

Town, County, and Variety.

Eight prisoners broke out of the Crawford county jail on Wednesday last and made good their escape.

When the young ladies hand you a card nowadays with the cabalistic letters Y. M. C. A., it means, "you may call again."

The Republican County Committee met last Friday and fixed upon the first Monday in August to hold their county convention.

In our report of the county centennial celebration elsewhere, we omitted to state that the Triton Hose company of Tunkhannock were entertained at the Exchange Hotel.

A. W. Cooley and men are tearing down the old house of E. Bacon, on South Main street, and preparing to put up a fine new residence in its stead, to be completed this summer.

We were very much pleased to receive a call, on Wednesday last, from "Ned Clifton," who will be remembered as our Washington correspondent, and whose communications were perused with so much interest by our readers.

The heat of the last few days has been unprecedented in many places. The mercury on Monday last rose to 98 degrees in our mountain town. We learn that at Mauch Chunk it stood up to 108, the highest mark on record in the last sixty years, in that locality.

In another column will be found a very interesting description of that pleasant little town, Lenoxville. Will not our readers in other places give us like communications? There are dozens of places throughout the county from which we seldom hear. It enables people to know what is going on in places which they are not accustomed to visit.

The Marshals who assisted Col. Telford at the centennial celebration were Mr. J. H. Williams, of Montrose; Capt. C. N. Warner, of Montrose; Capt. Clearwater, of Lenox; Marshal Vanscooten, of Auburn; and Marshal Lestic, of Susa's Depot. Capt. E. B. Gates, of Dimock, was chosen and was on hand, but, unfortunately, his horse became lame so that he was unable to take his place in the procession.

The lack of a sufficient supply of water on the Fair Grounds at our late celebration was in strict violation of a promise made to the people through the papers, and receives as it deserves, severe denunciation. To whom the responsibility attaches we are unable to say, but we consider it an inexcusable negligence which ought not to have existed as the remedy was so cheap and so easily obtained.

A CURIOUS SENTENCE.—The following curious sentence, Lator arapo teret opera, rotas, is not first class Latin, but may be very translated thus: "I cease from my work; the sower will wear away his wheels." It is, in fact, some thing like a nonsense verse, but has these peculiarities, seldom found: 1st, It spells backward and forward; all the same. 2d, The first letter of each word spells the word. 3d, The all the second letters of each word spell the second word. 4th, Then all the third, and so on through the fourth and fifth. 5th, Then the last letter of each word, commencing with the last word, spells the first word. 6th, Then the next to the last of each word, and so on through.

LENOXVILLE.—In the valley of the East Branch of Tunkhannock Creek, at the Northern base of Thorn Hill, and about two miles South West from Elk Mountain, in the South Eastern corner of Lenox township, this county, is situated the pleasant village bearing the name heading this article. It contains one grist mill and one saw mill, the property of D. K. Morse & Co. superintended by J. T. Bush esq. of Factoryville; one church, a post office, and three stores, the principal business of which is done by J. C. Decker and W. Miller. One wagon and carriage shop belonging to and conducted by Oliver C. Severance in connection with a blacksmith shop superintended by C. C. Houghtaling of Clifford, and three other blacksmith shops owned and operated by the following persons to wit—Benjamin Bennett, N. C. Hallstead and William White. The latter maintains the reputation of being a first class horse and ox shodder; and not among the least, by Hiram White, an iron foundry and appliances necessary for the manufacture of plows of the most approved styles and patterns, among which may be named, the new iron beam Star plow, the long celebrated wood beam W plow, and three styles of superior reversible plows, cultivators, amalgam farm and school bells, sleigh shoes and castings generally. The Messrs. Churchills are doing quite a gardening business, the produce of which they find a ready market for in Lenoxville and Carbondale city. Lenoxville has a very fine and commodious school building in which is kept a good school a greater portion of the time. We have a high constable for the maintenance of peace &c. which, were it not for two or three restless spirits, would reign triumphant. There is much thought and talk about a midland railroad through this valley, as it is beyond doubt the best and most economical route for connecting the Lackawanna coal basin with the north and wood burning region and opening a grand field for railroad enterprise, which will when accomplished fill the cup of our joy to the profit of all concerned, especially the company. Lenoxville would be a good location for a well conducted hotel. Three cheers for Tilden! Let the people all say, amen. Doubtless a large majority will.

