 In the long ago times, when great at-tention was paid to the observance o tention was paid to the observance of Bainisg days, it was very natural that St.
Nicholas Day, the 6th of December, saints' days, it was very natural that St.
Nicholas Day, the th of December, should be celebrated by the children, shonld be celebrated by the children, eapecially in the schools, and wherever many were gathered together for any parpose $;$ and so we find traces of many odd and int odd and interesting costoms connected with the observance of the festival. But nowhere was it celebrated fith greater soleminty, or in a more singular way than old Eoglish he was called the "barne child bishop From the feast of St. Nich. olas until Inocents Das, the 28 th of December, this child-bishop was nvvested with reat anthority, and maintained Il the state of a real prelate of the church. He wore a bishop's robes and miter, anc arried in his hard the pastoral staff or arczier, while the rest of the choristers ed to him the same obedience which was shown by the real officials to their superor, the bishop. Upon the eve of Innoents' Day,-a day observed in meniory of the innocent obildren murdered by Herod,- the boy, bishop, attended by his ellow-choristers in rich copen, with lightdapers in their hauds, went in solemn children chanted hymus. The dean and Canons walked at the head of the procession, the chaplain next, and the bishop, With his little prebendaries, in the place of honor, last of all. The bishop then took his seat upon a throne, while the rest of the children were arranged on ach side of the choir upon the upper moft ascent. They theu performed a he altar the same service, with the exception of the mass, that the real bishop and his clergy would have performed had hey officiated. After service, all left the charch in the same solemn order novel kind. of play to them? We cannot tell. But as for the boy-bishop, although he may have enjoyed the impor tance of his position for a day or two, 1 am quite sure that he mast haye grown heartily tired of his dignity before the three weekk of his episcopate were over.

Daring all that time he was forbidden "to least or to make viaits," but was re the choristers, keeping ap the dienity o his offlle. Think of the the litle fellow, hemped to act his part with all the compelled to act his part with all the gravity of a grown person, sitting in golemn state while his light-hearted play

The Deacon's Conundram.
"Boys !" said Deacon Green to a group red-cheeked fellows the other dav, " never see a healthy, go-ahead crowd o young folks like you, that I don't say to myself, 'here's religion.' Do you know the reason ?" the boys, in a breath. "Yes with the air of man who had intended to wake a speech but bad soddenly decided to keep it to Then the Deacon gave a pleasant nod and walked off:
"Now, what did he mean by that?" sald one of the fellows " 1 know," gried Bob King. "He intended only for Sundays and for sick poople; and the Deacon would like to see -ore well people tryivg it on week-day "that's all."
