ton we could grow, all the Grain she would take, and all the Gold we could spare, but these did not suffice to pay for the ship loads of Wares and Cloths, of Laces and Gimcracks, that we were rapidly importing. In vain did we endeavor to "gamble the trade" with Federal Stocks, State Stocks, Railroad Bonds and every form of promise to pay which Europe could be induced to accept in lieu of actual payment.—Her traders and capitalists were most anxious to keep alive and stimulate our habits of extravagance, to urge us on in the downward career on which we were so giddily driving, but they would not take all the "securities" we urged upon them, for they lacked adequate faith therein. In vain were smooth-tongued notabilities sent out to wheedle them by Buncombe speeches and brilliant figurings of the certain net proceeds of the wild lands and prophetic railroads they offered to mortgage; the very men who had admired the dexterity and dashing abandon of the mathematician in Treasury Reports and other documents designed to be swallowed by Yankees alone, could not see the point of the joke when they were asked to stake their own fortunes on the soundness of his calculations. They shook their heads, buttoned their pockets, and hurried on. And so the imminent danger of a revulsion hung over us even down to the opening of the present year.

—At length, all is changed. How long the new breeze may last must depend on circumstances, and cannot be foreseen; but for the present all danger of a crash is at an end. The merchants, manufacturers and capitalists of Europe, seeing how steadily our Cotton, our Grain and our Gold are poured upon them, while the interest on nearly all our recent Bonds is promptly paid, say to each other—"Why should we kill the goose which lays us such golden eggs? Why even let her commit suicide? Rather let us keep her alive and prolific as long as possible"—so they stop pressing for cash payment, and betake themselves to a wider examination and more extensive purchases of our Public Securities. One Million dollars of these Securities of various kinds have been bought here on Foreign account within the last week or two, infusing new potency into the lately tottering knees of the Stock Market, and giving the Bulls brilliant prospects for the immediate future. How long the new tide may flow, we do not pretend to guess; but there is no obvious reason why it should not hold for months at least. Meantime the outward drain of Specie will be checked by the abundance of bills drawn against the various Stocks and Bonds purchased here on British account; so that it is not impossible that our Currency may be expended, Prices inflated, and Speculation generally rage beyond all recent example.

—"Glory to goodness!" said the old woman who had financiered out of a quandary, "I have borrowed money enough to pay all my debts!" This female Walker had at least as much reason for exultation as our Country has in view of the recent turn of affairs. For, be it ever borne in mind, we have paid nothing, but only sinking deeper and faster in debt. Instead of paying off the bills that were worrying us, and taking due precautions against a like botheration in future, we have simply transformed them into obligations maturing at a remote day. For every Million that we found it inconvenient to pay when due, our polite creditors have agreed to take Sixty Thousand a year for fifteen or twenty years, and the principal at the end of the term. And we are dealing with this as though we had wiped out the debt, and plunging further in debt at double speed on the strength of it.

Meantime the Furnaces and Factories which should turn out the Iron and Cloth for which we are thus "running our face" stand idle and deserted; the Artisans and Laborers who should have produced them wander hither and thither in search of employment, or are desperately contriving and scheming to reach the Land of Gold, where Labor is not such a drug. For every hundred dollars' worth of Metals, Cloths or Wares that we have run in debt for during the past year, there has been an American workman standing idle for months past, anxiously seeking work and finding none. There never before was so great a dearth of employment throughout the Free States, as during the past winter, and it still continues. And still we go on, running in debt Millions per month for products that our own idle laborers could gladly make, and calling it buying large purchase of Railroad Iron from England at $37½ per ton, payable in seven per cent. Bonds running fifteen years. Thus for each ton of this Iron over $76 in cash must be paid before and at the maturing of the Bonds—but who cares for debts having fifteen years to run?—We may all be dead before they mature. So hurrah for giant debts abroad and idle laborers at home! Hurrah for boundless Speculation to-day, though Bankruptcy be as boundless to-morrow! Hurrah for giant fortunes made by Bond-mongering and giant taxes to support our crowded Alms-Houses! Hurrah for blown-out Furnaces and British Free Trade!

Pennsylvania Legislature.

SENATE, March 20.—The Speaker laid before the Senate and abstract of the accounts of the West Chester and Philadelphia railroad Company; and a communication from the Canal Commissioners, relative to the claims of John Nichols and Henry Pople.