WYALUSING DISTRICT CAMP MEETING.—Providence permitting, the Wyalusing District Camp Meeting will be held on the old ground at Dimock, Pa. The meeting is to commence on Wednesday, at 7 1/2 p. m., August 23d, and continue nine days.

The grounds are very conveniently located a few rods from Dimock depot, on the Montrose Railroad, and supplied with pure spring water from bountiful fountains. A good Boarding Tent will be opened on the ground, at which board during the meeting, single meals, or lunch can be obtained at reasonable rates.—Milk, meat, straw, and horse feed also supplied. No huckstering allowed within the limits of the law. Good order will be easily secured by the officers of the law in an order loving community.

All persons wishing to retain their tent sites as held last year are requested to give notice to J. H. Weston, Brooklyn, Pa., on or before August 1st, that they will be occupied during the meeting, or they will be at the disposal of the committee.

The meeting is under the direction of Rev. Ira T. Walker, Presiding Elder of the district, whose zeal and efficiency is known in all the churches. Let all the people come to the Camp Meeting with a tent or an interest in one, praying for the out-pouring of the Holy Spirit, the conversion of many to God, and the sanctification of hundreds of believers.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT. Rev. I. T. Walker, President. Rev. J. H. Weston, Secretary. Wm. H. Barnes, Treasurer. H. G. Harned, A. B. Sheldon, W. L. Thorpe, E. L. Weeks, J. L. Race, D. G. Black, S. W. Weiss, G. E. Palen, I. S. Tewksbury. Brooklyn, Pa., June 24, 1876.

THE GRAND COUNTY CENTENNIAL.—There is probably no county of its size anywhere in the country which more successfully celebrated the Centennial of our national independence than Susquehanna county. The number in attendance was conceded by all to be the largest ever gathered in the county and the pageantry very grand and imposing.

The Telford Guards, of Susquehanna, who were 'the observed of all observers' arrived on the evening of the third and were duly welcomed by the Marshal and No. 2 Drum Corps, and quartered at the Tarbell House. There has been much said in praise of the military bearing of this company wherever it has been and we do not believe that its superior is to be found anywhere in this section of the country. Their neat uniform and perfect military drill elicited universal remark and made them one of the most prominent features of the day.—The company consisted of forty-three members and was also accompanied by the Susquehanna Cornet Band. During the countermarch of the procession through Public Avenue they executed a new move in military tactics (at least it was new to us) in which forty-three men were made to cover more ground and appear at better advantage than we ever supposed it were possible. It was done by forming a hollow parallelogram with their muskets resting horizontally across both shoulders, just back of the neck, and each arm extended resting alternately upon the breech and barrel of their guns.—This was executed with such ease and precision as to elicit the greatest admiration.

The scene of our first Centennial opened at 12 o'clock a. m. by ringing of bells, firing of canon, accompanied with other noisy demonstrations. At sun rise a national salute was fired. Before 3 o'clock a. m. teams began pouring into town and continued to do so until noon, when the streets, the Fair Ground and, in fact, the whole town was literally packed.—The only serious hitch in the order of proceeding was a somewhat wearisome waiting for the formation of the procession which was to move at 10 a. m., but a delay in the Montrose Railway train, (caused by a delay on the Lehigh Valley road,) which conveyed the Triton Hose Company from Tunkhannock, and which was also loaded with way passengers, prevented its starting until nearly 12 o'clock.

The Marshal, Col. Wm. H. Telford, with his assistants, here displayed his great skill in the facility with which he organized order out of chaos and put the procession in line, which was done so quietly and with such rapidity as to be the subject of much complimentary comment. The order of procession was as follows:

FIRST DIVISION. Chief Marshal, President of the Day; Clergy; Speakers, Burgess and Town Council in carriages; Susquehanna Cornet Band, Telford Guards, Brooklyn Military Band, Soldiers' Orphans, Old Soldiers.

SECOND DIVISION. Assistant Marshal, Tunkhannock Band, Triton Hose Company, Montrose Drum Corps and Fire Company No. 2, Wide Awake Fire Company No. 3, Rough & Ready Cornet Band and Fire Company No. 1.

THIRD DIVISION. Assistant Marshal, General Committee of Arrangements, Elk Lake Band, Rush and Montrose I. O. of O. F., and citizens.

