Ganan, of Lycoming county, and Prof. C. H. Verrill, Superintendent Tilden, of Susquehanna county, was present as an official visitor.—Advertiser.

Royal Adams, his wife, and a five-year old son are visiting Mr. Adams' father at Lordville, N. Y., on the borders of Wayne county. On Tuesday the little boy wandered off. There is a dense forest on the outskirts of the town. A neighbor had seen the child going in that direction. A search was made for him by his father but he could not be found.

The entire village then joined in the search. It was kept up all day and all night. During the night a violent storm of wind, rain, thunder and lightning passed over the vicinity. There were several narrow escapes from death, but there was no cessation in the hunt. No trace of the boy being found, and a catamount having been seen in the vicinity only a day or so before, and bears being known to be plenty, it was the belief of many that the child had been devoured. At sunrise Wednesday, however, the father, who was about to give up the search in despair, discovered his boy in a hollow stump, high in the mountain, two miles from Lordville. On being called, he sprang from the stump, and clung to his father's neck, almost crazed with joy. He had gone to the woods to hunt flowers, he said. He had wandered about all day Tuesday calling for his papa. At night he crept crying into the stump. He called several times for his papa, when, he says, a big dog came up to the stump and growled at him, scaring him so he was afraid to move or speak again. What he thought was a dog was a bear beyond a doubt. The boy's clothing was almost torn from him, and his flesh was badly lacerated. Near where he lay three large trees had been blown down, and one was struck by lightning. Aside from soreness and stiffness and a little nervousness, no serious consequences have resulted to the child.

TAKE NOTICE.
LOOK OUT FOR YOUR OWN INTEREST.

The result of Spring trade has shown the amount of goods that had to be slaughtered to pay debts, yet, whilst the masses go down before the sweep of the panic, live men, who have the money to buy, are able to quote prices that fought to derision the bare whisper of competition, and whilst the credit houses are tottering on the verge of bankruptcy or ruin, the cash man marches over the road the unquestioned master of the situation.

From the sheriff to the assignee sale and bankrupt, and from every sale the want of the Mighty Dollar is known, and these are unanswerable arguments. The sledge hammer drives to show the difference between cash and credit—between the right and wrong. R. Winters of Friendsville, Susquehanna Co., Pa., after coming from New York city adding paying cash for his goods at the lowest price, defies competition, and has bought a general stock of goods to numerous to mention—such as Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots and Shoes, Ready made Clothing, Crockery, Hats and Caps, etc. and everything the honest citizen wants.

Remember the place—close to the Post Office. Friendsville, July 11, 1877. R. WINTERS.
