Confident Spodier BY C. D. STUART. Speed the plow and turn the furrow, Statter wide the vellow grain, Soos in will, with golden harvest, Bring in hundled fold again; Who so happy as the plowman?

Up and singing with the sun;

Happy tridging in the farrow

Happy when the day is done.

Speed the plow and turn the furrow. Sow the seed and reap the land, Bay, not the king his sceptre, Better fills the plowman's hand; None so happy as the plowman, None on earth so true a lord; Reaper of the golden harvest Planter of the mellow sward!

New Method of Planting Potatoes.

Tue opinion has generally prevailed, that the po ato cannot be successfully grown without the assistance of large applications of energetic and strong manure. My experience, however, with this crop, since the prevalence of the rot has induced me to adopt a different opinion. Finding that every instance where green unfermented manure was applied and even where gypsum was used as a substitute both on old lands and these recently broken up, the rut or murrain as it is denominated in Europe, prevailed to a most fearful extent, I have for the last two years, planted my crop on green sward turned over early and deeply in the spring, without any other stimulus than that contained in the soil itself and with complete success, so far as regards immunity from the rot. Plaster R gypsum, I consider the very worst axplication that can be made, even in dry seasons. Indeed I have never known an instance of its being applied where the tubers were not most injuriously if not fatally affected. Why it is so is a point equally as obscure to my comprehension as the cause of the disease itself. It is true that a less yield results from this system of non-manuring, but then there is this important advantage attending it, the product we do obtain is sound. My method of planting is as follows:-

Early in the spring I break up my sward landchoosing for this purpose such portion of my mowing lands as are very rich, roll and harrow. I spare no pains to bring the surface to a fine, and even tilth, as by so doing I in a measure obviate the nec- large and choice selection of FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS, essity of manure. Having accomplished this important preliminary part of the performance, I next draw my forrows three feet and a half apart, and drop my tubers, which I select from the smallest or medium sized portion of the previous crop as they produce earlier potatoes—placing them two Fish & Salt, at wholesale & retail. He would also feet apart in the rows; a closer stand having a tendency to induce a suggnation of air, and tereby induce disease. Beford planting, I expose the seed, for a week or so on the sunny side of a fence, or out building, covering them carefully over at night

FRUIT TEXES FROM SCIONS .- A new method rais ing fruit trees by planting the scions, is recommended by a Horticulturist, as a great desideratum in obtaining good fruit. The advantage that, it has over grafting is, that it is more expeditions and requires no stock nor tree. They must be planted where they are required to stand, and the labor for one day will be sufficient to plant out enough for a large orchard after the scions are obtained. The method of proparing the plant is as follows: Take the scion for grafting and at any time after the first of Febuary, and until the buds begin to grow considerably, and dipeach end of the shoot nto melted pitch, wax, or tollow, and bury it in the ground, the buds uppermost while the hody lies in a horizontal position and at the depth of two or three inches. We are informed that trees obtained in this way will bear in four years from the time of planting. We have no doubt of this method of raising fruit.
