Both Sides.

A man in his carriage was riding along, A gaily dressed wife by his side : In satin and laces she looked like the queen, And he like a king in his pride.

A wood sawyer stood on the street as they passed;

The carriage and couple he eyed: And said, as he worked with his saw on a log, "I wish I was rich and could ride."

The man in the carriage remarked to his wife "One thing I would give if I could— I'd give my wealth for the strength and the health

Of the man who sawed the wood."

A pretty young maid, with a bundle of work, Whose face, as the morning, was fair, Went tripping along with a smile of delight, While humming a love-breathing air.

She looked on the carriage; the lady she saw, Arrayed in apparel so fine, And said in a whisper, "I wish from my e heart Those satins and laces were mine."

The lady looked out on the maid with her work,

So fair in her calico dress. And said, "I'd relinquish position and wealth Her beauty and youth to possess."

Thus it is in the world, whatever our lot. Our minds and our time we employ In longing and sighing for what we hav

Returning to the auction room, the latter entered, saying, "You called me a bummer, did vou?"

"Yes," said Mr. Hassard. "That's what you are, Skid."

One of the eggs was sailing through the air before the echo of the last word crossed the ferry from New York to died away. Mr. Hassard is agile, and he dodged it. Striking the wall, it naturally

A smile broke over Mr. Tillotson's red face, and, bracing up for a more accurate aim, he threw the second egg. The auctioneer's left ear was immediately flooded with raw omelet, and, invoking the asssist. ance of the village constable, he soon had the satisfaction of seeing Mr. Tillotson safely lodged in jail. The next day he was brought before Justice Fowler and the case was proven, the prisoner, indeed, attempting no denial, but affecting it all as an excellent joke.

"Six months in the penitentiary," said the Justice, and that night, there being no penitentiary in Putnam County, Tillotson was taken to Albany and locked up for half a year.
