Hon. Simon G. Throop, for many years a resident of Honesdale, where he held the position of Justice of the Peace for two or three terms, died in Stroudsburg Thursday morning of last week, aged eighty seven years.

The Honesdale Citizen says the Dorflinger glass works of that place are filling an order for 72,000 hand lamps to be shipped to Japan. At the same time the Honesdale works have just sent 115,000 fruit jars across the continent to San Francisco.

F. E. Allen, of Wysox, administrator of the estate of Edwin C. Allen, deceased, who was killed about a year ago in the Exeter Mine at Pittston is about to bring suit for damages against the Lehigh Valley Coal Co., laying damages at $10,000.

The Towanda Journal says: Pan cake parties are the latest, and from the description we have of them they ought to be popular. The hostess invites her guests to a pan-cake party at which they all eat cakes fresh from the griddle, in one of which is a finger ring, which is prophetic of the marriage of the funder within a year. This is a kind of an entertainment good enough to be kept up through the maple syrup season, and until every maiden cherishes the fond delusions of hope.

The Waverly Free Press says: "The Cayuta Wheel and Foundry Co. (Sayre Pa.) started with workmen on Monday morning. It is well known that they turn out the best chilled car-wheels made in the United States, have taken the first premium at the Centennial Exhibition, held at Philadelphia, since which time they have received some very large orders, their sales for the past month having been larger than for any previous months since they began business.

William May, a boy about fifteen years of age, living at Plymouth, was run over and almost instantly killed about half a mile north of that place last night, by train No. 5 of the L. & B. division. He was standing on the end or side of a car of railroad iron, stealing a ride, and another boy on the same car, had some boards which he was throwing off the train, the end of one of which flew up as it was thrown off, striking young May and throwing him under the cars with the result mentioned.—Scranton Times Feb. 20.

The Honesdale Herald tells of a singular malady which some time since attacked the stock of Mr. William H. Beemer of Berlin township, and has resulted in the death of several head. It seems that some weeks ago Mr. Beemer's dog acted strangely, chasing cattle, poultry, etc., and he was tied up in an out-house. During the night the dog died. About a fortnight afterward a heifer was taken with symptoms of hydrophobia, and died within a few hours. One of his horses was then taken sick in the same manner and also died. Then another heifer, and another horse. The general impression seems to be that the dog was mad, and that the deaths of the other animals resulted from his bite.

Last Thursday one of the largest gas wells in the oil regions was struck in Clinton township, Butler county. The well is about ten miles from the town of Butler. The gas is now burning, and lights the whole country at night for miles around, and the noise produced by its escape can be heard for ten miles around. It is to be utilized for fuel.

The foreign imports at Philadelphia during January amounted in value to $1,254,011, of which three-fifths arrived in American vessels. The chief articles imported were $154,000 cotton goods, $158,000 of wool and woolens, $149,000 of flax and linens, $124,000 of tin plates, about 100,000 of soda ash, and nearly $100,000 of iron and its ores and manufactures. About one-seventh of the importation was free goods. Nearly the whole amount of the imports of January came from England, that country sending us $1,114,181, whilst Belgium sent $39,000 and Italy $32,000.

They assert that the number of illegitimate children born from year to year in Canada is increasing rapidly, while the social evil is also growing at a like alarming rate.

Some workmen of the Colorado Steam Navigation Company have dug out of the sands of an Aztec village a copper image weighing fifty pounds, representing an Aztec priest holding a human heart and exposing it to the sun, after the old ceremony of human sacrifices. The image is about one thousand years old, and now on exhibition at San Francisco.

No navy in time of war ever suffered such mortality among its higher officers as the navy of the United States has had to mourn during the last month. Within these few weeks no less than six Rear Admirals have died—Smith, Alden, Davis, Wilkes, Bailey, and now Goldsborough—all of them veterans who had done gallant service in their day and shared in the well-won honors of the American navy. Of the six, all but Davis, who was a student and a man of science rather than a man of action, had been already retired and their places on the active list filled up, so that this remarkable succession of deaths will only move the officers of the navy up one point; but though there are no vacancies in the list it will not be easy to fill the places of these sturdy old sailors, relics of a generation gone.

