SECOND CENTENNIAL LETTER.—Dear Democrat:

Did not finish telling you all the sights of the Centennial, and although it is now numbered among the "have-beens," yet I trust the useful knowledge gained there will adorn the storehouse of memory for years to come.

Found the Cheese and Butter factory quite a building of three apartments, yes, four departments illustrative of the American cheese and creamery system. Two spacious rooms were literally filled with excellent looking cheeses but alas! the doors were closed and the Judges were earnestly engaged in trying and tasting, as if they could justly judge two hundred or more of such masses of good-to-eat material as those appeared to be.

The butter had been removed, but in one apartment we found a patent butter worker performing its allotted task before the admiring gaze of an admiring crowd, and we thought if the butter therein should be worked much more it would be "strong" enough to go alone.

Numerous pans were displayed for the dairy on new and improved plans for the lightening of labor which we should fancy on a trial. But the churns displayed, touched our fancy most. One reminded me of a baby's cradle I saw once in Brooklyn city, when set in motion by the hand, would continue for a considerable time by itself.

Another one reminded me forcibly of the blessed little round churn I used at home which lay on a chair or saw-horse, and on which I have churned many an hour, in the meantime singing to sleep the babe in the cradle at my feet which I rocked with my left hand, while I quaffed rich draughts of knowledge from the book upon my knee.

But there is no need of churning by hand in these days of modern improvements, for all one needs is to transplant a lever from the Corlies engine in Machinery Hall and churn cream, milk, cows and all, with power sufficient remaining to run a washing machine and baby jumper in the corner by way of a safety-valve.

It is said that these chimes are unequalled in America, and have but two or three rivals in Europe; and to play skillfully on them is an accomplishment possessed by very few.

A writer in the Hartford Times thus describes the method of ringing them: "An accomplished bell ringer, Prof. Widdows, of Washington, plays the bells and his repertoire numbers over one thousand pieces. The method of chiming may be a curiosity to some, but it is very simple. The bells are hung rigidly to an immense frame of timber on the upper floor or bell-deck of the tower, and under each are two hammers, one heavy and one light, the latter provided with heavy muffers for producing a softened tone when required.

These hammers are attached to bell-crank levers, or levers forming two sides of a square—right angled—and pivoted where the arms of the angles meet so that a pull or depression on the outer arm brings the other arm, to which the hammer is attached, against the inside of the bell. The player is on the floor below, just under the bell-deck. A frame of uprights supports a series of levers like pump-handles, or like the handle of an organ bellows.

From these handles or levers extend rods through the ceiling which are attached to the bell-crank levers by wires. The Professor, in his shirt sleeves and bare-headed, placing his music book on a rack, grasps one handle after another, bringing each down with a sharp jerk which is answered by the corresponding bell overhead. To see him playing "Oh dear! what can the matter be?" is to witness a specimen of physical activity that beats the wildest "break-down" of a minstrel dancer.

Have heard recently that these chimes of bells have been purchased by an association in Wilkes Barre, hence we will not be presumptuous in expecting to hear their sweet sounds again.

On the second floor, opposite the staircase in the Main Hall, there was a cluster of twenty-one portraits of American Presidents and Statesmen, arranged in pyramidal form, the frame of which was indeed a curiosity. It contains 15,000 pieces, and 100 varieties of American wood, one for each year of American independence.

Neither nails nor glue were used in the construction. The lower central section contains a piece of one of the original houses built by the Pilgrims, a piece of the tree under which William Penn made his treaty with the Indians, a piece of Fort Duquesne, a piece of the fire-Methodist Episcopal Church in America, a piece of Washington's chair, a piece of the flagstaff cut off during the bombardment of Fort Sumter, a piece of a Japanese palace, a piece of the old ship Constitution and a piece of the Charter Oak, relics enough to treasure for a life time.

A novel design for a fountain was that in the Italian department in Main Hall. A boy and girl under an umbrella, the water rising through the handle and finding vent at the top, keeps streaming over the umbrella imitating perfectly a fine shower, while the children look from underneath smilingly, apparently enjoying their cosy shelter, and yet one but wonders whether they ever grow weary, waiting for the shower to pass away?

Speaking of a shower, reminds us that we saw the veritable water-proof life-saving dress which Captain Paul Boyton wore in his experiment of swimming across the English Channel in 1875, and as a superior Life Preserver, it has been adopted by the U. S. Government for the Navy and for Coast Guard service. It was a unique looking garment with boots, hat, gloves, vest and trousers, all joined together into one garment of India rubber.

