

The Susquehanna Register.

JOHN C. MILLER, EDITOR.

MONTROSE, PENN.

Thursday Morning, Nov. 27, 1851.

is, and who helped the evidence to vanish, we know not. One thing we do know, that a verdict of guilty and a sentence of imprisonment... The people in this part of the Commonwealth are in favor of supporting the laws...

Fire in New Millford.

On Wednesday night last week, the large Tannery owned by the Messrs. Pratt was discovered to be on fire. It had so far advanced that all attempts to check it would be useless, and every effort was made to save the heavy stock in the building. In this they were aided by the citizens of New Millford...

Court Business.

The trial of William Blake upon an indictment for Arson occupied Thursday evening and Friday. It was disposed of upon a kind of demurrer to the evidence by the defendants counsel, by the entering of a verdict of not guilty. The next case taken up was an indictment against Brian Flood and Peter Brady... The persons indicted for making and conspiring to pass counterfeit money were disposed of as follows...

The Christiana Trials.

Two of the most important witnesses in these cases have escaped from the debtor's room where they were confined. And up to this time, although large rewards had been offered, and great exertions made, no trace of them has been found. They have gone under circumstances which show plainly that some one assisted them. Some papers are just now discussing the motives which might have actuated both parties to spirit the evidence away before the trial...

Snow—Snow fell here on Tuesday evening to the depth of 8 or 10 inches, and this (Wednesday) morning presents a very wintry appearance. The compromise made by our late Congress talks no turkey to us of the north-east States. When a matter is adjusted, there should be a fair and equitable adjustment, so that each party should have no reason of complaint...

Resolved, That while we have sustained the principles of the Act of 1846 as a general principle, we have looked forward with earnest solicitude to the period when Congress would be able and willing to settle upon a permanent basis the details of that Act, and particularly the duty of iron. Resolved, That the citizens of Pennsylvania should finally settle the question of carrying the duty upon iron upon the same standard, and by so regulating it as far as practicable from fraud and destructions...

Resolved, That we maintain as firmly as ever our principles of political equality regarding all the great interests of the country—agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing—as standing alike before the Government, and each entitled to the same fostering care; and that we regard the modifications of the Tariff of 1846, proposed in the foregoing resolutions, as perfectly consistent with these principles of political equality.

The Berks County Tariff Meeting.

A slip from the office of the Reading Gazette and Democrat, the leading Democratic Journal of Berks county, brings us a detailed report of the recent Tariff meeting held at Pottsville on the 15th inst. From this slip we learn that the gathering was a democratic county meeting, called by the regular standing committee of the party in Berks. The purpose of taking such action upon the question of modifying the tariff upon iron as they may deem expedient... What is a Whig? We take the following definition of 'Whig' from the Whig Gazette. The definition is properly defined, and a beautiful comparison between Whig and the present Locofoco Democracy... The New York Catastrophe. The details of the school-house disaster in New York city are truly horrible. So fatal and unusual an event has thrown a gloom over the whole of that large city. We copy below, from the New York papers of yesterday morning, the accounts they furnish of the occurrence...

Resolved, That while we have sustained the principles of the Act of 1846 as a general principle, we have looked forward with earnest solicitude to the period when Congress would be able and willing to settle upon a permanent basis the details of that Act, and particularly the duty of iron. Resolved, That the citizens of Pennsylvania should finally settle the question of carrying the duty upon iron upon the same standard...

Resolved, That we maintain as firmly as ever our principles of political equality regarding all the great interests of the country—agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing—as standing alike before the Government, and each entitled to the same fostering care; and that we regard the modifications of the Tariff of 1846, proposed in the foregoing resolutions, as perfectly consistent with these principles of political equality.

Resolved, That we maintain as firmly as ever our principles of political equality regarding all the great interests of the country—agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing—as standing alike before the Government, and each entitled to the same fostering care; and that we regard the modifications of the Tariff of 1846, proposed in the foregoing resolutions, as perfectly consistent with these principles of political equality.

What is a Whig?

We take the following definition of 'Whig' from the Whig Gazette. The definition is properly defined, and a beautiful comparison between Whig and the present Locofoco Democracy which we hear our opponents prating so much about. We commend it to Whigs and hope our Locofoco friends will see the propriety of coming with us, that they may enjoy the proud and glorious appellation of Whigs. There is a beauty in the name, and every true-hearted Whig should feel proud of it...

