacks of the Indians. A local historian in the New Bloomfield Democrat says: It is built something after the plan of a block house, close and compact, of large logs, hewed on each side, and some of them measuring twenty-two inches in width on the face sides, and being dove-tailed at the ends, brings the logs close togethermaking it very strong. It is now over 100 years old and looks as if it might last another century. The Indian bullets are imbedded four or five inches deep in the logs and many of them have been taken out and you can see plainly the round mark where they lay.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A son of John Carmody, residing at Wyalusing, has been employed as a watchman on the railroad bridge at that place. He was about seventeen years of age, sober and industrious, and much beloved by all his acquaintances. Young Carmody (we did not learn his christian name) was in the habit of going out on gunning excursions, whenever he had leisure. Last Friday afternoon, having a short respite from the duties of his position, he took his gun and went into the wagon bridge, near the mouth of the Wyalusing Creek, to look for muskrats. He climbed up into the timbers supporting the cover of the bridge, to make observations along the bank of the stream. As he was getting down the hammer of the gun caught in something projecting and went off, lodging its contents in his left side. killing him instantly. He was dreadfully mangled and presented a fearful sight to those who had seen him but a few moments before in the flush of youth and health. The whole community sympathize with the afflicted parents in their sad bereavement. The young man's remains, were brought to Towarda, on Monday last, for burial in the Catholic Cemetery. The family are widely known and respected in this vicinity, as well as at Wyalusing, their present residence. - Towarda Argus.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.—On Friday night of Susq's co,) with his parents when about one last week sometime after midnight, Mrs. Burnett, the wife of a miner, went to the Rough and Ready shaft to see her son, who was at work on the night shift. It was very dark and she had some difficulty in finding her way to the opening. At last she arrived there, and while waiting for the carriage to ascend, she in some mysterious manner slipped on the edge of the shaft, and in a moment she was hurled headlong into the dark abyss, three hundred feet to the bottom. Of course she was instantly killed, and her mangled remains were subsequently gathered up and brought to the surface, while many a tearful eye looked with horror upon the picture presented by the disfigured body as it was borne to her late residence.-Pittston Comet.

BINGHAMTON AND DUSHORE RAILROAD.-A bill has been introduced into the New York Legislature authorizing the Binghamton, Dushore & Williamsport Railroad Company, to use the Chenango canal extension south of the Susquehanna river for a railroad. It was brought before the Senate by Mr. Lamont on permanent organization, and making suitable Thursday, and before the Assembly yesterday by Mr. Monroe. The following gentlemen are named in the bill as directors: Ausburn Birdsall, R. T. Hagaman, M. T. Morgan, A. C. Matthews, D. M. sheba H. Ely, aged 68 years.

Sister Elv was known by the people of Brooklyn, for the last half century, and known as an industrious, amiable, Christian woman. She gave her heart to the Saviour early in life and has been a faithful member of the M. E. Church for about forty-six years. Her last sickness was short and severe, but she bore her suffering with fortitude and Christian submission. As she lived a faithful believer, she died in Holy triumph. As she approached death she had no fear but requested her trien's to sing

> Come sing to me of Heaven When I am about to die."

Afterwards she said, "I am almost home," and left this world and entered into the rest that remaineth to the people of God. Brooklyn, March 13, 1876. J. H. WESTON.

year old, and located at what has been known as Summersville. This was in 1793. Here he grew to manhood, and here he lived and died -honored and respected by all who knew him. He was the youngest of five brothers all of whom are deceased. Two of the brothers, Calvin and James, were also residents of Summeraville.

We doubt if there is another instance of eighty-one years continued and uninterrupted residence in this county.

Mr. Summers after reaching the age of seven years lived three fourths of a century in the county. He was doubtless the last of those early pioneers, most of whom long ago passed away.

The genial pleasant countenance of "Uncle Ira" will be sadly missed, not only in the immediate home-circle, but in the neighborhood and among his wide circle of acquaintances.
