Now for Pennsylvania! Blue Jeans is the wear. Kid gloves are out of style.

Every member of Lincoln's cabinet now living except one, is for Tilden and Hendricks.

Vote for change, vote genuine reform; vote for better times; vote for employment; vote to drive thieves from office; vote for honest men, vote for Tilden.

W. W. Watson, the tool of the WALLER firm in the State Senate, is understood to be largely responsible for the passage of the bill giving County Commissioners treble pay while building a new Court House.

There is a question to be decided next January in this county and that is, whether the county shall pay $700 for a commissioners clerk, when as good material can be had for $500.

Mr. Watson, Republican Senator of this district, stand up! Did or did not Mr. George Waller draw up the Commissioner's extra pay-bill, designed to take six thousand dollars out of the pockets of the tax-payers of Wayne county?

A FAIRNESS IN DISCUSSION.

Whenever Mr. Hawley is a candidate for office—let us see, one, two, three, he has been beaten three times already in his frantic pursuit after office—his strong hold seems to be attacks upon the good name and financial credit of the county which shelters him, and affords him the means whereby he lives.

We copy the above from the last Independent Republican. In the salutatory of the present editor of that paper we were told that fairness in the discussion of men and measures was to be always observed by him.

The first sentence is a falsehood upon the face of it. Not a child of six years of age in Susquehanna County but that should know, that E. B. Hawley has only been a candidate twice before this.

We have repeatedly made our charges in this matter, given facts and figures, pointed to the written evidence which is open to every citizen of this county and demanded that it be confuted, and we have only been met by the argument of the convicted coward, "you lie."

When lovely Waller stoops to folly, And finds his record's bad, To recollect is melancholy, To publish is to drive him mad.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, Radical Republican, gives the official vote of Ohio on Barnes, Secretary of State, which makes his majority 5,093, a considerable falling off from Hayes majority last fall.

Now the campaign will begin to get hot in Pennsylvania, the fight being transferred from Indiana and Ohio to this State. Democrats, be on your guard and keep your eyes open.

G. G. WALLER'S SEVEN JUDASES.

It has for years been the boast of the Republicans of Wayne county, that their County Conventions are always composed of representatives of the party against whom the faintest suspicion of political dishonesty or corruption could never be raised.

It is due those who were not purchased as alleged by Mr. Waller, that he should rise and explain; that he should name the seven devils who entered the body of the convention, and thus relieve the twenty-three presumably upright men from the imputation that the charge was laid upon them.

CONUNDRUM FIRST.

The commissioners of Susquehanna County of to-day, will be able to pay our bonded debt incurred for jail purposes only, of over $15,000, in the single year of 1876, with no increase of taxation, with the same number of officials and the same unvarying increase of salaries and inaugurated by Republican legislation.

This is a conundrum which the tax payers of this county have given up, and none but the "Court House Ring" can give the answer. They have had the floor for a year and a half and still they maintain a sullen silence.

Sometimes it is convenient to be forgetful and sometime it is awkward. The Wayne County Herald having charged Mr. George G. Waller, the radical candidate for Senator in the twenty-sixth district, with being a "McClellan and peace man," in 1864, Mr. Waller was incautious enough to deny it in a public speech, and to declare that he supported Abraham Lincoln with his voice and vote.

When lovely Waller stoops to folly, And finds his record's bad, To recollect is melancholy, To publish is to drive him mad.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, Radical Republican, gives the official vote of Ohio on Barnes, Secretary of State, which makes his majority 5,093, a considerable falling off from Hayes majority last fall.

READ & STROUD.

While Wayne county had a full Democratic Bench, a full Democratic delegation in the Senate and House, and a full Democratic Board of County Commissioners, the old Court House was good enough; When Wayne county had a full Republican Bench, a full Republican delegation in the Senate and House, and a Board of Commissioners divided in politics, a high-toned Court house is found absolutely necessary.

We have shown in another part of this paper that the bill increasing the pay of County Commissioners while building a new Court House is likely to cost the tax-payers of Wayne county nearly six thousand dollars.
