Amelioration of Grass Lands By Top Dressing.

Thirty years ago the practice, now so prevalent in many sections, of renovating sward lands by top-dressing, was unknown. Even in the older agricultural sections, where the science and art of husbandry were somewhat advanced, lands that had become inert and unproductive were supposed susceptible of radical and complete amelioration only by plowing and relaying. At present, however, the fact is far otherwise. Those who have sward-lands which fail to produce good crops, endeavor their resuscitation and improvement by the adoption of agencies far more speedily efficient and economical. There are many methods of top-dressing employed, and a very great variety of materials are made use of, some of which, by your permission, I will enumerate and and describe.

The first which I shall notice, and which is also the most ancient, is the practice of spreading manure upon the surface, broad-cast, in the spring or fall. For this purpose, the solid excrement of black cattle, sheep, horses and swine, is used. It is merely spread, and permitted to remain uncovered, and freely exposed to the deteriorating action of the atmosphere, till its powers of fructification are exhausted, and it becomes a perfectly dead and effete mass. That manure applied in this way, may, and does, to a certain extent, benefit and improve the soil, I by no means am disposed to deny; but that the practice is an economical one, is a proposition for which few judicious and discriminating minds, will probably contend. It is a practice that deserves to become obsolete, and, indeed, already has become so in every section where the true interests of husbandry have been investigated with candor, and the philosophical principles upon which the art is based, are accurately comprehended and understood.

The large tracts of sward land which ... has depreciated so far in the quantity and quality of its produce, as not fully to remunerate him for the outlay involved in its management, the best method of amelioration he can possibly adopt, is the following:—

In the spring, as soon as the snow is off the ground, spread from thirty to forty double horse loads of good manure; spread the manure evenly over the surface, and then pass over it a 'spiked roller,' an implement of great utility which is constructed in the following manner: A heavy cylinder, six feet long, and two and a half in diameter—made of a sound log, is armed with iron spikes, of bar iron, York inch square and eight inches in length, projecting from the surface of the cylinder. The spikes are inserted over the entire circumference of the roller, one foot apart each way, in the same manner as the teeth of a mowing or reaping machine, and so firmly as not to be displaced by any substance or obstacle in the ground with which they may fortuitously be brought in collision. The action of this implement, when properly constructed and applied, is to scarify and loosen the old sward in some measure to bury the dressing, and bring it in contact with the weakened and emasculated fibers of the grass roots, the vigorous action of which is generally very near to, or but little below the surface of the soil. By passing it two or three times over the field, the sward will be torn up, and no small portion of the manure brought into immediate contact with the rootlets, while the scarification and enlightenment of the soil will afford free passage for the soluble portions of the manure application into its interstices, thus affording immediate advantage to the crop, and one which will speedily make itself apparent in the increased greenness and luxuriance of the crop, be their character what it may. As the spike roller leaves the surface rough and uneven, it should always be followed by the ordinary roller, which will press down the sward and manure, and leave the surface smooth and even for the scythe.—In such cases, gypsum or wood ashes should be sown; or, if the soil is of a silicious or vitrifiable texture, common clay, finely pulverized and prepared may be sown or spread with advantage.

In some cases I have known grass land, which had become almost completely bound and renovated and restored to its original productiveness, by a top-dressing of clay.—If the texture be sandy, with but little vegetable matter, the application of this earth will prove to be beneficial. By filling the pores and interstices of the surface, and thereby arresting, in a certain degree, the economy of ... The transportation, in seasons of excessive drought ... its effects are similar to those produced by irrigation, and of course, immediately and directly beneficial to the crop. But in all cases, where amelioration of grass lands is attempted by top-dressing, ashes, lime and gypsum, nitre or common salt,—one or all, should be associated with the vegetable substance applied. Their tendency is to warm ... the soil, and to prepare it for ... to the utmost extent of its constitutional and vegetative powers.

DIFFERENCE IN HOUSEKEEPING.—What a difference we see in housekeepers, provided we are observing and keep our eyes about us. With some, everything is clean, neat and in its place, without noise or fuss, with others everything looks disjointed, in confusion, and without system. Doing things right, at the right time, it requires but an ordinary degree of labor and attention. We have always found that where there were industry, economy, and good sense, there were order, system, and prosperity.

Thinks I to Myself.

I saw her again a few days ago,
When Kossuth came down to our city;
The name of the lady I never did Know,
But thinks I she's uncommonly pretty,
And witty,
And clever, no doubt, as she's pretty.

Thinks I to myself, I have seen her before—
Fine face, black eyes, and black hair;
But I could not tell where, as I thought on it more
And hang me if I could tell where,
I declare,
I could not tell how, when or where.

But now, both the time and place I remember—
I remember the pleasing address;
At a certain hotel, in the month of September,
We met in the doorway, I guess,
Yes, yes,
Thinks I, she's the person I guess.

Thinks I she would make a partner for life,
But she's married or spoke for I 'spose:
Still if that's not the case, and if I had no wife,
Thinks I to myself I'd propose.
Goodness knows,
If it was'nt for all I'd propose.

