

THE DEMOCRAT.

MONTROSE, PA., JAN. 31, 1877.

Town, County, and Variety.

—Donate to-night.
—Lent is approaching.
—The ice crop is harvested.
—Sit down on the side-walk.
—Mumps are very prevalent hereabouts.
—Have you received your tax notice yet?
If not, "watch out" for it.
—The three cent postage stamp now in use will soon give way to a new design.
—Donation for the benefit of Rev. W. L. Thorpe, this (Wednesday) evening.
—Lent comes on St. Valentine's Day and Easter on April Fool's Day this year.
—The man who "wants but little here below," is not disappointed in these hard times.
—Job printing at the DEMOCRAT office is flush. Reason—good work at reasonable rates.
—Rev. I. T. Walker, Presiding Elder, will preach in the M. E. Church next Sabbath evening.
—A local mutual insurance company is being talked of among the business men of Pittston.
—Vendue Bills printed at the DEMOCRAT office on short notice, in the neat style and at low rates.
—A regular meeting of Montrose Fire Co. No. 2 will be held in their parlor, Friday Eve. Feb. 2, 1877.
—The obituary notice of Col. Rufus Smith of Franklin, although in type, is unavoidably crowded out.
—Mr. E. Bacon, well known in this section as proprietor of Bacon's toy store, died yesterday afternoon.
—Woman's Temperance Prayer Meeting will be held at the house of Mrs. A. L. Post, on Thursday at 3 p. m.
—Last Saturday the weather gave us a "let up," the result being the filling of Public Avenue with teams from the country.
—A communication from Upsonville was received too late for this issue, but will appear in our next. Liberty infants are crowded out.
—People who find fault with this weather are respectfully referred to Mark Twain's "New England Weather" on another page of this paper.
—Burglars entered the store of Geo. L. Lenheim at Great Bend the night of the 19th inst. and succeeded in getting away with about $400.00 worth of goods.
—It is mean to laugh in your sleeve when a woman falls down and then rush to her assistance with tears in your eyes, and tell her how sorry you are.
—Candidates for township offices are now circulating freely among the people, looking after their chances. As usual, there is no scarcity of candidates who are willing to serve their country.
—The New Milford Baptist church will observe the 50th anniversary of its formation Feb. 22, 1877. Ministers of the Bridgewater Baptist Association and friends in general are invited to attend.
—The Fourth Quarterly Meeting for this conference year of Springville charge will be held at Lymanville Feb. 10th and 11th, 1877. Presiding Elder Walker is expected to conduct all the services.
—During a recent absence of the family of Dr. Robinson, of Titusville Pa., tramps attempted to fire his house by lighting a lamp, setting it on a table, and then fastening to it a string which they attached to the door knob, so that when the door was opened the lamp would be thrown to the floor, which had been previously saturated with oil. Fortunately the plot was only partially successful, the fire being extinguished before much damage was done.
—We learn that James Bryer, of St. Lewis, Pa., the man who was dragged by the Erie cars a long distance a few days since, near Great Bend, and who was picked up in an unrecognizable state, is better and was on Saturday doing so well as to warrant hopes of his recovery from his injuries. He states that he has a wife and two children. He is thirty-five years of age and a glass blower by trade, and was in search of employment of some kind.
—An exchange very appropriately says that a child beginning to read becomes delighted with a newspaper, because it reads of names and things which are familiar, and it will progress accordingly. A newspaper in one year is worth a quarter's schooling to a child. Every father must consider that information is connected with advancement. The mother of a family, being one of the heads, and having a more immediate charge of children, should herself be instructed. A mind occupied becomes fortified against the ill of life, and is braced for an emergency. Children amused by reading or study, are, of course, more considerate and more easily governed.
—All lovers of good music will be pleased to learn that Dickinson's Orchestra, of Binghamton, will give a concert at the Court House on Monday evening next, Feb. 5. Having added several instruments they are prepared to give an entertainment far superior to the one given by them here last spring. The following is the programme for the evening: Part first—Overture—"The Diadem"—Hermann. Polka de Concert—Solo for Cornet—Arban. Galop—"Clicquot"—Solo for Bells—Riviere. Piccolo—"Divo"—Solo for Piccolo—Bonissanni. Waltz—"Heart and Hand"—Faust. Part Second—Overture—"Le Flandre"—Bouillon. Clarinet, Solo—"Bright Star of Hope"—Halevy. Polka Comique—"Joux Joux"—Bosquet. Fantasia for Trombone—Nehr. Air Variet—Transcription for Flute—Baderberg. Selection—Pettie Faust—(New)—Solo for Bells—Offenbach. Tickets for sale at Stevens' book store. Admission, 25 cents. Reserved seats, 50 cents. Concert to commence at 8 o'clock.