And that makes us recollect of seeing so many vigorous trees of India rubber in the Agricultural Building. Their broad, thick, dark green leaves would be a valuable acquisition to a conservatory.

We also saw a fine exhibit of California fruit in the Agricultural Hall, consisting of mammoth bunches of grapes, (of course not as large as the spics of Joshua carried between them from the Promise Land) each of a number of which would exceed three and one-half pounds in weight, and quinces and pears of unusual size and beauty.

See Bronson's advertisement, this week, Dec. 13, 1876.
A large stock of ready-made clothing, and agents' furnishing goods, from a bankrupt stock, has been placed in the store of E. McKenzie, Montrose, Pa., and will be sold at auction and private sale, by H. ROSENTHAL, Auctioneer.

DONATION.
The friends of Rev. M. E. Bramhall will make him a donation at the home of H. S. Conklin, at Fair Hill, on Tuesday afternoon and evening, Dec. 19. All are cordially invited to attend.
Fair Hill, Dec. 13, 1876.

PASTORAL Reception and Oyster Supper, at the M. E. Parsonage, Rush, for the benefit of Rev. F. A. Dony, Wednesday, Dec. 27th, afternoon and evening. Entertainment for head heart, and stomachs. Come everybody.
Rush, Dec. 13, 1876.

Those two foes of bodily comfort, Rheumatism and the Gout, cease their twinges. If the afflicted part is daily washed with Ginn's Sulphur Soap, which banishes pain and renders the joints and muscles supple and elastic, Depot Crittenton's No. 7 Sixth Avenue, N. Y. Hill's Hair & Whisker Dye, black or brown, 50 cents.

THE JANUARY Number of Peterson's Magazine, that paragon of the Lady's books, is out in advance, and is, we think, the most superb we have ever seen. There are two beautiful steel engravings, one of a little girl and water lilies; the other The Wanderer, illustrating a story by Frank Lee Benedict. The mammoth colored fashion-plate is unusually elegant; it is a picture as well as a fashion-plate. In all, there are some thirty fashion patterns in the number.

THE BAPTIST CENTENNIAL at Pittston, Pa. Thursday, December 21, 1876. The celebration of the Hundredth Anniversary of the Baptist Church, at Pittston, will be held as above. Rev. B. D. Thomas, of Philadelphia, a former pastor, will preach on Wednesday evening, Dec. 20.

Thursday, Dec. 21.—Prayer and conference meeting from 9 to 10:30 a. m., with an address of greeting to the old members, by Rev. Wm. K. Mott, of Hyde Park, a former pastor. A historical sermon at 10:30, by G. S. Bailey, the present pastor. Original hymns will be sung.

From 2 to 5 p. m. the exercises will consist of short addresses from several old settlers—Rev. N. G. Parke, Daniel Scoble, Elisha Blackman, James A. Gordon, and Harry Roberts. Sketches of early pioneers will also be given—Dr. Nathaniel Giddings, by Wm. K. Mott; Elder John Miller, by A. M. Calkins; Elder Wm. Marsh, by J. B. Hutchison; Jonathan Weeks, by O. N. Worden; Mrs. Frear, by D. D. Gray; Elder Wm. Bishop, by W. P. Hellings; Elder Davis Dimock, by J. E. Chesshire.

CLAIRVOYANT EXAMINATIONS FREE.
There is no subject that requires so much study and experience as the treatment of chronic diseases. The astonishing success and remarkable cures performed by Dr. Butterfield, are due to the gift of clairvoyance, to the lifelong study of the constitution of man, and the curing of diseases from natural remedies. Cures the worst forms of Scrofula, Catarrh, Piles, Female Weakness, Asthma, Kidneys or Bladder. Will be at the Spaulding House, Binghamton, Thursday and Friday, Dec. 24th and 25th.
Nov. 29, 1876.

PRINTING.
We have just received a very large stock of plain and fancy envelopes, letter and note paper, plain and fancy bill head papers, cards of all sizes and colors, colored poster papers, etc. all of which we can afford to print cheaper than in any office in this or neighboring counties, and in as good style. Work done in black and colored inks. If you think there is any thing we can do for you, give us a trial, and we will show you what we can do. All kinds of blanks on hand or printed to order.

SCHECHER'S MANDRAKE PILLS will be found to possess those qualities necessary to the total eradication of all bilious attacks, prompt to start the secretions of the liver, and give a healthy tone to the entire system. Indeed, it is no ordinary discovery in medical science to have invented a remedy for these stubborn complaints, which develop all the results produced by a heretofore free use of calomel, a mineral justly dreaded by mankind, and acknowledged to be destructive in the extreme to the human system.
