

A race at St. Louis, on the 21st ult. between Jackson the "American Deer," and the trotting horse June Bug, resulted in favor of the former. The provisions of the race were, the horse to trot ten miles whilst Jackson ran five miles six hundred yards. The horse made the first five miles in fourteen minutes thirty-three seconds, but soon after began to "let down" and was withdrawn at the close of the 8th mile. Jackson went his distance inside of twenty-eight minutes.

Nearly all the Germans arrested, for participation in the late Hoboken riot, and confined in the Bergen jail, have been discharged. The "Short Boy" who were the riot instigators of the riot, were not only cruelly beaten when taken to the jail, but also arrested. Some of them, at the time of the fight, had the address to get themselves sworn in as special constables, and this accounts for the large number of innocent Germans apprehended, as well as for the further fact, that most of the prisoners were not only cruelly beaten when taken to the jail, but also arrested. MARRIED.

In Montrose, 10th inst. by Ed. D. Dimock, Mr. W. GADWELL, of New Milford, and Miss Lous SOBERS, of Bridgewater.

DIED.

At liberty on the 7th inst., Sally Southward, consort of Gideon Southward, in the sixty-ninth year of her age.

She was born in Chester, Sabrook parish, Conn. Mr. Southward emigrated to Bridgewater in this country in the early settlement thereof, and he and his family passed through the hard-ship common to all in such circumstances, with patience and untiring perseverance. And Mrs. Southward left nothing undone on her part in providing the necessities of life for her young and increasing family. But the hardships and privations that she endured laid the foundation of diseases which terminated in early life. Her health began to fail for some time before she died. But her greatest sufferings were caused by a disease of the heart, which for a year or more produced the most excruciating distress, which she bore with that patience which she had manifested and for which she had been distinguished for many years. Mrs. S. united with the Baptist Church in Bridgewater soon after she arrived in the place, and she maintained an unblemished character to the end of her life. She was beloved by all her neighbors, as well as by the Church. When dying she continued to manifest the power of that faith in Christ that "overcometh the world, and swalloweth up death in victory." Lever, Watch, and minute Antomata Mechanism.

J. A. SINGLETON (Pupil of Litherland, the Patentee, and late with R. Boskell, Liverpool), Chronometer, and Patent Lever Watch Manufacturer. In compliance with numerous influential and earnest solicitations to remain in Montrose, I have consented on condition that I meet with that encouragement and approval which it shall be my constant study and interest to merit. In addition to the Manufacturing Department, J. A. S. undertakes effectually to repair every description of Geneva Musical Tables, Repeating and other Watches, together with Automata, Mechanical, however complex. The disagreeable jarring so prevalent in spiral music, and so justly complained of, though eradicated, more particularly so in Musical Boxes. It is admitted that, in connection with, in addition to theoretical knowledge, a special acquaintance, it is indispensably requisite that the artisan should be practically familiar with the complex nature of that delicately minute description of machinery referred to. This qualification, and this only, renders the artist competent to accomplish with mathematical accuracy. If appears of forty years' assiduous and practical perseverance in the construction of various approved escapements for the more accurate means of measuring Time, in conjunction with unique specimens of Automata now in his possession, together with the high patronage enjoyed, preponderates in the scale of scientific approbation, then J. A. S. unhesitatingly presumes he has some pretensions to the confidence of those honoring him with their recommendations.