—Ben. Finch, a harmless lunatic, well-known throughout Wayne, Luzerne and Susquehanna counties, died in the Abington, (Luzerne co.) poor house, on Saturday evening, aged 80 years. Early in life he founded a deep attachment for a young lady which was not reciprocated on her part, and the consequent mortification and disappointment dethroned his reason. At times his mind would seem to be entirely clear, especially upon the Bible and religious subjects, with which he was perfectly familiar, and then it would wander to riches. He always imagined himself to be worth millions. Generally good natured, he was many times the victim of innocent jokes. No one ever refused him a meal, or the mere pittance he frequently asked. He has gone, and who of us can tell but that he faithfully performed his part in life's drama?—Honesdale Citizen.
—The people of Great Bend were shocked on Sunday by a rumor which soon obtained general circulation, that Nathan L. Lenheim, of the firm of L. S. Lenheim & Son, bankers, and also cashier of the First National Bank of Montrose, had been arrested in New York for presenting a forged check for $10,000, indorsed by Stephen Kistler. The matter is regarded with the utmost surprise, and many of Lenheim's friends believe that the matter can yet be satisfactorily explained. Probably no young man in the country had more completely the confidence of the business men, or could have found more ready endorsers for his note.—Binghamton Times, Jan. 30.
—In commenting on the above, we can only say that the only facts which are known here are that the circumstances against Mr. L. appeared to justify his arrest and that he is in custody. It is claimed here that the whole matter is capable of explanation in such a manner as to relieve Mr. L. from any criminal intention in the premises. We truly hope such may be the case.
—Lent.—Just as we go to press we learn that Mr. Lenheim has made a full confession in which he blames no one but himself. The effects of the crime were witnessed yesterday at the Bend, by a run on the Banking House of L. S. Lenheim and Son and its inability to satisfy all demands at the time. The Officers of the Bank here are investigating, and at this writing, nothing has been found to indicate any irregularity at this point. It is quite probable that the forger operated as far from home as possible in order to avoid suspicion.
—Last Thursday the 25th was St. Paul's Day, formerly kept as a festival which was instituted by the church in gratitude for so marvellous an instance of the Divine power as the conversion of St. Paul. It has been an article of constant belief in western Europe, during the middle ages, and even down to our own time, that the whole character of the coming year is prognosticated by the condition of the weather on the 25th of January, and this is the more singular as the day itself was one of those to which the old prognosticators gave the character of a die Egyptianus, or unlucky day.