Resolved, That while we have sustained the principles of the Act of 1846 as a general principle, we have looked forward with earnest solicitude to the period when Congress would be able and willing to settle upon a permanent basis the details of that Act, and particularly the duty of iron. Resolved, That the citizens of Pennsylvania should finally settle the question of carrying the duty upon iron upon the same standard...

Resolved, That we maintain as firmly as ever our principles of political equality regarding all the great interests of the country—agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing—as standing alike before the Government, and each entitled to the same fostering care; and that we regard the modifications of the Tariff of 1846, proposed in the foregoing resolutions, as perfectly consistent with these principles of political equality.

Resolved, That we maintain as firmly as ever our principles of political equality regarding all the great interests of the country—agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing—as standing alike before the Government, and each entitled to the same fostering care; and that we regard the modifications of the Tariff of 1846, proposed in the foregoing resolutions, as perfectly consistent with these principles of political equality.

Locofoco Predictions Unsustained by Facts.

WHY OUR GRAIN MARKET IS LOW. When the Locofoco passed the Tariff Law of 1846, they promised that its results would be highly beneficial to the Farmers of the country—that it would give them a new market which would be more profitable and reliable than the home market, they enjoyed under the Whig Tariff of 1842. The Secretary of the Treasury under President Lolk, Robert J. Walker, predicted the most glowing results and promised the people the most cheering benefits... The number of children who were injured—some of them quite seriously. Their names are Miss Kohler, Miss Smith, Miss Barris, Miss Traphagen, (injured badly in left side) and Miss McFarlan...

Resolved, That while we have sustained the principles of the Act of 1846 as a general principle, we have looked forward with earnest solicitude to the period when Congress would be able and willing to settle upon a permanent basis the details of that Act, and particularly the duty of iron. Resolved, That the citizens of Pennsylvania should finally settle the question of carrying the duty upon iron upon the same standard...

Resolved, That we maintain as firmly as ever our principles of political equality regarding all the great interests of the country—agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing—as standing alike before the Government, and each entitled to the same fostering care; and that we regard the modifications of the Tariff of 1846, proposed in the foregoing resolutions, as perfectly consistent with these principles of political equality.

Resolved, That we maintain as firmly as ever our principles of political equality regarding all the great interests of the country—agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing—as standing alike before the Government, and each entitled to the same fostering care; and that we regard the modifications of the Tariff of 1846, proposed in the foregoing resolutions, as perfectly consistent with these principles of political equality.

Locofoco Predictions Unsustained by Facts.

WHY OUR GRAIN MARKET IS LOW. When the Locofoco passed the Tariff Law of 1846, they promised that its results would be highly beneficial to the Farmers of the country—that it would give them a new market which would be more profitable and reliable than the home market, they enjoyed under the Whig Tariff of 1842. The Secretary of the Treasury under President Lolk, Robert J. Walker, predicted the most glowing results and promised the people the most cheering benefits...

Resolved, That while we have sustained the principles of the Act of 1846 as a general principle, we have looked forward with earnest solicitude to the period when Congress would be able and willing to settle upon a permanent basis the details of that Act, and particularly the duty of iron. Resolved, That the citizens of Pennsylvania should finally settle the question of carrying the duty upon iron upon the same standard...

Resolved, That we maintain as firmly as ever our principles of political equality regarding all the great interests of the country—agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing—as standing alike before the Government, and each entitled to the same fostering care; and that we regard the modifications of the Tariff of 1846, proposed in the foregoing resolutions, as perfectly consistent with these principles of political equality.

Resolved, That we maintain as firmly as ever our principles of political equality regarding all the great interests of the country—agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing—as standing alike before the Government, and each entitled to the same fostering care; and that we regard the modifications of the Tariff of 1846, proposed in the foregoing resolutions, as perfectly consistent with these principles of political equality.

Locofoco Predictions Unsustained by Facts.

WHY OUR GRAIN MARKET IS LOW. When the Locofoco passed the Tariff Law of 1846, they promised that its results would be highly beneficial to the Farmers of the country—that it would give them a new market which would be more profitable and reliable than the home market, they enjoyed under the Whig Tariff of 1842. The Secretary of the Treasury under President Lolk, Robert J. Walker, predicted the most glowing results and promised the people the most cheering benefits...

NOTICE... LOST...