The bill to authorize the Pittsburg and Steubenville turnpike road company to alter the location of their road, and to borrow money, was passed finally.

Petitions on the usual variety of subjects were then presented.

The following bills were read in place; To incorporate the Mechanics' savings institution, of Harrisburg; To construe the act of the 9th of April, 1849, exempting property to the amount of $300 from execution; To enable illegitimate children to inherit the estate of the mother; To incorporate the Union railroad company; To incorporate the Mechanics' mutual life and health insurance company.

On motion of Mr. Carothers, the Senate resolved to hold a session on Monday evening of each week.

The consideration of the bill to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, was resumed in committe of the whole, when remaining sections were read, amended and adopted; when

Mr. Forsyth moved an additional section, submitting the question of license or no license to a vote of the people on the second Tuesday of June, which was adopted.

The bill was then laid over, to come up on second reading.

The bill to provide for the immediate completion of the North Branch Canal, came up in order on third reading.

The first question was on the amendment of Mr. M'Murtrie, to go into committee of the whole for the purpose of special amendment, as amended by Mr. Kunkel, to go into committee of the whole for the purpose of substituting a new bill, which pledges the revenues of the North Branch Canal after its completion, for the repayment of the loan, and the State in no case to be responsible for its repayment.

Mr. Sanderson and Mr. Packer opposed the amendment, taking the ground that it would be destructive of the object of the bill.

Mr. Kunkel replied, in defence of the proposition contained in his amendment.

The amendment as amended was then disagreed to by the following vote—yeas, 15, nays 16.

The question again recurring upon the original bill.

Mr. Malone moved to go into committee to amend by negotiating the loan according to the provisions of the law of May 4th, 1841, providing for the issue of relief notes.

The motion was not agreed to by the following vote—yeas 14, nays 17.

Mr. M'Murtrie then moved to go into committee of the whole for the purpose of substituting a bill for the original, which proposed to borrow $850,000, of which $290,000 was to be appropriated to the avoidance of the inclined planes on the Allegheny portgage railroad, and the balance to the North Branch canal.

The motion was negatived by the following vote—yeas 10, nays 21.

Mr. Muhlenberg then moved to go into committee of the whole for the purpose of amending the bill so as to authorize the Governor to borrow $850,000, by issuing $1000 coupon bonds bearing five per cent. interest.

The proposition was negatived—yeas 3, nays 28.

Mr. Fernon moved that the Senate re-consider the vote by which the proposition of Mr. M'Murtrie was negatived; which was not agreed to—yeas 13, nays 17.

Mr. Kunkel then renewed his motion before negatived, with the difference of putting the rate of interest at 5½ per cent. instead of 6 per cent, as before.

The motion was agreed to—yeas 16, nays 14.

The Senate then resolved itself into committee of the whole, and inserted the amendment of Mr. Kunkel in the original bill, the Senate then adjourned.

HOUSE, March 20.—The following bills were introduced; To incorporate the Montour, Cove, and Snake Creek pland road company; and a bill to incorporate the Mechanics' mutual beneficial association, of Philadelphia; To erect parts of Lycoming and Clinton counties into a new county, to be called West Branch. Adjourned.

SENATE, March 21.—Petitions on the usual variety of subjects were presented.

Mr. Kunkel reported a supplement to the act relative to divorces, with amendments.

Mr. Malone reported a supplement to the act incorporating the Doylstown Bank of Bucks county.

The following bill was read in place; To authorize the re-survey of the line between Wayne and Pike counties.

The bill to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, came up in order on second reading.

Mr. Muhlenberg moved to amend the first section by authorizing an action of trespass to be brought by individuals who might sustain loss under the operation of the bill, against the Commonwealth, to recover the amount of such loss sustained by the depreciation of property and the loss of business.

Mr. Muhlenberg thought that the amendment would commend itself to the good sense of every Senator. It merely provided the Commonwealth should refund to persons suffering depreciation in property, real or personal, the amount of such loss. It was right that compensation should be made to innocent parties who had embarked their capital under the sanction and protection of law, in this branch of manufacture. When the British government resolved that slavery in the West India islands was morally wrong and should be abolished, they recognized the rights of the owners of these slaves, in making them a liberal compensation for their losses, although it took £25,000,000 to do so. In the country which he represented there were a large number of vineyards, planted on unarable lands not fit for other purposes of cultivation. These yielded 500,000 gallons of wine annually, which sold at 75 cents per gallon, producing about $400,000. In view of the loss which would be sustained by the passage of the bill, he thought that no honest man could refuse to make compensation. Even the Senator from Allegheny (Mr. Carothers) he hoped would admit that, if common good required the passage of this bill, [illegible] required that compensation ruinous loss.

