Butter Making.

This is a highly important branch of agriculture, and though nothing is more simple and easy of practice, yet nothing seems to be so little understood as the art of making butter. I will compare the two modes.

1st. The way generally practised.—The cows are very frequently poor, and especially in winter, from not being curried and kept clean, are extremely dirty; added to which, is the habit some cows have of putting their feet in the bucket. Now, in these cases, the milk becomes so intimately mixed with the dirt that no straining nor subsequent labor can remove it.

Next, the milk is set away in pans, not any too clean, on the floor of the cellar or milk-house, sometimes with boards over and weights to keep them on, sometimes without weights, and without any cover. At any rate the cats or rats very frequently manage to get into the milk, and fast to satisfy. This creates the necessity of straining the cream, a practice entirely unnecessary, if due care is taken.

Next, the cream is kept too long before churning especially in families that keep only one or two cows, and thus the butter will be almost rancid as soon as churned.

I remember once when young, of coming very near acquiring a dislike to all butter, and to this day am very suspicious when abroad, and all because we had borrowed some from a neighbor who had kept her cream too long.

2d. The way observed by all good butter-makers.—The cows are kept fat and clean; no dirt is allowed to get into the milk; it is strained into pans which are kept strictly clean, and set away in a cupboard or safe, where neither cat, rat, mouse, nor anything else can possibly get into it. It is not allowed to stand more than two or three days in summer nor than three or four days in winter. A good barrel or atmospheric churn is used that does not take an hour and a half to produce butter, and keeps the fat out. The butter is taken out and properly worked but is not washed; because, as cleanliness was observed in all the preceding operations, washing is unnecessary, and as care was taken to have the cream of the right temperature when put into the churn, by means of a thermometer, so the latter will not be scalded and look white, and the carrots can be spared. This is the "modus operandi," the whole secret of making butter.

64 DOSES

IN EACH BOTTLE—One Tenth of a Grain of the most powerful and effectual remedy for the cure of all diseases of the Blood, and for the relief of all the symptoms of the same. Price $1.00 per Bottle, or Six Bottles for $5.00. Twenty-One Days.

BRANT'S PURIFYING EXTRACT

In no put up in QUART BOTTLES, and is of the same medicinal strength and efficacy as that in the small bottles. The great superiority of this Purifier over Sarsaparilla, and all other similar medicines, may be seen in the blood from the following facts:—It is not only purgative, as is asserted by its name, but it is also a powerful tonic, and restores the system to its natural state, and gives energy and vigor to the system.

Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock, Cherry and Sassafras Barks, are more strongly and more powerfully concentrated, and larger quantities of each of these purifiers in each bottle of Brant's Purifier, than in any bottle of medicine, called by any name, and in any country.—Because this Purifier also possesses the medicinal property of driving out of the system all the impurities of the Blood, and restoring it to its natural state, and gives energy and vigor to the system.

ONE BOTTLE OF BRANT'S PURIFIER, three times a Day. But it is not so with Extract of Sarsaparilla, or any other medicine of its kind, which requires a large quantity of it to produce the same effect. The medicinal property of this Purifier is, to drive out of the system all the impurities of the Blood, and restore it to its natural state, and gives energy and vigor to the system.
