"Let Justice be Done."

Some time ago we published a list of defaulters to the State, taken from a report made to the Legislature by Gen. John M. Bickel, State Treasurer. That report represented S. D. Lewis, Esq., of Wilkesbarre, as a defaulter to the amount of $4,300 73. It now appears that the accusation against Mr. Lewis originated in an error committed by one of the Clerks in not crediting him with an amount overcharged in the Auditor's General's Office, and which error although known to and admitted by Gen. Bickel, has never been publicly corrected. The following is Mr. Lewis' statement:

To JOHN M. BICKEL, Esq., STATE TREASURER.—Sir:—I have noticed with surprise and regret, my name included in a list with others as a defaulter to the State. I am represented as being a defaulter to the amount of $4,300 73. I learn that the list is taken from a report made by you to the Legislature, which report I have not seen. Immediately on seeing the newspaper publication, I wrote to a gentleman at Harrisburg on the subject, who kindly called at your office, and was there informed that the erroneous accusation against me was owing to an error in a Clerk not crediting to me an amount overcharged in the Auditor General's Office. I soon wrote to you, asking you to cause a correction to be published. Such publication by your authority, was due to me as an injured man—it was due to yourself as the perpetrator of that injury. I have not heard from you on the subject, nor have I noticed any correction.

The accusation was re-published here in a paper of your party, whose proprietor, though he knew it was false, shields himself under the fact that it was first made by you officially. I understand you are shielded from liability, because a resolution of the Legislature required you to make a report.

I could not have supposed that a man worthy of the confidence reposed in you by the Legislature, could be so devoid of honorable principle, and capable of acting so utterly in defiance of the requirements of propriety and fairness as to hesitate to vindicate the man you had aspersed, after finding your aspersion so groundless and unmerited. However lightly, sir, you may look upon a breach of trust such as you have charged me with—of however little moment, in your estimation, may seem a good reputation of honesty and integrity—to my mind the one is to be avoided—and the other as of a great moment.

I am left but one alternative. As your neglect to correct your error has given me reason to believe that I need not expect you to be influenced by the promptings of manly feelings and honorable motives, I may perhaps suppose you capable of being moved by a more grovelling and less worthy impulse—that of resentment. I am left to notice you in such a way, and bid you such utter defiance as will seem to others sufficient to provoke you to attempt the collection of any demand you may find against me—if any—that your neglect to do so, will be evidence that your accusation is false. The names of my bond are good for more than ten times the amount you have alleged is due. If a dollar is due it is your duty to collect it. You will either proceed to collect what you have stated is due—or immediately make the proper correction—or submit to the rational inference that you know your allegation is false—that you know you have borne false witness against a fellow being, and have not the manly principles to correct it—and thus by your silence, impute to yourself a moral obliquity, of which a heathen ought to be ashamed.

I address you publicly—the public are interested in all charges of public defalcation.

From what I had learned of you, I was led to regard you as an honorable man, and to ascribe your allegation to unintentional error. Perhaps I ought to ascribe your neglect to correct it to inadvertance. If so, I may still look to you for the proper correction. S. D. LEWIS.

Wilkesbarre, July 26, 1852.

Signs of the Times.

"The Whigs have settled on a choice,
The people do approve—
Old Scott and GRAHAM are the boys
To make this nation move."

The Pennsylvanian has from the start, says the Daily News, pursued a game of brag in regard to the prospects of Pierce's success. We invite its attention to the following list, assuring him that it is but a small one compared with that we have on hand:

Among the papers which we may mention, that profess to be Democratic and refuse to support Gen. Pierce, are the following:—

Northern Democrat, published at Pulaski, N. Y.; the True Democrat, Ia.; the Knaska, Wisconsin, Telegraph; the Independent Democrat, Concord, N. H.; the Lowell, Mass., American; the Wyoming, N. Y., Mirror; the Manchester, N. H., Democrat; the Southern Press, Washington, D. C. The Macon, Ga., Citizen, heretofore an influential Democratic organ, can't swallow Pierce, and has accordingly hoisted the names of Scott and Graham, and is doing yeoman's service in their support in that State.

Hon. James E. Belser, a leading and influential Democrat in Alabama, and formerly a representative in Congress from that State, has taken the stump in favor of Gen. Scott.

Hon. Thos. F. Marshal, of Kentucky, who is probably the most eloquent Democratic orator in the country, and who for some years past has acted with the Locofoco party, is now in the field earnestly laboring for the election of General Scott.