Mr. M. continued his argument at length, adducing other instances to support his position.

Messrs. Carothers and Sanderson replied.

Mr. Guernsey moved to amend the proviso offered by Mr. Muhlenberg, by making the vendors of liquor liable for all damages that may arise from the sale of liquor, for all lives lost or injured, and for all characters, moral and political, for all depredations of any man or his family from any injuries arising from such traffic.

Mr. Muhlenberg opposed the proviso, and made some further remarks in support of his amendment.

Mr. Kunkel did not know but that he would be found with the Senator from Berks, in opposition to this bill, but he could not concur with his argument or vote for his amendment. He considered his reasoning based upon the losses which would arise from the prohibition of the manufacture and traffic in liquor, as of no weight whatever. The true principle in legislation was in the maxim that "the good of the people is the supreme law;" and wherever the interest of the people demanded it, laws had been passed injurious to private property. If there was no better argument against the law than this, he would be found voting for it.

Mr. Buckalew followed in advocacy of the amendment of Mr. Muhlenberg.

Mr. Evans spoke at length in favor of the bill.

The amendment offered by Mr. Guernsey was negatived without a division.

The question recurring on the proviso of Mr. Muhlenberg, it was disagreed to—yeas 10, nays 23.

On the question, shall the first section of the bill, which prohibits either manufacture or sale of liquor, pass? it was agreed to—yeas 19, nays 14.

The several sections to the eighth were then agreed to, when it gave rise to considerable discussion, but before any action was had on it, the Senate adjourned.

Evening Session.—Mr. Crabb read a bill supplementary to the act for the limitation of actions.

The bill supplementary to the act incorporating the Susquehanna railroad company, came up in order on second reading, and was passed finally—yeas 15, nays 4.

Then following bank bills were taken up in order on second reading and postponed; The Anthracite Bank of Tamaqua; To increase the capital stock of the Southwark Bank.

The bill to incorporate the New Holland railroad company, was taken up and passed.

The bill to incorporate the Lackawanna iron and coal company, was taken up on second reading and passed—yeas 19, nays 6.

It was then moved to take up on [illegible] reading the bill to re-charter the Easton Bank, which was agreed to—yeas 15, nays 10.

The first and only section of the bill then passed second reading—yeas 14, nays 12.

The further consideration of the bill was then postponed. Adjourned.

HOUSE, March 21.—The bill changing the time for holding courts in Bradford county, was taken up, read twice and passed finally.

Numerous petitions were presented, in which a couple of hours were consumed.

The joint resolutions relative to appropriations of money by the general government to lines of steamships, were taken up, read twice and passed—yeas 80, nays 26.

The second reading of the supplement to the act incorporating the Delaware, Lehigh, Schuylkill and Susquehanna railroad company was resumed, and discussed, when a motion was made to postpone the bill; which was agreed to—yeas 40, nays 39.

The House then adjourned.

SENATE, March 23.—Petitions on the usual variety of subjects were presented.

The following bills were reported; To authorize the Cleveland and Mahoning railroad company, to extend their road into the Commonwealth; To incorporate the Union railroad company.

The following bills read in place; A supplement to the act incorporating the Luzerne and Schuylkil railroad company; also, a bill to confirm the title to certain real estate.

The bill to prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquor, came up in order on second reading.

The question pending being upon the adoption of the eighth section—

Mr. Sanderson offered an amendment substituting a new section somewhat modified in its character, which was agreed to.

The section as amended was then adopted—yeas 19, nays 13.

The ninth and tenth sections were adopted, and the eleventh stricken out. The thirteenth section was disagreed to unanimously.

Mr. Malone offered a proviso to come in as an additional section, that the act should not apply to any manufacturer of wine, cider, brewer of malt liquors, or other liquors distilled from Agricultural products, who shall not sell the same in less quantities than thirty-one gallons.