—Fair weather on St. Paul's day betides a prosperous year; snow or rain betokens a dear year, and therefore an unfruitful one; clouds forebode great mortality among cattle; and winds were to be the forerunners of war.
An old chronicle says:
If St. Paul's day be fair and clear
It does betide a happy year;
But if it chance to snow or rain,
Then will be dear all kind of grain;
If clouds or mists do dark the sky,
Great store of birds and beasts shall die;
And if the winds do blow and die,
Then war shall vex the kingdom oft.
In the reign of Philip and Mary (1535) this day was observed in the metropolises with great processional state. There was a general procession of school children, clerks, curates, parsons, etc.
Robert Burns, the Scottish poet, was born the 25th of January, and this is the 118th anniversary of his birthday.
New Time Table.—On Monday last a new time table went into effect on the Montrose Railway. Trains now run as follows: Leave Tunkhannock at 8:45 a. m. and 3:12 p. m., arriving here at 10:45 a. m. and 5:10 p. m. Returning, leave here at 12 and 5:40 p. m., arriving at Tunkhannock at 1:45 and 7:30 p. m.
PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.—From the report of the State Supt. of Public Institution we glean the following facts: The number of school districts in the State is 2,103; number of schools 17,479; number of teachers 20,192. The average salary for male teachers per month is $89.76; for female teachers $26.60. Number of pupils 902,345. Estimated value of school property in the state $26,265,925.98. In Susquehanna County $158,195. In the county there are 124 school houses, all of which are built of wood; 28 are reported as unfit for use, 38 are badly ventilated, 4 only are first class. The Bible is read in all. Male teachers employed during the year 121. Females 367. Average age of teachers 24.
FINDING RELIEF IN DEATH.—One night some two months ago, Brasius Reed, of Sayre Pa., whose drunken frenzy had on several previous occasions vented itself in blows upon the person of his unfortunate wife, came staggering home in his usual state of ugly intoxication. Seizing his long-suffering wife, the brutal drunkard dragged her from the bed. Her appeals for mercy were unheeded, and after pounding and kicking her until his brutal nature was satisfied, he threatened to kill her with a knife. Upon her promise to leave him in the morning, however, and to trouble him no more, the wretch desisted from his inhuman work. The following day the poor woman left her home, accompanied by one of her four children—a little girl. The father followed, seized his daughter and carried her back to the house. The now homeless mother had a sister in Newark Valley, and to her she went. Feeble, trembling and suffering from the mental and bodily pain, she reached the house of Mrs. James Jones, her sister. Here for two weeks she suffered—dejected, and enduring in her frenzied imagination a repetition of the brutal treatment from which she had fled—then nature yielded and her spirit passed away. The poor bruised and scared wife and mother had at last found relief in death.