Capt. Andrews Krause, of Harrisburg, for many years elected by the Democrats the door-keeper of the House of Representatives, has enlisted for Gen. Scott, under whom he served during the war of 1812, and is now President of the Scott Club at Harrisburg.

John A. Foote, Esq., himself opposed to Gen. Taylor in 1848, said in a speech delivered by him at Cleveland: "A good old Democrat told me to-day, he should throw his vote for Gen. Scott;" and what is more, said he, "there are fifteen more good Democrats upon the two acres around me that will do the same."

John K. Wilson, formerly Sheriff of Butler county, Ohio, and always a Democrat, was one of the Vice Presidents of a late Scott demonstration at Hamilton county. He declares his determination to support the Scott ticket, and says there are a large number of Democrats in old Butler who will do the same."

Hon. D. R. Tilden, late a member of Congress from Ohio, and who voted for Van Buren in 1848, has come out heartily for Scott.

Ex-Alderman Greig, of Rochester, N. Y., a prominent Democrat, is now doing good service for Gen. Scott.

Capt. Robert Porter, of Pittsburg, heretofore a Democrat, has taken the stump in favor of his brave commander in Mexico.

Charles Heinzen, a prominent Democrat, of Cincinnati, has taken the stump for Scott.

Gen. John R. Williams, heretofore a prominent Democratic voter in Michigan, is out for Scott.

Col. Wm. O'Callaghan, an influential Democrat of Michigan, is now warmly enlisted for Gen. Scott.

Hon. Lewis D. Campbell, a member of Congress from Ohio, who was opposed to Taylor in 1848, has published a letter, in which he declares himself warmly in favor of Scott.

Hon. Wm. Hunter, another member of Congress from Ohio, who was among those that led off against Taylor in 1848, is now for Scott.

Dennis Mullane, always heretofore a Democratic voter in Michigan, has renounced Pierce and goes for Scott.

Major J. Kearsley, an influential member of the Michigan Democracy, is actively engaged in favor of Scott.

Wm. Howell, another prominent and active member of the Michigan Democracy, is out for Scott.

Hon. Amos Tuck, member of Congress from New Hampshire, who opposed Taylor in 1848, is out in favor of Scott.

Hon. N. S. Townsend, Democratic member of Congress from Ohio, who was elected over Root, the Free-Soil candidate, has made a speech, in which he comes out against Pierce. At Elyria, in his District, a large meeting of Democrats has been held, which sustained his course.

A correspondent of the Blair County Whig, writing from Cambria county, says:—

"I take pleasure in calling your attention to the pleasing prospect in Summerhill township. The nomination of Scott and Graham has made a deep and sensible impression upon the Locos here. It has effected a change of TWENTY-NINE, all of whom were heretofore Locofocos, bred and born; but are now determined to vote for the "conquering hero." I look for twenty-nine more to be converted before November. I can safely predict that Cambria county will give a majority for Scott."

The Erie Gazette, in referring to the fuss made by the Locofocos over Toomb's defection, says:

"Something might be done in this business vice versa. We have heard of a family in this county, containing five or six Democratic votes, all of which will be cast for Scott and Graham. Doubtless many instances of this sort could, with a little attention, be cited."

The Meadville Gazette says:

"We ourselves know of a baker's dozen of Democrats in this county who go for Scott, heart and hand. There are many others, too, who will not be able to resist the generous impulses which prompt every truly American heart to sustain those who have fought and bled for their country. Consequently Gen. Scott will get a "big" vote in Crawford county."

The Harrisburg Journal, in dwelling upon the prospects of making two thousand majority in Dauphin, says:

"In one township, and old gentleman and his TWELVE SONS, all Democrats, have declared their determination to vote for Gen. Scott; and we could give scores of similar instances to show the unanimity with which the people, irrespective of party, support the scarred veteran who has carried his country's flag in triumph through one hundred hard fought battle fields. The fact is, there is no limit to Scott's popularity in Dauphin county."

The Cincinnati Atlas says:

"A friend brought us this morning a list of ten subscribers, seven of whom he declared, from his own personal knowledge, had been Locofocos up to the nomination of Gen. Scott. That is the way the ball rolls.

☞We are pained to announce the melancholy intelligence received here, of the death of an old and highly esteemed townsman, ALPHA DURHAM, Esq.; he died at the Merchant's Hotel, New York, at half past 11 o'clock, on Sunday night, the 8th inst., aged about 46 years.

