---George Peck, D. D., the pioneer of Methodism in this region, and brother of Bishop Jesse Peck, died in Scranton last Saturday, in his seventy piuth year. He became a preacher at the age of eighteen, and came to this vicinity to spread the gospel when the site where Scranton city now stands was a complete wilderness. He was the author of many works, including a history of Wyoming Valley, and in 1848 was elected editor in-chief of the Christtan Advocate. For several years past he has held a superannuated relation with the Wyoming Methodist Episcopal Conference.

__A frightful and very sad accident occurred upon the Gravity rail road near the pump house, on Wednesday afternoon. A daughter of Mr. Michael, a merchant on Shanty Hill, aged about 11 years, in going for water crossed the double track passed between their residence and the spring. While crossing, her attention was momentarily diverted by some unusual noise made by the cars, and was knocked down and run over by approaching cars she had not observed, and instantly killed. The accident was a most shocking one, and the grief stricken parents have the deepest sympathies of the community.—Carbondale Advance.

—It has been decided that when a horse or carriage is let out for hire for the purpose of performing a particular journey, the party letting warrants the horse or carriage fit and competent for such a journey. It the hirer treats the horse or carriage as any prudent man would do, he is not answerable for any damage that either may receive. But he must use the horse for the purpose for which he hired him. For instance, a horse hired for saddle must not be used in harnes. If the hirer violates this express condition of the contract, he is liable for any damage that may occur. It the horse is stolen through the hirer's negligence, such as leaving the stable door open all night, he must answer for it. But if he is robbed of it by highwaymen, when traveling the usual road at | Times. usual hours, he cannot be held for damages.-As these questions are frequently in dispute these decisions may be interesting.

--- Chester county officials supplied the lawyers with paper gratuitously for court house purposes, but it was discovered that many of them appropriated large quantities of it to office use. The matter was called to the attention of the court, and one of the commissioners called before Judge Butler said that the board had never for one moment entertained a doubt as to it being right and proper to furnish all of the paper that the court proper might need in the transaction of its business, but they had lately decided that the lawyers were not entitled to the same recognition, and had therefore refused to allow any upon such requisition.-Judge Butler informed him that he heartily coincided with the board in the matter, but he thought it was a matter that would bear some argument, and he therefore would order it to be heard at the next term of argument court.— The judge stated that the supreme court had decided some time ago that the county officers were not entitled to either paper or heat at the county's expense.

---Troy, N. Y., has just had a startling sensation. A newspaper man charged one Dr. Camp with having sold an infant out of the county house to the wife of Jack Goddard, a cornet player. On a trial for libel the editor proved the truth of the charge, and was acquitted, but the facts developed caused a breaking up of the Goddard family. It seems that Mrs. Goddard was unblessed with children. Her husband's love for her was unbounded, but she knew that he would love her better could she only present him with a pledge. She began, too, to fear that if she should remain childless, his affection would die away; so she thought to deceive him, by purchasing a child by bribing Dr. Camp to get one out of the alms house for her during one of his protracted absences with a traveling show. The husband was overjoyed on his return, and the wife living in the security of Dr. Camp's promise of secresy, grief stricken husband wrote to his wife, enclosing Camp's letter, and told her that he could never live with her again. She is now in straightened circumstances and overwhelmed with grief and shame, but clings to the babe with the love of a true mother and refuses to part with it. There is some hope that through the kind offices of friends the unhappy pair may be brought together again, as the fault committed by the wife was not a criminal one. and was intended rather to promote the happi- four hundred feet, where he was literally smashness of her husband.

The Supreme Court has affirmed the judgement of the Pike County Courts in favor of Braddock R. Dunning, of Middletown, N. Y., against D. M. Van Auken, of Milford. The suit was brought for the recovery of a $2,500 judgment against Van Auken, which had been bought by Dunning, at the solicitation of, and to accommodate, the former. Defendant resisted payment on the ground that as the judgment had been bought for less than the face value, it was an usurious transaction. The Court decided that there was no usury in the case-the plaintiff had a right to buy the judgment for any sum he pleased, and could collect

The work of changing the guage of the panies as many of them are not half way up to D. L. & W. Railway was completed Saturday last and the trains started regularly on Monday. The entire number of men employed in the work of Saturday, it is impossible to learn, but it is estimated by railroad officials as nearly two thousand, or an average of eight to the mile on the portion of the road which it was necessary to narrow. The right hand track going south from Binghamton to New York had been changed previous to Saturday, trains having run tor a time on a single track, hence there were about 87 miles to be changed on this division. On Friday there was 184 miles changed on the other divisions of the road.

