The Farm and the Fireside.

European Ignornace of America.

The traveller in Europe is sometimes mortified, and sometimes amused, at the general ignorance which prevails, in reference to the United States. We will relate one or two anecdotes illustrative of this ignorance, which the reader may rely upon as perfectly authentic.

About eight years ago, a distinguished American clergyman was at Rome. He was favored with an audience with the Pope.—His Holiness very blandly inquired, "How large a proportion of the inhabitants of the city of New-York are native Indians?', He supposed that New-York was an Indian city, full of Pawnees, Pottawattamies, and Ojibewas, into the midst of whom, a few thousand European adventurers had crowded their way.

Last June, the writer was one evening walking on the beautiful Isle of Wight.—Many pedestrians seemed to be passing through a gentleman's pleasure grounds by a well gravelled walk, which cut off an angle of the highway. We ventured to follow. Just as we arrived opposite the lordly mansion, a gentleman stepped out of the door.—In the course of a conversation with a very pleasant, gentlemanly man, who was a native of Wales, we remarked that we came from America. "From Amer-i-ky, from Amer-i-ky," exclaimed the native, with his broad honest John Bull face beaming with surprise, "God bless my soul! why, you speak very good English!"

An American gentleman, not long ago, was dining with a very intelligent English gentleman, in one of the most important cities of Great Britian. "How far," inquired the hospitable host. "Is the forest cleared away around the city of New York?" he evidently supposed that the ride of a few hours took one to the wigwam of the Indian, and the forest where the wolf howls, and to the prairie where the wild horse and buffalo roam.

A few years ago one of the most distinguished of American scholars was traveling down the Rhine. In conversation with a very pleasant fellow-traveller, he incidentally mentioned that he came from America. His companion very solemnly inquired:

"What language is chiefly spoken in the United States?" The American gentleman, who is rather famous for his waggery, very soberly replied:

"Why, a great many people speak Cherokee,'

"You speak English remarkably well," exclaimed his London friend.

"Yes," replied the American, "I have often been told that I have made remarkable proficiency."

One of the scholars of New York was dining with a party of literary gentlemen in London. The question was asked, "Are the peaks of the Rocky Mountains visible from the city of New York?" "How far is Boston from Massachusetts?" was another of the inquiries proposed.

These questions, though not a little amusing, are not a little mortifying to one's national pride. They show that heretofore America has attracted but little attention in the Old World.

Fanny Fern's Best Thing.

We think Fanny Fern never wrote a better pair of paragraphs than the following, from the Olive Branch:

"LOOK ON THIS PICTURE, AND THEN ON THAT.—'Father is coming!' and little round faces grow long, and merry voices are hushed, and toys are hustled into the closet, and mamma glances nervously at the door, and baby is bribed with a lump of sugar to keep the peace; and father's business face relaxes not a muscle; and the little group huddle like timid sheep in a corner, and tea is despatched as silently as if speaking were prohibited by the statute book, and the children creep like culprits to bed marvelling that baby dare crow so loud, now that 'Father has come.'

"'Father is coming!' and bright eyes sparkle for joy, and tiny feet dance with glee, and eager faces press against the window-pane, and a bevy of rosy lips claim kisses at the door, and picture-books lie unrebuked on the table, and tops, and balls, and dolls, and kites are discussed, and little Susy lays her soft cheek against the paternal whiskers with the most fearless 'abandon,' and Charley gets a love-pat for his 'medal,' and mamma's face grows radiant, and the evening paper is read (not silently, but aloud,) and tea, and toast, and time vanish with equal celerity, for jubilee has arrived, and 'Father has come!'"

Short Drama in two Scenes.

FIRST SCENE.—Millionaire seated in his easy chair.

By him stands a poor man, in a supplicating attitude.

Millionaire.—Ahem!—Verry sorry, my young friend, that I can do nothing for you. But I can give you a word of good advice—Economise.

Poor man.—But when a man has nothing to—

Millionaire.—Nonsense! Under certain circumstances, a man must know how to save.

SECOND SCENE.—The Millionaire drowning in a pond. the poor man calmly regarding him from the shore.

Poor Man.—Sorry, my friend, that I can do nothing for you. But I can give you a word of advice—Swim!

Millionaire.—(Choking).—Bub bub-bub-bub whe- when a m-man can't swim!

Poor Man.—Nonsense! Under certain circumstances, a man must know how to swim!

☞ POLITENESS.—Terrence Brannagan and David Dougherty were sworn brothers, and reckoned very much of gentlemen; happening one day to run against each other in turning a corner, they stopped to make apologies.

'It was all my fault, Davy, my jewel,' says Terrence.

'By St. O'Connell, but it is all mine,' says Davy.

'By the Holy Poker, I say it is mine,' says Davy.

'Do you doubt the honor of a gintleman! You should have more politeness. Better manners to you,' says Terrence.

'Do you reflect upon my manners, you spalpeen! If you wont take a genteel apology take that,' says Davy, hitting Terrence a clack along side of the pate, which Terrence returned with interest, and they had a hard battle all about politeness.

☞ Some men have saddled bug-minds, in which wisdom is balanced by folly.