Mr. DURHAM, left home two years ago last May, for California, where he has remained until the sailing of the last steamer from San Francisco. He landed in New York on the 2d inst., was reported to his friends as being well, though quite feeble from sea sickness—but alas! death has prevented his seeing the home he had so much desired to return to.—Wyoming Democrat.

The "NORFOLK HERALD" says of General Scott:

During his stay at Old Point many visitors called to pay their respects to him, and all were charmed with his unaffected courtesy and frank and easy familiarity of conversation, removing all restraint and inspiring a feeling of old acquaintanceship at a first interview. The presence of that war-worn veteran inspires more than mere respect; it awakens into a lively enthusiasm that pride of country, inbred in every American bosom, which he has so much contributed to cherish by his illustrious achievements in arms; and all our patriotic sensibilities are touched with a feeling of veneration and gratitude towards the man who has "filled the measure of his country's glory."

CONVERT TO CHRISTIANITY.—The Princess Gauaramma, daughter of the ex-Rajah of Coorg, has been baptized into the Christian faith; this person is one of the dethroned princesses of India.—The East India Company have been paying for a long time to her an income of $30,000 a year. This favorite daughter, one of the eleven children, is described by her father as a "pigeon among crows." The Queen is going to take charge of her education.

☞At the Middlesex, England Sessions, a pickpocket on hearing that he was sentenced to 10 years transportation, seized an ink stand and threw it with great force at the Judge, making a hole in the wall. The learned Judge calmly took another ink stand and altered the sentence to 15 years.

"NEVER WEARY IN WELL DOING."—The Centreville (Md.) Times says that Matthew Graves of that county, on Tuesday last walked twenty-eight miles for the purpose of procuring a marriage license to marry his fifth wife. He is seventy years of age.

Pittsburg Free-Soil Platform.

Resolved, That civil government is an ordinance of God, and men are only delegated agents to carry out righteous purposes; and whenever human laws are opposed to God's will, such laws are null void, and not binding upon men, either morally or politically.

Resolved, That the rendition of fugitive slaves, either by National or State authority, is wicked contrary to God's will, and not binding upon any citizen.

Resolved, That we are opposed to slavery of every kind, and in favor of every constitutional effort to abolish it.

Resolved, That we are opposed to any and every compromise with slavery, and that no lapse of time can render any such compromise binding upon us.

Resolved, That we are not only opposed to the abuses practised under the Fugitive Slave Law, but are in favor of its absolute repeal, because we believe it unconstitutional.

Resolved, That the Democratic and Whig parties have bowed the knee to the dark spirit of slavery, and there is no course left for the friends of liberty to pursue but to refuse to co-operate with either of them.

Resolved, That a third party, opposed to the compromise platforms of the other parties, should not be a party of one idea, but should embrace in its principles the acknowledgment of man's natural rights to the soil as well as to himself, and of the duty of a republican government, to see that the laws of nations are not disregarded to its injury.

Resolved, That we are in favor of the freedom of the public lands to actual settlers, in limited quantities.

Resolved, That the homestead of a family should be inalienable for debt, under proper limitations as to amount.

Resolved, That the right of self-government by nations, springs necessarily from the doctrines of the right of the individual man to self-government; that when this right of self-government is violated by unsolicited intervention on the part of any nation, the true and only remedy for such invasion of right, is contravention by other nations, for the sake of non-intervention; and that it is the duty of this government to interfere by all peaceable influences on behalf of the liberty of any nation struggling to be free from the power of the oppressor.

Resolved, That the constitution should be amended so as to render the President, Vice President, Senators, and all ministerial officers, elective by a popular vote.

Resolved, That, as in the words of Washington, in proportion as the structure of a government gives force to public opinion, it is essential that public opinion be enlightened, we are in favor of the cheapest letter and newspaper postage system which can be afforded, not only in this country, but between our own and other nations.

Resolved, That we are opposed to all class legislation, special privileges, and log-rolling enactments, and that, as a remedy for these evils, we demand the passage of general laws, and that each bill be confined to one object, which shall be named in the title.

Resolved, That as the safety of republican governments rests in a great degree on the faithfulness of the representative to the will of his constituents, and that this faithfulness can only be secured by single and compact districts—therefore, we demand the division of this State into as many districts as there are representatives to be elected.

Anecdote of Gen. Scott in Mexico.