The will of Miss Mary Danser, who died suddenly in New York a few weeks since, has been made public. Miss Danser was the only child of the late Matthias Danser, the well-known sporting man, who attained such notoriety some time ago through the robbery of coupons belonging to him, and who died not long after his loss. By the terms of Mr. Danser's will, his property, which was very large, was divided equally between his wife and his daughter. Miss Danser was well known in religious circles, and was widely esteemed as a devout member of the Methodist Church and a benevolent woman. At the time of her death she was about thirty-five years of age. The estate amounts to $520,000, of which $185,000 is distributed among relatives of the family. The remainder is bequeathed in varying proportions among thirty-one religious, benevolent and charitable societies of New York.

It appears from the official record in the case that the Belknap prosecution in Washington was discontinued under the most flimsy grounds. The only reason assigned is that the district attorney had informed the attorney general that in his opinion if the case went to trial the jury would disagree. The opinion of the district attorney was doubtless founded upon experience of juries in Washington, subject to the bland persuasions of Shepherd, Babcock and Harrington, but it furnishes a singularly inadequate pretext for the order of the President to discontinue proceedings. Indeed, President Grant with his customary bluntness, added a more truthful and reasonable excuse in declaring that Belknap had suffered enough.

Fashion Notes.

The new hair nets are not received with favor by ladies possessing fine heads of hair, "all their own."

Broad bands of tortoise shell about an inch in width are much used in fastening braids at the back of the hair.

Black is the favorite color for dolmans, but lighter ones for mild weather are made of gray or drab camel's hair cloths.

A new fabric for overdresses is called Bourette; it is of silk and wool in damask figures with a rough, knotty surface.

In silk there is a revival of the excellent reversible designs. In black armures, brilliant contrasting colors are most popular.

Three short jackets are much in demand with English women. They are the Coq-Hardy, the Piccolino, and the Skating jacket.

Girls' dresses are made very plain at present, almost uniformly cut in the Gabrielle style, with a plaited skirt inserted in the back.

A prominent feature of new houses is the inlaid floor, which does away with carpets—handsome Turkish rugs taking their place.

Album fans, each stick painted by different artists, with a subject of their own selection, are among the New Year's novelties in Paris.

The newest pocket handkerchiefs are of cream or ecru foulard silk, with initials or monograms artistically worked in blue, red or brown silk.

Candles and candlesticks are a great feature of drawing-room decoration at present. The candles used in them are of wax, either white or colored.

Handsome coiffures of flowers now come studded with brilliant insects from Brazil. Anything brilliant and changeable, immediately gains favor.

Hemstitched handkerchiefs of silk pongee have a monogram worked in one or more colors. The embroidery is done to order, and the price is $1.25.

The empire robe, a revival of the style of the first empire, is the ball dress of the moment, among the elegantes of the Faubourg St. Germaine, in Paris.

A remarkable waterproof has been invented in Paris. It is of silk, and may be folded almost as small as a pocket handkerchief. When unfolded it offers an ingenious series of pockets of different shapes, made to hold the fan and other essentials of feminine toilets. The hood can be raised over the head by means of a spring, so constructed as to prevent the hood from resting on the hat and musing the flowers or other ornaments.

South Carolina.

Great preparations had been made at Columbia and Charleston, S. C., to celebrate Washington's birthday. But by the President's order, the militia were not allowed to participate. Governor Hampton, upon being informed of the receipt of the President's order, issued the following proclamation:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, COLUMBIA, S. C., February 20.—His Excellency the President of the United States having ordered that the white militia companies of this state should not parade on the 22d inst. to celebrate Washington's birthday, in deference to the office he holds, I hereby call upon these organizations to postpone to some future day this manifestation of respect to the memory of that illustrious President whose highest ambition it was, as it was his chief glory to observe the constitution and to obey the laws of his country. If the arbitrary command of a chief executive, who has not sought to emulate the virtues of Washington, deprives the citizens of this state, of the privilege of joining publicly in paying reverence to that day so sacred to every American patriot, we can at least, by our obedience to the constituted authority, however abruptly exercised, show that we are not unworthy to be the countrymen of Washington.

We must, therefore, remit to some auspicious period, which I trust is not far distant, the exercise of our right to commemorate the civic virtues of that unselfish character, who wielded his sword only to found and perpetuate that American constitutional liberty which is now denied to the citizens of South Carolina.

WADE HAMPTON, GOVERNOR.

The order of the President is stigmatized as a gratuitous insult to the white people of the state, prohibiting them from celebrating Washington's birthday, and at the same time according the undisputed privilege of doing so, to the colored troops. It cannot fail to create additional antagonism between the races, and there is no doubt there that it was issued at the instance of Gov. Chamberlain. It is universally deplored, because it needlessly antagonizes and irritates.
