

Che Farm and the Ficeside

A Chapter for Nice old Farmers. Can anybody tell why country people so universally and pertinaciously persist in living in the rear of the house? . Can anyare never opened save on the 4th of July and at Thanksgiving time! Why Zedekiah, and Timothy,, and Jonathan, and the old farmer himself, must go round the house, in order to get into it? Why the whole family (oblivious of six empty rooms) take their "vapor bath," and their meals, simultaneously, in the vicinity of a red hot cooking range, in the dog days! Why the village artist need paint the roof, and spout, the window frames bright crimson, and the doors the color of a mermaid's tresses! Why the detestable sunflower (which I can never forgive "Tom Moore" for noticing) must always flaunt in the garden ! Why the ungraceful prim poplar, fit emblem of a stiff old bachelor, is preferred to the swaying elm, or drooping wil-Powe or majestic horse-chestnut!

I should like to pull down the green paper window-curtaius, and hang up some snowy muslin. I should like to throw wide open the hall door, and let the south wind play through. I should like to go in the woods, and collect fresh sweet, wild flowers to arrange in a vase, in place of those defunct dried grasses; and old maid "everlasting." I should like to show Zedekiah how to nail together some bits of board, for an embrovo lounge: I should like to stuff it with cotton. and cover it with a neat " patch." I should like to cushion all the chairs after the same fashion. Then I should like when the whitehaired old farmer came panting up the road at twelve o'clock with his scythe hanging over his arm to usher him into that cool comfortable room: set his bowl of bread and milk before him, and after he had discussed it. coax him (instead of tilting back on the hind legs of a hard chair,) to take a ten minutes nap on my "model" sofa, while I kept my eye on the clouds, to see that no thunder shower played the mischief with his hay.

I should like to place a few common sense practicable books on the table, with some of our fine daily and weekly papers. You may smile: but these inducements, and the comfortable and pleasant air of the apartment would bring the family oftener together after the day's toil; by degrees they will lift the covers of the books and turn over the newspapers. Constant interchange of the't, feeling and opinion, with discussions of the important and engrossing questions of the day would of course necessarily follow.

The village tavern-keeper would probably the young physician, after a very sugarious frown upon it; but I will venture to perdict look. for the inmates of the farm-house a growing love for "home," and an added air of intelligence and refinement of which they themselves might possibly be unconscious.

FANNY FERN.

From the Farm Journal. Mr. Epiron:-Perhaps at this peculiar period of hen roost celebrity, while the at tention of farmers and house-holders is so urgently directed toward the improvement of their chickens, a woman may be permitted to give the result of her own experience, for the benefit of those unfortunate mortals who are unable to obtain the far-famed Shanghai, or other imported crowers and cacklers.

I have been nominal mistress to flocks of chickens during at least twenty summers, but for a great part of the time I left the management of the poultry yard to whoever pleased to attend to it. And it was managed after this manner. The eggs were collected for eating, as long as the cool spring weather continued, and no hens permitted to set until May or June. Then the earliest chickens were eaten in the fall, and the late half grown ones, kept to perpetuate the stock. It is a popular belief that late chickens lay best in the spring. Well, our chickens deterioated sensibly. They grew to be no larger than pheasauts; and many of the young chicks were cripples, and unable to walk. We were always changing with our neighbors, not only crowers, but hens and setting of of eggs; all to no purpose. Finally I begun to philosophize upon the subject. I always preserve the earliest setting of peas, beans, and other garden vegetables, for seed, and so improve my varieties; and I now resolved to try the same with my fowls. I observed that half grown chickens in the fall were only half grown chickens the next spring. So I commenced by "setting" my hens as early as they showed an inclination to hatch, and then selecting the largest and finest of the chickens, for my next summer's stock. (I also keep one crower for every five hens, and have no lame chicks.) Now I have as large, fine, hardy, and prolific fowls, as any reasonable woman can desire to possess; without the extra care and nursing, which is required by the imported breeds.

For a clean complexion,—Rise early, use plenty of fresh water, observe the strictest moderation in diet, and take plenty of exercise in the open air. The same plan will be found beneficial in other respects. Those who regularly pursue it generally possess coral lips, white teeth and pure breath. To give brilliancy to the eyes-Shut them early at night and open them early in the morning; let the mind be constantly jutent on the performance of useful labor, the acquisition of knowledge, or the exercise of benevolent feelings. This will scarcely ever fail to impart to the eyes an intelligent and amiable expression.