Reports on Winter Wheat, Spring Wheat and Oats, to be made at the Fair. On corn and Buckwheat at the January meeting; claimants for premiums on grain are required to have the ground measured and the quantity properly certified. Corn is to be shelled when merchantable, measured and reported at the January meeting, along with Buckwheat. It is expected that the greatest accuracy will be observed in ascertaining these crops, so that all will be satisfied of the capacity of Susquehanna county to produce large crops. The owners of milch cows who offer for premium are requested to state to the Committee on cows, the quantity of butter made from them during the height of grass and also in the fall. And the executive committee further request that all who take an interest in the Agricultural society will give it their countenance by sending any articles of merit or curiosity that may add an interest to the Fair.

BENTLEY & READ.

Montrose, Nov. 12, 1851.

Philosophy of saving the Teeth.

IT is simply this: We first carefully and thoroughly remove all the decayed matter from the cavity, then after shaping it properly and wiping it dry, we press into it gold or silver foil which are very soft and malleable, and continue to compress them until we have rendered them as hard as the solid metal. We thus completely exclude both air and moisture, the universal agents of decay, and the consequence is that the tooth decays no more in that part, and rarely does it ever commence in any other part, but should it, the cure must be repeated, and I have seldom seen an instance where it had to be repeated a third time, or even a second. If your teeth are decaying your only hope is in the Dentist. They may be affected and you not know it. A tooth usually decays a long time before it aches and persons are very apt to suppose them "all right" so long as they keep quiet. The fact that they have not "troubled you" is the very reason why you should have them attended to before they do. One fact more: when a tooth has become painful, you are "behind time" in going to get it filled, "the cars are off," you must groan and lose it.

Thus, courteous reader, I have given you both fact and Philosophy, if not with the profoundness of a Newton, yet truthfully, you may depend, with the hope of inducing you to call on me at "ODD FELLOWS' HALL," and submit your teeth to examination and repair, if needed. By so doing you may promote both your own interest and mine.

Yours emphatically and Professionally.

DR. HOOFLAND'S

CELEBRATED GERMAN BITTERS,

PREPARED BY

Dr. C. M. Jackson,

At the German Medicine Store, 120 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Their power over the above diseases is not excelled, if equalled, by any other preparation in the United States, as the cures attest, in many cases after skilful physicians had failed.

These Bitters are worthy the attention of invalids. Possessing great virtues in the rectification of disease of the Liver and lesser glands, exercising the most searching powers in weakness and affections of the digestive organs, they are withal, safe certain and pleasant.

Read and be convinced.

From the Boston Bee.

The editor said, Dec. 22nd:

Dr. Hoofland's Celebrated German Bitters for the cure of Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, is deservedly one of the most popular medicines of the day. These Bitters have been used by thousands, and a friend at our elbow says he has himself received an effectual and permanent cure of Liver Complaint from the use of this remedy. We are convinced that, in the use of these Bitters, the patient constantly gains strength and vigor—a fact worthy of great consideration. They are pleasant in taste and smell, and can be used by persons with the most delicate stomachs with safety, under any circumstances. We are speaking from experience, and to the afflicted we advise their use.

"SCOTT'S WEEKLY," one of the best Literary papers published, said, Aug. 25—

"Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, manufactured by Dr. Jackson are now recommended by some of the most prominent members of the faculty as an article of much efficacy in cases of female weakness. As such is the case, we would advise all mothers to obtain a bottle, and thus save themselves much sickness. Persons of debilitated constitutions will find these Bitters advantageous to their health, as we know from experience the salutory effect they have upon weak systems."

More Evidence.

The Hon. C. D. Hineline, Mayor of the City of Camden, N. J. says:

"HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.—We have seen many flattering notices of this medicine, and the source from which they came induced us to make inquiry respecting its merits. From inquiry we were persuaded to use it, and must say found it specific in its action upon diseases of the liver and digestive organs, and the powerful influence it exerts upon nervous prostration is really surprising. It calms and strengthens the nerves, bringing them into a state of repose, making sleep refreshing.

If this medicine was more generally used we are satisfied there would be less sickness, as from the stomach, liver, and nervous system, the great majority of real and imaginary diseases emanate. Have them in a healthy condition, and you can bid defiance to epidemics generally. This extraordinary medicine we would advise our friends who are at all indisposed, to give a fair trial—it will recommend itself. It should, in fact, be in every family. No other medicine can produce such evidences of merit.

Evidence upon evidence has been received (like the foregoing) from all sections of the Union, the last three years, and the strongest testimony in its favor is, that there is more of it used in the practice of the regular physicians of Philadelphia, than all other nostrums combined, a fact that can easily be established, and fully proving that a scientific preparation will meet with their quiet approval when presented even in this form.

That this medicine will cure Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, no one can doubt after using it as directed. It acts specifically upon the stomach and liver; it is preferable to calomel in all bilious diseases—the effect is immediate. They can be administered to female or infant with safety and reliable benefit at any time.

Look well to the marks of the genuine.

They have the written signature of C. M. JACKSON upon the wrapper, and his name blown in the bottle, without which they are spurious.
