The Cherokees have a government resembling that of the Choctaws, and are represented as industrious and advancing in knowledge some of their chief men being very well educated and living like gentlemen on their estates They are not behind, either, in manufactures, and annually produce large quantities of cotton and woolen goods. That they have also a faste for reading, is evident from the fact that there were 516,000 copies of books printed in the nation last year,

This project meets with great favor in Texas, and would undoubtedly greatly advance the progress of those nations. But as we said before, something more immediate is wanted for the wilder tribes .-That they, too, appreciate the civilizing process, and can be brought into it, is evident from the testimony of one well versed in these matters. Major Nabors, of Texas, tes-tified that some of the principal chiefs of the southern band of Camanches are fully impressed with the necessity of "settling down," and "are not only willing, but appear anxious to do so." He is satisfied that with two or three years' subsistence, secured by the General Government, with the necessary in- every kind; Embroideries and Lace Goods; Bonne structions in raising stock and growing corn. &c., they would be able to sustain themselves and eventually become civilized.

This subsistence is one of the first things cheap. wanted, for it is actual starvation, in addition to ill-treatment by the white population, that has driven the Camanches and other Indian tribes to the recent outrages on the frontiers.

Among the many demands on the attention of our government, not the least important is the improving the condition in every possible way, of the Indians on our frontiers .-We have fought the red man long enough.— We warred against him when we first landed on these shores, we have been warring upon him ever since, we are fighting many branches of his race now. It is not time now, when we have become great and powerful that we adopt a different course? time that we opposed, with a strong and more carnest arm, to the tomahawk which the Indian on our frontiers is at this moment lifting in retaliation against us as he did in days of old, a broader and brighter shield of civilization and kind treatment than we have yet done? Although we have hommed in the Indian between the Atlantic and the Pacific, we need not exterminate him. It is not an impossibility to civilize him and live with him in peace.—N. Y. Courier.