To preserve the forehead from wrinkles-Cultivate contentment, calinness and benignity of spirit; and never, on any account, indulge a murmuring, a resentful or a malevolent feeling.

By a constant adhereance to the above simple rules, many females have preserved their attractions even to the age of four-score years and upwards. A THING WHICH EVERY FARMER SHOULD ENOW. - If you wish to drive a cut nail into seasond oak timber, and not have it to break or bend, just have a small quantity of oil near by and dip the nail before driving, and it will never fail to go. In mending carts and ploughs this is of great advantage, for they are generally made most of oak wood.

"Mr. Jones, don't you think marriage is a means of grace ?" "Certainly my dear madam; anything is a means of grace that breaks down pride and leads to repentance."

A Vankee Shoemaker.

You haint no occasion for a jer nor nothing, I 'spose,' said a jully son of St. Crispin from the land of wooden nutmegs, as he entered a shoe establishment with his kit nicely done up in his apron.

'Wonder if I haint' was the reply of the Why I would like a dozen if I could get 'em; but what kind of a shoe can you make?

O. as the matter o'that,' said the snob, I eckon how I can make a decent sort of a craft.'

'Spread your kit, then,' said the boss; 'I'll give you a pair to try; and if your work suits me I can give you a steady seat of work. Crispin was soon hammering and whistling away as happy as a claim at high water, and the boss was called away on some business which detained him two or three hoursmeanwhile the tramping jer had produced a thing which bore some faint resemblance to a shoe, and feeling somewhat ashamed of it hid it in a pile of leather chips that lay on the floor, and proceeded to make another which he had barely time to finish when his employer entered and began to examine it.

Look here mister, said he. 'I guess you need'nt make the mate to this; it is the greatest botch that ever was made in my shop that's a fact.' 'P'raps you'd like to bet a trifle on that,'

said the snob. Bet,' responded the boss, why I'll bet a ten dollar bill against a hand full of tobacco, that there was never one made in this shop half so bad as this.' Done, said Crispin, at the same time casting a sly wink at his shopmates, but stop, let me see if I've got so much of the weed with me. Oh, yes, here's a whole hand of Cavendish,' and laying it on the cut board, ventured to suggest the propriety of having the suet skin laid along side of it, which was no sooner done than he proceeded to draw from its hiding place the other shoe.

'Here boss,' said he. 'you must decide the bet; say which of the two shoes is the worst. · Well, I guess I'm fairly sucked in this time,' replied the boss, pushing the Cavendish and shipplaster towards the rightful owner, throwing a niucpence to the youngest apprentice. The boy needed no further instruction as to his duty, but was off in the twinkle of a bed-post, and soon returned with a quart of black-strap. After all hands had sufficiently regaled themselves, the shrewd Yaukee put his sticks together, and bidding the@boss a hearty good-by, started again on a tramp, very well satisfied with the forenoon's

A young man having finished his med ical studies, applied to an old gentleman to know whether his neighborhood would be an eligible situation for a physician. 'Why,' replied the old man, ' what can von do ?'

· Why, sir, I can feel a pulse and discover from it what disease the patient is subject to Mere then feel mine, said the old man, stretching out his arm."

You are troubled with the headache, said . Never had it in my life, sir, said the old gentleman. This was a poser. Profound silence en I suppose you think me a fool, said the physician, retiring.

Ah, you know what I think, but you don't know what I feel. The celebrated Henry Ward Becchspent a Sunday at Greenport, not long

A Hir by a Miss. - Congreve rockets were evented in 1803, by Sir William Congreve. On a certain occasion, when visiting Westminster Abbey in company with some ladies, his attention was directed by one of the party to the inscription on the great composer, Purchell's monument :- " He has gone to that lace where only his music can be excelled." There. Sir William," said the young lady, substitute fire-works for music; and that epitaph will answer for vourself."

Read and be convinced. From the Boston Bee.

The editor said, Dec. 22nd:
Dr. Hoofland's Celebrated German Bitters for the cure of Liver Complaint, Janudice, Dyspepsia, Chronic ar Nervous Debility, is deservedly one o the most popular medicines of the day. These Bitters have been used by thousands, and a friend at our elbow says he has himself received an effectual and permanent cure of Liver Complaint from the use of this remedy. We are convinced that, in the use of these Bitters, the patient constantly gains strength and vivor-a fact worthy of great consideration. They are pleasant in taste and smell, and can be used by persons with the most delicate stomachs with safety, under any circumstances. We are speaking from experience and to the afflicted we advise their use. "Scorr's WEERLY," one of the best Literary pa-