The line of March was from the Court House up Maple Street to Turnpike, down Turnpike to Cherry, down Cherry to Union, down Union to Main, up Main to Turnpike, down Turnpike to Spruce, up Spruce to Public Avenue, down Public Avenue to Brick Block; counter-march up Public Avenue to Main street, up Main to Fair, and up Fair to the Fair Grounds.

The movement of the procession was grand and imposing. One of the most interesting features in the whole affair was the neat appearance of the Soldiers' Orphans, of Harford School, consisting of boys in blue uniform and girls in pink. The procession reached the Fair Grounds about one p. m., when the exercises immediately opened according to previous arrangement.

The singing by the Chorus was very appropriate in the selections and extremely well executed. The President, F. P. Grow, gave a short salutatory address, which was followed by an appropriate prayer by Rev. W. L. Thorpe.

The reading of the Declaration by Wm. M. Post, esq., the Oration by Gen. Wm. I. Jessup, Poem by E. L. Blakeslee, esq., and the Historical address by Hon. Benjamin Parke were each, in their places, well received, the whole being interspersed with songs from the Chords and instrumental music from the bands. The only draw back was the length of the programme which, together with the unlooked for delay in reaching the grounds, detracted much from the enjoyment of this part of the exercises. There were some 500 or 600 feet of tables and seats about them, prepared on the grounds for the accommodation of those who joined the "picnic" festivities, but the time for refreshments became wholly a matter of option as the point in the exercises originally set apart for that purpose would have brought it about 4 o'clock p. m. The scholars of the Soldiers' Orphan School were taken in charge by County Superintendent Tilden who took it upon himself to be "autler" to that regiment, and they were bountifully supplied at the Dining Hall of the Fair Ground. There was unfortunately a lack of a sufficient supply of water on the grounds, one of the cheapest articles of drink generally but an indispensable one to the comfort of adults as well as children on such an occasion, and this seemed to be the chief source of annoyance in the way of enjoyment but we are encouraged to believe that at the next anniversary of the Centennial our people will have profited by the experience of this, and no such essential will be lacking.

The exercises on the Fair Ground closed about 4 o'clock p. m., after which the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the County Soldiers' Monument took place conducted by Hon. Wm. J. Turrell, President of the Association, assisted by the Committee. The Monument is located on the county grounds in the centre of the square on the east side of North Main street. The foundation is laid in solid masonry from about four feet below the surface to about five feet above and upon this is placed the first stone, the base stone of the monument. In the southeast corner of this stone the box which contains the articles deposited was placed in a cavity made for that purpose. Above this was another stone, suspended by a staple in the centre and a cable chain fastened to a cross-bar supported by frame work on each side of the base and hoisted by means of lever screws. The ceremony of laying this stone was quickly performed by merely swinging it around so as to place the box and contents in the hole in the bottom stone and then swinging it back, holding it in place while it was dropped upon the foundation stone and the feat was accomplished. While this was being done the Old Soldiers, the children from the Harford Orphan School, and the Telford Guards had formed in line and marched to the spot.—As it was announced that the stone was in place, a gun was fired and the stars and stripes unfurled from a pole previously erected for that purpose. Before the exercises were completed a shower approached and the committee adjourned to the Court House where the Oration by Capt. J. R. Lyons and the poem by Capt. H. F. Beardsley were delivered, both of which were listened to with deep interest. Thus closed the County Centennial ceremonies with this crowning feature of the day and one which is to be the most enduring. While all else of the ceremonies as well as the actors on this festival occasion, shall have passed away, this will remain a lasting memorial of the patriotism, not only of the Fathers who died in giving birth to our country and of the brave Sons who laid their lives on its altar to save it from dissolution, but also of those who have labored so arduously and faithfully to bring about its completion in this Centennial year.

We learn that owing to the unlooked for assemblage of people that the supplies of provisions were exhausted and that many were obliged to go home hungry, a thing to be greatly regretted. The last act in the drama was the fire works in the evening which were not, of course, very extensive and could not have been expected to have been from the amount of money that could be appropriated for that purpose. The beautiful and extensive manner in which our town was decorated was the subject of general remark. Large flags and small flags, rich festoons and other beautiful displays, met the eye on every hand, on private dwellings as well as public buildings and the decorations of Montrose in the last hundred years all combined in one would not equal it. We think the people of this county should be proud of this their first centennial observance.