----Yesterday afternoon a package of pocket knives, razors, and other articles, (stolen last winter from the hardware store of Pritchard, Sayles & Co.) were tound concealed in a haymow, in the barn of Samuel S. Erwin, two miles easterly. The goods were wrapped in a lap robe, also stolen, and with the package was Mr. Sayles' overcoat. The burglars doubtless walked down the track, and finding their burden too heavy, left the less valuable portion thus found. Being arrested at Montrose soon after they could not get them again. They were tried at Bath yesterday, and were found guilty, and sent to State Prison for three years.

-Near White Haven at 9:30 o'clock on Monday afternoon last a gravel train on the Lehigh Valley R. R. was switchigg out off the main way to a siding to allow passenger train number seven (not number two) to pass, but its movements were not quick enough and the coming train struck the tender in rear of the gravel train's engine, wrecking it completely. John Hunt, Engineer, had his ankle sprained, and William Rorebaugh, who was riding on the engine at the time but not employed by the company, sustained a mangled foot. He was brought to this city on a late train on the L. & S. road on Monday night and taken to the home of his sister who lives here. No other injuries were received, although the passengers in the train were badly snaken.—Scrunton

Now that silver coin is likely to come into general circulation, an opportunity is offered all sweethearts to show their devotion to male humanity, and give their devotion a practical turn in the shape of "purses." Of course, as any one can see, pocket books are of no use to carry any amount of silver in, and as the shining stuff has been obsolete for the past fifteen years, it follows that purses are a scarce article. In a short time we may expect to hear and see our "sweet sixteens" and "twentyfives next May," discussing the beauties and virtues of "cross stitch" and "canvas stitch." "web foot" and "closé stitch," and so on in endless profusion, in which we take no stock so long as we don't get the purse and money to

-George E. Crandall, of New Milford, who murder trial at Montrose, as a pettifogger who attempted to "refresh" the memories of some witnesses in this city to prove an alibi for O'Mara, was arrested in this city yesterday fore noon on a charge of torgery. Crandall borrowed a sum of money of ex-Sheriff Edmister in the fall of 1874, and gave a note for $75 as security. He stated that the man whose name was signed as maker, was responsible to the amount of $60,000. Mr. Edmister tried several times without success to get his pay, and became convinced that the note was a torgery. Crandall heard that Mr. Edmister was about to appear this week before the Grand Jury in relation to the matter, and came to this city, probably with the intention of trying to compromise. It was the first time he had been seen here in a long time, and the police arrested him and lodged him in jail to await the action of the Grand Jury .- Binghamton Times

A terrible explosion of thre damp occured on Saturday, May 20th, at the Oxford air shaft of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, Scranton, by which one man was killed instantly and four seriously scorched and otherwise injured. The explosion was caused by the accumulation of gas in was supremely happy. But when Dr. Camp the lower vein coming in contact with a minfound that the editor knew the secret he wrote er's lamp, at a depth of 400 feet from the surto Goddard telling him of the deception prac- face, and immediately under the air shaft. Four ticed on him by his wife. The angered and men were close to where the gas was confined. and these were burnt seriously. The shock was heard for a mile around. The gas, on igniting, rushed up the shaft with a roar, tearing the steam pipes in its course, and completely shattering the heavy timbers of the tower above the ground, and scattering them in all directions. A man named Poff, employed at the mouth of the shaft, had just stepped into the basket, and was thrown high in the air, and descending, fell into the mine, a distance of ed to pieces.

-We received a call on Saturday from O. G. Hempstead, esq., formerly of this county, but now of Philadelphia, who is visiting his sick mother in Dimock. Mr. Hempstead informed us that no one had any reason or authority to use his name as a prospective editor of the Montrose Republican, which had been so announced in some of the county papers.

As an antidote for various kinds of poison sweet oil is exceedingly valuable, and a bottle of it should be in every farmer's house.-Some of the worst cases of rattlesnake bite have been cured by this simple remedy. The patient should take a teaspoonful internally and bathe the wound with the oil. It is an antidote for arsenic and strychnine. It will cure the stings of bees, wasps, hornets, and the bites ot other insects, and is a remedy for the poison of the poison-ivy, poison oak, etc.