But I'm married. Thinks I to myself it's a pity;
I'm tied and cannot undo it;
Ditty,
Yet thinks I, there's no harm in just writing this
Though it's well that my wife doesn't know it.
Old poet,
'Tis well my wife doesn't know it.

☞ Julias, if a mob of chickens cost ten dollars, what will a pair come to?'

Who bought em?

What roy you ask dat for.

Cause if my wife bought em. I could tell what they'd come to mighty quick.

What!

Two pies and a fricasee.

Look here, my colored friend, don't you come your circumambient jokes on dis child.

☞ The following amusing circumstance is stated to have occurred at a fancy ball given in Washington city recently. By the way, fancy balls are 'all the go' there now. It was understood that every person was to dress in character, and an usher was stationed at the door of the saloon, to announce to the company within, the different characters as they entered. Two young ladies at the entrance.

'Your characters?' asked the usher in a whisper.

'We do not appear in costume to night,' said the ladies.

'Two ladies without any characters,' brawled out the usher at the top of his voice.

PARSING.—Miss Sally, you seem to be ignorant in geography; I will examine you in grammar. Take the sentance, marriage is a civil contract. Parse marriage.' 'Marriage is a noun because it is a name. And though Shakespeare asks whats a name, and says that a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, yet marriage being a noun and therefore a name, shows that the rule established by the Bard of Avon has at least one exception. For marriage certainly is of great importance, and being a noun, ergo, there is something in a name.' Good! Well what is the case of marriage? 'Don't know sir.' Decline it and see. 'Don't feel at liberty to decline marriage after having made Mr. Jones the promise I have, I'd rather conjugate.'

A DUTCHMAN CONSULTING THE RAPPERS.—'Ish dat you, Mrs. Hauntz,?' inquired the Dutchman. 'Yes, dearest, it is your own wife, who—' 'You lie, you ghost, interrupted Hauntz, starting from his seat, 'mine vrow speak notting but Dutch, and she never said tearest in her life. It was always, "Hauntz, you thief!" or Hauntz, you dirty shkamp!' And the Dutchman hobbled from the room, well satisfied that the rapping spirits were all bumbug, and that he was safe from any further communication with his shrewish vrow on this earth.

IMPUDENT QUESTIONS.—To ask an unmarried lady how old she is.

To ask a lawyer if he ever told a lie.

To ask a doctor how many persons he has ever killed.

To ask a minister if he ever did anything wrong.

To ask a merchant if he ever cheated a customer.

To ask an editor the name of his correspondents.

To ask an old bachelor why he never married.

☞ The editor of the Madison (Ia.) Banner attended church, one rainy Sunday in a rural district in that state, where the pious parson opened his prayer as follows:

'We thank Theo, Lord, for the goodly number here to night, and that Thou also art here, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather.'

☞ Poodle, what does that chap in the street keep yelling fresh fish 'macker-el' for.' Poodle contemplated the subject for a moment, and replied: 'Doubtless for some selfish motive.

☞ Sir Francis Delavel was famous for the tricks he played upon his visitors. One gentleman was kept in his bed three whole days by making him believe it was not morning yet.

☞ Mike, why don't you fire at those ducks, boy, don't you see you have got the whole flock before your gun? 'I know I have, but when I get a good aim at one, two or three others will swim right betwixt it and me.'

☞ An old bachelor says women are so fond of appearances, that if you could make them believe there are no looking glasses in Heaven, they would set no more value on salvation than they do on a pair of rabbit's—Singular how age scares people.

☞ You should never let the young men kiss you,' said a venerable uncle to his pretty niece. 'I know it uncle,' she returned, penitently, 'and yet I try to cultivate a spirit of forgiveness, seeing that, when one has been taught, there's no undoing it.

BRIGHT TRAVELER.—A traveler just returned to this country from a tour in Europe was asked how he liked the ruins of Pompeii. Not much, was the reply; they are quite out of order.

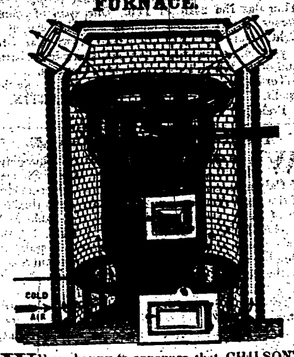
CHILSON'S PATENT.

World's Fair Prize-Medal FURNACE.



WE are happy to announce that CHILSON'S PATENT AIR WARMING AND VENTILATING FURNACE, as recently improved and patented, is declared by high and reliable authority to be the Best Furnace in the World.