OBITUARY.

RALPH E. LITTLE, ESQ.

Died in Montrose, on the morning of Jan. 26th, 1877, after an illness of four days, Ralph E. Little Esq., aged 61 years and 5 days.
Mr. Little was born Jan. 21st, 1816, in Delaware Co., in the state of New York. When about eight years old, with his parents, he moved to Bethany, then the County Seat of Wayne Co. Pa. He made the best improvement of the limited opportunities of that place, at that time, for obtaining learning. He studied Latin and Greek under the instructions of Rev. Alex. Campbell, at Bethany, and the Natural Sciences under Dr. Strong, with such other aids as that small town afforded. When about eighteen years of age he commenced the study of law, in the office of the late Earle Wheeler, at Bethany. About the time of the removal of the County Seat to Honesdale, he came to Montrose and completed his legal studies with the late B. T. Case, Esq. He was admitted to the Bar of Susquehanna Co. on the 22d day of Nov. 1836, having passed an excellent examination. He then entered upon the practice of the law with encouraging success. On the 24th day of April, 1840, he was married to Miss Phila Ann Post, daughter of David Post, Esq., of Montrose. She, two sons and one daughter survive him.
Mr. Little was endowed by nature with superior intellect and a high order of talent, and by the practice of strictly moral and temperate habits and untiring and persevering industry, he became an able advocate at the bar and a formidable opponent. What he deemed right in law, politics or any thing else, he had the undaunted courage to stand up and advocate, or defend, regardless of denunciation or opposition from any source; and men of prudence took issue with him with caution, and those who lacked caution and other needful qualities were doomed to disaster and defeat.
During his entire brilliant legal career, he made and kept at hand a short memorandum of all the decisions of the Supreme Court of this State, commencing with 1st Binney and ending with 29th Smith. In his profession he took a special pride, honoring it for its own sake, and devoting to it his entire energies, with an industry very rarely witnessed, and with a degree of success very rarely equaled. His labors have been rewarded with worldly competence.
During the first few years of his manhood, he acted with the so-called Liberty party; when that party failed to place a ticket in the field, he generally voted with the Democratic party; and during the last fifteen years he has been an active laborer in the cause of Democracy, and identified as a prominent and leading member of the democratic party; not as an office seeker, but from honest principle, for the good of the people, and the prosperity and honor of the Counties constituted a Congressional District, and at the time that George W. Woodward, was first the democratic candidate for member of Congress, Ralph E. Little received the nomination for Congress by the Democratic convention of Susquehanna county. At the recent election for President Judge in this District, he was tendered the nomination as the Democratic Candidate, and accepted the same, receiving a very complimentary vote.
Formerly, during many years, Mr. Little was a worthy and exemplary member of the Baptist Church. During the last few years, he has been a prominent, efficient and leading member of the Methodist Church in this town. To this Society the loss is great.
The funeral was attended Jan. 29th, in the M. E. Church edifice. That large house was filled with people, and many persons were unable to obtain admission. Rev. W. L. Thorpe, delivered a splendid sermon suitable to the occasion and bestowed a merited eulogy of the deceased for his superior legal attainments, talents, christian character and many virtues. Other prominent clergymen assisted in the services. The body was buried in the Montrose Cemetery.
A meeting of the Susquehanna County bar was held at the office of Hon. Wm. J. Turrell, Montrose, Pa., Jan. 27th, 1877, at 10 a. m., to take action in reference to the death of R. E. Little, Esq. There was a very large attendance of the profession.
On motion of Hon. Wm. H. Jessup, the Hon. Wm. J. Turrell was called to the chair, and W. W. Watson was selected Secretary.
Mr. Turrell, on taking the chair, briefly stated the object of the meeting.
Mr. Jessup then moved that a committee of four be appointed to draft resolutions relative to the deceased, which motion was seconded and agreed to.
The Chair then appointed as said committee, Messrs. Frank Fraser, W. H. Jessup, L. F. Fitch and J. B. McCollum.
The committee retired and, in a short time returned and Judge Fraser as chairman of said committee reported resolutions which were read as follows:
WHEREAS, It has pleased an all wise Providence to remove from our midst in a sudden and unexpected manner our esteemed brother Ralph E. Little, who for forty years has been an earnest and faithful member of our profession, and who had attained a prominence and success commensurate with his great ability.
Resolved, That as members of the Bar we deeply deplore the great loss which his sudden death has brought upon us.
Resolved, That when one week ago this morning we heard his name, as in the full tide of intellectual vigor and mature manhood he made his last argument to an attentive court, and to-day are called to look upon his lifeless remains, we are impressed in a startling manner with an unwonted sense of our mortality.
Resolved, That the great ability and untiring zeal of our brother gave him great eminence in the profession, and justly made him a leading member of the Bar in this part of Pennsylvania.
Resolved, That his loss will be deeply felt in the social and business circles of our town and especially in the church of his choice.
That we deeply sympathize with his afflicted family in this their great bereavement, and as a token of our respect for his memory, we will attend his funeral in a body.
Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family of our deceased brother and be published in the papers of the county.