The following anecdote of Gen. Scott which has never before appeared in print, was handed to us the other day by a Whig of this place who is acquainted with the parties. One of the gentlemen is an artist of considerable ability, and a very life-like view of the battle of Chepultepec, sketched by him at the time, now adorns the walls of the American Art Union. Gen. Scott occupies a prominent place upon the canvas, as he did in the battle—infusing energy into his men by his own dauntless bravery:

Some years ago, two young men, (brothers) left the city of Albany, to seek their fortunes in the far West, working at their respective avocations wherever they could find employment. After several months travel, they found themselves in the city of New Orleans. They soon repaired to Galvaston, (Texas) and in a short time made their way into the city of Mexico, where they successfully engaged in their respective avocations, up to the time that war broke out between that country and the United States. Whereupon they were required to swear allegiance to the country and take up arms against the United States, or to leave the country within a certain number of days. Refusing to comply with the terms of the Mexican Authorities, the young brothers left the city, and proceeded towards Vera Cruz, and after a few days travel they met the old hero Gen. Scott. The eldest brother, James, approached the noble Commander-in-Chief, and told him that he and his younger brother were American citizens and had been driven from the city of Mexico. The General immediately despatched an aid for two horses which were soon brought him. He then said to the young men: "Mount these horses, and I will take you back, as I am going that way." They mounted the horses, and on the morning of the 14th Sept., 1847, these poor boy-exiles entered the city in triumph with the Hero of three Wars, and the conqueror of Mexico.—Newburgh Gazette.

The Objections to General Scott.

The New York Times thus happily alludes to the great objections which are urged against the election of Gen. Scott:

"We gather from the opposition papers that there are four serious obstacles to the election of General Scott.

1. He is suspected of being opposed, at heart, to the extension of Slavery.—That is bad. He probably got into that way of thinking from fighting a good deal, first and last, for freedom, and from studying rather closely the character of our revolutionary heroes, who, it must be confessed, were somewhat prejudiced against slavery. Perhaps this sin will be forgiven him by those who can look charitably on ancestral feelings.

2. He would not fight a duel.—That will work sadly for him among rowdies who have more bluster than brains, and more brute courage than conscience. There's a difference of sentiment on such points. Some men a few years ago did not consider a dueling habit any recommendation for a candidate. Those, however, who would be willing to expose the lives of two such men as JACKSON and SCOTT, in the settlement of a private difficulty, will find this an insuperable objection to voting for the Whig nominee. He will have to go in without their valuable support. Alack!

3. They say he is a Catholic.—Well, if that is true, it will spoil him for such Protestants as regard creeds as more important than creditable lives, and years crowded full of valuable public services.

4. They say he is a Protestant—and that will ruin him for any Catholic who rejects Pierce for the same cause.

To judge, however, from the news that is flashing in from hamlet and village and city, and every corner of the land that has so often shared his glory, and prospered only as he has succeeded, the masses are concluding to circle the square of this four-fold objection, and gave old Chippewa a chance at the helm of our staunch and sturdy ship of State.

INCIDENT AT NIAGARA FALLS.—At the late celebration of the battle of Lundy's Lane, two aged soldiers, who had fought under Scott and Harrison, were present. The Buffalo Commercial Advertiser says:

These veterans addressed the crowd in brief speeches, and although it is true their voices were broken by age, yet their words were strong and made a deep impression on all who heard them. Sergeant Thompson, the soldier who fought and bled at Lundy's Lane, and who had been plucked from a heap of slain, hours after the battle had ceased, with some evidences of life remaining in him, spoke with indignation of the rumors which they told him had been spread abroad, that Scott was a cruel man and a harsh ruler over his companions in arms. He would testify while his life and speech was spared him to the falsity of such a charge. The little breath yet remaining in him should be spent in denouncing such a report as a base and brutal slander. "I am a living witness yet, thank God," said the brave old man, "of the almost womanly tenderness with which that strong arm, so terrible in fight, can smooth the pillow of sickness, and touch the writhing form of the wounded, of the gentle tones in which that voice, so harsh and powerful upon the field of battle, can whisper consolation to the dying, and words of hope and comfort to the suffering." A great sensation was produced by the appearance of these old veterans.

☞One of the officers of the Scott and Graham Club, recently organized at Albion, N. Y., is the Hon. Benjamin L. Bassac, long a distinguished member of the Locofoco party. He was formerly First Judge of Orleans county, and has occupied many other public positions.

☞One of the Democratic papers of Ohio calls Franklin Pierce the granite Hickory of New Hampshire. When was he petrified?—Hartford Courant.

When he fainted, we suppose. Perhaps he petrified with fear.

☞A western Editor declares that some of the young women who pass his village in the arks on the river, are perfect divinities. He means, says a southern paper, ark-angels.
