> CELERY.-The cultivation of celery is now strongly recommended to farmers, not only as a source of profit to themselves, but as a benefit to the community, since the the habitual daily use of this vegetable is more beneficial to man as a nerve tonic than most per sons are aware of. Those especially who are engaged in labor weakening to the nerves should use celery daily in its season.

THE OLD BLOOD .--

Oh! tell me, People, is it true, And is your blood so thin That ye have nothing now to do While knayes are "counted in ?" Where is the blood that used to flow Within our veins a hundred years ago ?

Where is the thought that outward flew. Like lightning in the night? Responsive, patriotic, true-Armed with the sense of right, And where the blood that used to flow In patriot hearts a hundred years ago ?

All honor, when the die is cast. To him who for the right Will nail his banner to the mast, And battle brave the fight-Unflinchingly his blood will flow As flowed the blood a hundred years ago?

Rise up, ye People, in your might, And let not fraud prevail-Fling broad your standard to the light-Oh! hear ye not the wail From that old blood that used to flow Iu patriot hearts a hundred years ago? ALVIN OARSMITH, in N. Y. World. Patchogue, December 20, 1876.

[From The Scranton Daily Times]

The case of the Commonwealth vs Campbell indicted for murder, and once tried and found guilty in the first degree, but who was granted a new trial, by order of the court, was taken up and the jury empaneled and sworn Wednesday evening. The Tragedy occurred at Carbondale.

The Scranton Free Press was burned out last Wednesday evening. The fire originated from an explosion which was heard in other parts of the building, but of what nature is not known. Every article in the office, from printing material to engine, was ruined. The firemen were promptly on hand, and but for frozen plugs could have extinguished the fire with trifling damage.

A nurse girl in the employ of Mr. Byron Winton's lamily in Providence, while coming down a back stairway with some ashes, slipped and fell to the bottom. At the foot of the stairway were some clothes hooks against the wall, one of which she struck, while falling, and the curved end of one of these hooks entered the orbit of the eye, tearing the eye out of the socket, and that organ was found lying upon her cheek. Dr. Gibbs, of Providence, and Dr. Fisher, of Scranton, were called, and the eye was replaced, none of the muscles having been severed. It is thought that she will recover the use of her eye.

The following is a copy of the paper filed by the counsel of Beamish in the application for a new trial :

Now, 18th December, 1876, defendant moves for a new trial and in arrest of judgment, and files the following reasons therefor :

First, Because the records show that the jury were sworn, the case was opened by the Commonwealth and testimony was proceeded with, before any demand upon the defendant for a plea and before a plea to the indictment had been entered in the case. Upon discovery and the refusal of the defendant to plead, this ir regularity could only be cured by calling another jury and giving the defendent the opportunity to exercise his right of challenge, upon the jury so called. This was not done, and therein there was an error.

The wound is the public road, leaving in the tract to be sold 167 acres more or less, on which is a dwel ing house, barns, etc. serious and dangerous and it is quite probable that she has already passed into the land of shadows. After Wall had stabbed his wife he saddled a horse and rode three miles for the purpose of seeing his brother-in-law, but his relative, having some suspicion of the purport of his visit, refused to see him and ordered him off the premises. Wall was in no hurry to move on and to accelerate his movements the brother in-law fired three shots at him, but without effect. The prisoner was married last spring and it is stated that since then he has manifested a disposition to do violence, has tbreatened to kill his wife and others. From these and other circumstances it is claimed that he is insane but the probabilities are that he is more troubled with devlishness than insanity. In either case he will undoubtedly be afforded an opportunity to repent of his crime or recover from his abberration.