Not only in this furnace and our system of Ventilation proved and declared to be the best mode of Warming and Ventilating DWELLINGS, CHURCHES, ACADEMIES, SCHOOL ROOMS, COURT AND STATE HOUSES, HOSPITALS, STORES, &c., in nearly all the cities and towns in the United States, but is meeting with equal favor in the Canadas, England, Russia, and other Foreign Countries. It has been awarded at the recent Fairs in this country GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS, FIRST PREMIUMS, and lastly, the GREAT PRIZE MEDAL at the WORLD'S FAIR, LONDON. It has been subjected to the most rigid investigation & severe practical tests, and unanimously declared the best, (See the printed reports of the Fairs, also City and State public Committees on Public Buildings.) We have more than twenty-five hundred references, many of whom are professional gentlemen, whose scientific attainments in such matters are well known. To attain this desirable object, the inventor of this Furnace first abandoned the manufacture of the common frail hot-air furnaces seven years since, under the settled conviction that red-hot iron furnaces burn the oxygen out of the air, producing an unhealthy, scorching, disagreeable odor, unfit to be inhaled by human beings; besides the constant cracking and burning out of the pots which permits the poisonous gases to escape and mingle with the air; and then the annoyance and expense of repairs, new pots, &c. He now has the satisfaction of knowing that his efforts to secure a HEALTHY, ECONOMICAL and DURABLE APPARATUS, for thoroughly Warming and Ventilating buildings, has been entirely successful. They possess the following advantages: purity of air, powerful heaters, economical plan for burning anthracite, bituminous coals or wood, all equally well—flues easily cleared out—great durability of furnace, not liable to repairs for a life time, perfect safety against setting buildings on fire. Sizes for all classes of buildings. Also four sizes of new and superior PORTABLE FURNACES—Dr. Clark's Improved BOSTON SCHOOL STOVE.

REGISTERS of all descriptions; HOT AIR GRATES; ROOM VENTILATORS, &c.

Emerson's celebrated VENTILATORS for Roofs of Buildings and smoky chimneys, &c. COOKING RANGES, with or without Bath Boilers and Hot-Air Fixtures. All sizes and styles of those beautiful

MIRROR MARBLE MANTELS,
Parlor & Chamber Frame Grates,

Of rich European and American styles. Also a splendid article of LIVERPOOL SOFT COAL GRATES, for Parlors, &c.

Another Scientific Wonder!

GREAT CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA!

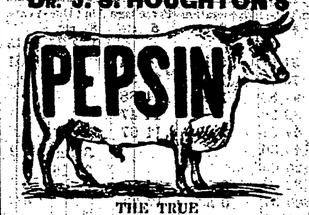
DR. J. S. HOUGHTON'S



THE TRUE

DIGESTIVE FLUID,

OR, GASTRIC JUICE.

Prepared from RENNET, or the fourth STOMACH OF THE OX, after directions of BARON LIEBIG, the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. HOUGHTON, M. D. Philadelphia, Pa.

This a truly wonderful remedy for INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, JAUNDICE, LIVER COMPLAINT, CONSTIPATION, and DEBILITY, Curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own Agent, the Gastric Juice.

☞ Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin, infused in water, will digest or dissolve, Five pounds of Roast Beef in about two hours, out of the stomach.

Pepsin is the chief element, or Great Digesting Principle of the Gastric Juice—the Solvent of the Food, the Purifying, Preserving, and Stimulating agent of the Stomach and Intestines. It is extracted from the Digestive Stomach of the Ox, thus forming an artificial digestive fluid, precisely like the natural Gastric Juice in its Chemical powers, and furnishing a complete and perfect substitute for it. By the aid of this preparation, the pains and evils of Indigestion and Dyspepsia are removed, just as they would be by a healthy Stomach. It is doing wonders for Dyspeptics, curing case sof Debility, Emaciation, Nervous Decline, and Dyspeptic Consumption, supposed to be on the verge to the grave. The Scientific Evidence upon which it is based, is in the highest degree curious and remarkable.

Scientific Evidence.

BARON LIEBIG in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An Artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice, may be readily prepared from the mucous membane of the stomach of the Calf, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened, changed and digested, just in the same manner as they would be in the human stomach."

☞ Call on the Agent and get a descriptive Circular, gratis, giving a large amount of scientific evidence similar to the above, together with reports of remarkable cures, from all parts of the United States.

As a Dyspepsia Curer.

Dr. Houghton's Pepsin has produced the most marvellous effects, in curing cases of Debility, Emaciation, Nervous Decline, and Dyspeptic Consumption. It is impossible to give the details of cas s in the limits of this advertisement, but authenticated certificates have been given of more than two hundred remarkable cures, in Philadelphia, New York and Boston alone These were nearly all desperate cases, and the cures were not only rapid and wonderful, but permanent.

It is a great Nervous Antidote, and particularly useful for tendency to bilious disorder, liver complaint, fever and ague, and the evil effects of quinine, mercury, and other drugs upon the Digestive Organs, after a long sickness. Also for excess in eating, and the too free use of ardent spirits. It also reconciles Health with Intemperance.

Dr. Houghton's Pepsin is prepared in powder and fluid form—and in prescription vials for the use of physicians.

Private Circulars for the use of Physicians may be obtained of Dr. Houghton or his agents, describing the whole process of preparation, and giving the authorities upon which the claims of this new remedy are based. As it is not a secret remedy, no objection can be raised against its use by physicians in respectable standing and regular practice Price, ONE DOLLAR per bottle.

☞ OBSERVE THIS.—Every bottle of the genuine ... HOUGHTON, M. D., sole proprietor, Philadelphia, Pa. Copy-right and Trade-mark secured.

☞ Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.
