PECULIARITIES OF SOME ANIMALS.

Cats are affectionate; they love young chickens, sweet cream and the best place in front of the fire place.

Dogs are faithful; they will stick to a bone when everybody else has deserted it-The donkey is an emblem of patience, but if you study him closer, you will find that laziness is what's the matter with him. The eagle is the monarch of the skies, but the little king bird will chase him to his hiding

Monkeys are imitative, but if they can't imitate some deviltry they are not happy. Hens know when it is going to rain and shelter themselves, but they will try to hatch out a glass egg just as honestly as they will one of Hornets have more fight in them than anything of their size, but there is no method in their madness; they will pitch into a meeting house when they are furious just as anxiously as they will into a sleeping baby in its cradle.

Flies toil not, neither do they spin, yet they have the first taste of all the best gravies in the land.

The cuckeo is the greatest economist among the birds; she lays her eggs in other birds' nests, and lets the birds hatch them out at their leisure. Rats have fewer friends and more enemies than anything of the four-legged persuasion on the face of the earth, and yet rats are as plenty now as in the palmiest days of the Roman Em-

The serpent and the crab change their clothing each year, and the raccoon lives all the winter long on the memory of what he ate in the summer.

The horse always gets up from the ground on his forelegs first, and the cow on her hind ones, and the dog turns around three times betore he lies down.

The elephant has the least, and the rabbit the most, eyes for his size, and a rat's tail is just the size of its body. The root the thoroughbred dog's mouth is always black. So is the hottom of the cat's foot who is a good mouser. The spider is the only creature that catches its food in a trap, and a sheep will live without water longer than any domestic animal.

The fox is the hardest to catch in a trap, and a musk-rat the easiest, and the meadow lark is the shyest of all the birds of the air.

The crow flies six miles, and the wild pigeon sixty an hour, but the humming bird beats all things on the wing.

The horse will eat ten hours out of every twelve; the ox lies down and chews his cud half the time; and the hog never knows what it is to be hungry.

The wild turkey can run faster than he can fly, and any man who is a good walker can tire a deer out in twenty-four hours.

TOO GOOD A CHANCE TO LOSE.

The Detroit Free Pacss tells this story : When a grocer's boy yesterday delivered a basket full of packages to a lady on Columbia street her quick eye detected the fact that she had received only eleven oranges in place of a "Young man you ate that other orange as you came along ?? she exclaimed as she recounted the number.

"Never-never!" he earnestly replied. "Well, where is it then?"

"Perhaps they counted them wrong, ma'am." "Well, I'll go right back with you and see."

"I didn't eat that orange," he began, after a little reflection, "but I'll tell'you how it was .-Down here, about two blocks, I saw an old chap out in his garden, with his hat hanging on a tree as he sawed a limb. He was the bald-headedest man I ever saw." j

"Well, what has that to do about the orange ?" she asked.

"Lots, ma'am, heaps. If you was a boy and saw such a head, and you knew you could hit it, and git away all right, wouldn't you put an orange agin it ?"

"It was very wicked," she softly answered. "Well, I dunno but 'twas; but if you had seen that old gent catch his legs and make a jump, and if you'd heard him yell out as he came down and grabbed for his hat, why ma'am you'd lend me enother orange to pop at some one as I go back !"

A tramp was arrested in New Jersey last week, and taken before a magistrate, who sentenced him to three months. The justice, in expleining the sentence, remarked that, while there was no evidence that the prisoner had been guilty of any crime, he thought it prudent to commit him, as he had a wild haggard look of a man about to start a newspaper.

Nothing makes a young man so happy as to get around to the post office after it is closed and see a letter in his box, to have his heart whisper that it is from her, to dream sweet and tender fancies, hallowed with love's sacredness all night, and to go in the morning and find it to be a bill of $7.50 for his last six months' washing.

Dr. Durbin, the great Methodist orator, once attempted to preach a sermon from the text:—

"Remember Lot's wife," and made a failure.—

After remember. After remarking to Dr. Bond that he did not know the reason of his failure, the venerable Doctor replied that he "had better hereafter let other men's wives alone."

THE BATTLE FOUGHT!

OUR OPENING A GRAND SUCCESS.

The multitude of people that thronged our New Store, and the thousands in the adjacent squares were happy to see GOOD GOODS sold so Cheap, and one and all pronouced our store a marvel of beauty never before seen in the Empire state. From seven a. m. until eleven p. m. our Palatial Store was literally packed with humanity. The people are now aware of our removal, and have seen the Largest and handsomest assortment of ladies', gents' and children's boots, shoes, ties and slippers that has ever been shown in this city.

Our old store, No. 97 Washington street, is a thing of the past—the eminent success we attained there is but a fraction of what we expect to achieve in our new location. We are now more centrally located, in a better lighted and more commodious store, having a large basement for our Wholesale Department. We have double the amount of goods for our customers to select from, and our