A storekeeper named Newman, doing business at Brookdale, this county, was fatally injured by the accidental discharge of a pistol last Friday morning, only living about twenty minutes after it occurred. He was on his way to Brackneyville, where he formerly resided. It is supposed that the pistol, which was carried in his breast pocket, was discharged by striking against the wagon wheel when he alighted to water his horse. His body was carried to his home at Brookdale. Mr. Newman was a German by birth, between thirtyfive and forty years of age.

-Attorney General Lear has submitted his opinion on the constitutionality of the boom bill to the Governor. The opinion has not been made public but it is believed to take the ground that the bill is clearly within the provisions of the constitution. The question of fraud in its passage is not discussed by the attorney general, as he considered that a matter for the courts only. The governor has taken no official action in connection with the bill, but his course will no doubt be in accordance with the opinion of the attorney general.

On Suncay afternoon, May 21st, about half past three Abington and the First and Second wards of Scranton were visited with a most furious hall storm, accompanied with thunder and lightning and rain, and doing a mevville. large amount of damage to fruit trees, roads and especially window glass. For about half an hour hail stones of large dimensions, nearly the size of hen's eggs, were hurled about with wonderful profusion and force, and the unprotected windows upon the northwesterly side of buildings were completely riddled with holes. A strong wind accompanied the storm, and the hail was followed with torrents of rain, uprooting trees, deluging streets and cellars, &c.

----Among the demonstrations announced to take place at Philadelphia during the present year, that of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of the United States, which transpires on the 20th of September, is looked upon as being next in importance to the parade of the Knights Templar. Three hundred lodges and fifty encampments from this state have announced their intention of being present to participate, and it is expected that every state and territory in the Union will be represented. Upwards of 14,000 men will be in line, and the display will be one of the grandest ever made by any order in this country.

-An old man named Michael Clark, an employe at the Diamond breaker, in the Third ward, was killed in a strange manner on Tuesday. He was at work loading cars near the culm schute, when the schute, which has been in a dilapidated condition for some time, gave way, pouring a large body of the culm upon Mr. Clark, literally burying him alive and smothering him to death. The deceased was about seventy years of age, had been employed at the breaker nearly a quarter of a century, and was a faithful and respected workman.-The company are censurable for leaving their works in such risky condition.—Scranton Journal.

-An attempt is being made to do away with the noisy fire-crackers, and, in a great measure the whole gunpowder element in the celebration of our nation's birth-day. Whether it will be successful or not, is yet, to be seen, but we predict a stubborn and united opposition. After acquired some notoriety during the O'Mara shooting and firing for a hundred years, we doubt whether Young America surrenders his beloved crackers as quietly and complacently as could be desired. There seems to be an element in the "make up" of the average American boy that, once a year, breaks out in an overwhelming noise, a general "tear down" and a total and heartles disregard for the ears nerves, and tender sensibilities of all around him. The sizz of his rocket and the bang of his torpedo vibrates a patriotic chord in his heart that is touched by no other means. To him the 4th of July means fire crackers and fire crackers the 4th of July. Without one, the other is incomplete. He holds his custom as "time honored" and sacred, and will defend it with a zeal becoming his revolutionary sire. Give the boy a chance.

READ-In New Milford, at the residence of his son-in-law, H. C. Moxley, April 3d, Abel Read, in the 71st year of his age.

The subject of this memoir was born in Harford, Susq'a county, in April 1805. His father came from Attl-borough, Mass., soon after the settlement of Hartord by the nine partners.-The history of Harford, and indeed the Eastern part of the county, runs almost entirely parallel with his own history. 1832 he was united in marriage to Alvir, Guile who still survives him. He was the father of six children, two sons and four daughters. One of the daughters awaited him on the other shore, having preceded him to the spirit world many long years.

He was converted to God at the age of 28, and soon after united with the Congregational church in Harford, of which he remained an acceptable and worthy member until called home to the church triumphant which is without fault before the throne of God. The life which he led, especially the last ten years of his life, was emphatically a life of prayer and trust in God. He loved to read his Bible daily and with the Psalmist he could say, his delight is in the law of the Lord, and His law doth he meditate day and night." He daily sat at the fcet of the Great Teacher, learning of Him lessons of patience, meekness and love. He was a great sufferer, yet he bore all with remarka-ble patience. His life-work was all seemingly done, and with folded hands he calmly rested on the promises of God, and was only waiting till the angels opened wide the mystic gate.