Mr. Muhlenberg moved to amend the amendment by excepting vinous and malt liquors, so that none but the manufacturers of spirituous liquors shall be prohibited from selling in less quantities than thirty-one gallons; which was not agreed to—yeas 15, nays 18.

The question recurring on the amendment, it was adopted—yeas 17, nays 15.

The section submitting the question to a vote of the people at the next general election, was adopted—yeas 24, nays 9.

The bill was then ordered to be transcribed for a third reading—yeas 17, nays 15.

On motion the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE, March 23.—Mr. Warren read in his place a joint resolution relative to a grant of lands by the general government for the purpose of aiding in the construction of the Sunbury and Erie railroad in Pennsylvania.

The following bills reported, with negative recommendations; To incorporate the Buck Mountain and Mahonoy railroad company, with amendments; To incorporate the Scott Legion of Mexican soldiers, in Philadelphia; To erect parts of Westmoreland, Cambria, Indiana and Somerset counties into a seperate one, to be called "Lignier;" To erect parts of Schuylkill county into a new one, to be called "Penn;" To erect parts of Clearfield, Cambria and Indiana counties into a new one, to be called "Pine;" To erect parts of Lancaster, Lebanon and Dauphin counties into a separate county, to be called "Conewago."

The bills on the private callendar were taken up, passed first reading and prepared for final passage, and a host of local bills acted upon, the House then adjourned.

SENATE, March 24.—The following bills were read in place; To relieve the estates of foreign corporations; The supplement to the act incarporating the Sunbury and Erie railroad company was then taken up and debated at length, and was finally referred to the Committee on Corporations.

The bill authorizing a loan of $850,000 for the completian of the North Branch Canal was then again taken up.

The question being upon the amendment pledging the revenue of the work for the redemption of the loan, it was negatived.

The passage of the bill, pledging the faith of the Commonwealth for the payment of the loan, and the bill passed—yeas 18, nays 14.

The Senate now adjourned.

HOUSE.—The bill from the Senate authorising the loan of $850,000 for the completion of the North Branch Canal, was taken up, but was postponed in consequence of the sickness of several friends of the bill.

The supplement to the act relative to the jurisdiction and powers of courts, extending the chancery powers of the Supreme Court, was taken up and passed second reading as it came from the Senate.

The bill to incorporate the Anthracite Bank at Tamaqua, passed first reading and was then postponed.

The bill to protect the creditors of the Schuylkill Navigation company, was taken up and passed finally—yeas 74, nays 5.

The bill to repeal the law taxing the dividends declared by the bank of Pennsylvania, was taken up and so amended as to allow the journals of the Legislature to be used as evidence of any suit between the Bank and the State, and was then discussed until the hour of adjournment.

March 25, 26, 27.—No business of any importance done in either House.

PROSPECTUS OF THE AMERICAN WHIG REVIEW.

IN the original Prospectus of the American Review, issued at Washington by Mr. Colton, its former Proprietor and Editor, a number of the leading Whig Members of the Twenty-seventh Congress (1845-6) subscribed their names to the following resolution:—

"Earnestly approving the plan of such a National organ, long needed and of manifest importance, the undersigned agree to contribute for its pages, from time to time, such communications as may be necessary to set forth and defend the doctrines held by the United Whig Party of the Union. Signed by Geo. P. Marsh, Daniel D. Barnard, J. McPherson Berrien, J. R. Ingersoll, E. Jay Morris, T. L. Clingman, Daniel Webster, R. C. Winthrop, Thomas Butler King, Hamilton Fish, J. P. Kennedy, J. Collamer, Wm. S. Archer, Rufus Choate, Alexander H. Stephens."

An engraved portrait of some distinguished person will be found in every number of the Review. These will usually be portraits of living American Statesmen, and whenever that is possible, will be accompanied with an authentic Memoir of the person represented.

The first objects of the Review are of course political; it is designed to set forth and defend the principles, the measures, and the men of the UNITED WHIG PARTY of the Union. It has been a matter of just reproach to that Party, that though it embraces its due proportion of the intelligence and learning of the country, it has had no Quarterly or Monthly Organ devoted to the expression and defence of its opinions and measures. The conductors of the American Whig Review have done what in them lies to remove the reproach, by securing contributions from sources of ability and truth.

The literary department of the Review will agree in spirit with the political.

TERMS.—$5 a year, in advance.