After the reading of the resolutions Judge Fraser moved that they be adopted as read, which motion was seconded by several.
Brief but appropriate remarks were then made upon the resolutions, and the life, character, and death of the departed brother, and the great loss the Bar and community had sustained by his decease, by Messrs. F. Fraser, W. H. Jessup, J. B. McCollum, L. F. Fitch, A. O. Warren, and A. W. Berthoff, followed by some very affecting and timely words from the Chairman.
The Chair then put the motion to adopt the resolutions, which motion was unanimously agreed to.
Mr. Jessup then moved that the County Officers and all the members of the Court be invited to attend the funeral of the deceased with the Bar.
On motion the meeting adjourned.
W. W. WARSON, Sec.
Montrose, Jan. 27, 1877.
Leaving it for others to obituary our friend and brother as a Citizen; permit me to record my idea of him as a Christian. His religious life dates from the winter of 1843, during the ever memorable revival under the leadership of Rev. J. B. Worden, then Pastor of the Baptist Church of this Borough. Jan. 18th, 1869, he became connected with the M. E. Church of this village. From the first his Christian character presents a clear record.
Both in the Baptist and Methodist church he was granted license to preach as occasion might afford or demand, which permit he improved quite frequently to the edification and profit of the people.
His religion was not in name or mere profession. In this as in every thing else he manifested a distaste for mere assumption or announcement. He sought the reliable, the assurance, in his own experience, he prized it in others. The ostentatious and external to him was secondary. The real spirit was all in all. Modest, retiring, humble himself, he was attracted by the same in others.
His religious life can be as clearly traced all through his career as his professional. It was a part of his life—and that not an inferior part. Not a nominal Christian, but an active worker. Seldom absent from the weekly prayer-meeting, never from the Sabbath service, ready and earnest in revival work, and a faithful teacher in the Sunday school—certainly this is a model for all young men to follow.
The pastor of the church has lost an estimable friend; the church a worthy and exemplary member and friend. He has reached the glory "just beyond" of which he so often spoke. Of this glory he once remarked "Compared to this glory, invisible at present and hid behind the clouds which envelope this dark and troubled scene, the brightest day which has hitherto shone upon the earth is midnight, and the highest splendors that have invested it, the shadow of death." He has reached that glory. "He is gone." But the remembrances of him linger like the sweet odors of the crushed flower. The suddenness of his departure teaches us the frailty of life and its echo is, "be ye also ready for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of Man cometh."
At 2 o'clock, Monday afternoon, Jan. 29th, the friends and neighbors gathered at his late residence to take the last view of the mortal, and to carry it out for burial.
"There are angels hovering round," a favorite hymn of the deceased was sung; the 20th Psalm was read and prayer offered by his Pastor, W. L. Thorpe.
From thence the cortege moved to the M. E. Church, where already a large congregation was gathered, which with those now coming, crowded the entire seating capacity of the church, including the Transept. "Rock of ages, cleft for me," another special favorite of the deceased, was sung. Prayer by Rev. J. E. Chesshire D. D. The scripture lesson was read by Rev. J. G. Miller, sermon by W. L. Thorpe; text, James 4-14, "For what is your life." The sermon dwelt upon the sentiment, "our life is what we make it," making mention of facts prominent in the life of the deceased which clearly illustrate the truth.
Upon the altar table and pulpit platform were arranged a fine and large assortment of house plants, the branches and leaves hanging over the coffin, whispering, as it seemed, of evergreens "over there." Upon the coffin lay a wreath of laurel and cross of geranium leaves, inclosing a calla lily. Thus was the last that is mortal of our Brother lovingly laid away to await the general resurrection. We left the grave with whispers of, "There are angels hovering round" dying out on the evening air.
The pall-bearers were chosen from members of the legal profession, viz: J. B. McCollum, L. F. Fitch, D. W. Searle, Wm. H. Jessup, Wm. J. Turrell, Franklin Fraser.
Death has robbed earth of a rare man.
W. L. THORPE.
[We expect to publish Mr. Thorpe's sermon in brief next week.—Eds.]

In one casket we have laid them
Far beneath the sod, to rest,
Free from pain and sin forever,
With the angels, ever blest.
Lovingly our darling Winnie
Clasped papa and mamma long,
As it to say, "I'm going soon
To join in sister's angel song."
Yes, thou wert too fair and lovely,
In a world like this to dwell;
Fare thee well, our precious Minnie,
Darling Winnie, fare thee well. A.
