Judge Porter and the Know Nothings.

Judge James M. Porter, in a recent charge to the Grand Jury of Wayne Co. Pa., plainly intimated his opinion that the Grand Jury ought to indict the Know Nothings for a conspiracy. We quote from his charge as follows:

"The Constitution of the United States provides that Congress shall have power to establish a uniform rule of naturalization.—And the first amendment to that constitution adopted immediately after the adoption of the instrument itself, provides that Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

"The constitution of Pennsylvania declares that "All men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences; no man can of right be compelled to attend, erect or support any place of worship, or to maintain any ministry against his consent; no human authority can, in any case whatever, control or interfere with the rights of conscience; and no preference shall be given by law to any religious establishments or modes of worship."

"No person who acknowledges the being of a God, and a future state of rewards and punishments, shall, on account of his religious sentiments be disqualified to hold any office or place of trust or profit under this Commonwealth.

"By the constitution of the United States there is no distinction made between natural born and naturalized Citizens, except that the latter are excluded from the office of President and Vice President of the United States. The citizens of each State are declared to be entitled to all the privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States."

After defining what constitutes a conspiracy, in law, his Honor went on to say:

"If any two or more men shall combine together for the purpose of preventing any of our citizens, naturalized or native, from enjoying the rights guaranteed to them by the constitution, it is a conspiracy, and punishable as such by indictment.

"If any two or more men combine together to prevent any citizen from enjoying the rights guaranteed to him by the constitution, on account of his religious feeling, or particular mode of worshipping God, it is a conspiracy, and punishable as such by indictment.

"If any number of men combine or form themselves into an association, by agreements, vows, or oaths to control the opinions and votes of any portion of our citizens in the exercise of their suffrages, so that they shall not vote according to their own choice or the dictates of their own consciences, but as a majority of such association shall determine, it is a conspiracy, and punishable as such by indictment."

Notwithstanding Judge Porter, and the Honesdale Herald, in which paper we find the charge referred to, considered the Know-Nothings as amenable to the criminal law, the Grand Jury seem to have taken a different view of the matter, and indicted no one for the Judges new crime of Know-Nothingism. This may be accounted for, perhaps, on the supposition that some of the Grand Jurors were Know-Nothings themselves, and were therefore better qualified to judge of the nature and objects of the "combination" than Judge Porter, who probably does not belong to the order. But where could the learned Judge have got the idea that the Know-Nothings, who comprise in their ranks not only Judges upon the bench, but Governors, Congressmen, and members of the Legislatures of the several States, besides many clergymen and other good men, are all criminals? When the organs of the "regular" Democracy, from the Washington Union down to the Montrose Democrat, denounced them as "midnight conspirators" and "violators of the Constitution," did he believe the accusations on such evidence?

The object of the Know-Nothings, so far as the public know, is the election of Protestant Americans to office.

There are other combinations, or "conspiracies," whose object is the election of Temperance men, while opposing combinations seek the election of men of opposite principles; some combine for the election of pro-slavery men, others for the election of anti-slavery men; some for the election of "National" Whigs, others of "National" Democrats. All these, we take it, are as liable to indictment as the Know- Nothings, and when Judge Porter can find a Grand Jury as insane as himself, we recommend him to get them all indicted together.

Showing the Clovon-foot.

It has ever been the boast of the mis-called Democracy that they are the true exponents of the will and wishes of the people. Now, however, that they are everywhere overwhelmingly and ignominiously defeated, they come out boldly and show the hypocrisy of their professions. Judge Douglass being now fearful that he will be instructed to kill off his own offspring, the Nebraska iniquity, and to vote in favor of the improvement of rivers and harbors, has caused his organ at Chicago to anticipate such action by the Legislature, and to foreshadow what his course will be in that event. The Times speaking of the Legislature, says:

"They were elected under a tornado of fanaticism and senseless excitement. They are elected by a coalition as base as any known in the annals of our political history. They represent not the cool reflection, the deliberate reason and healthy political sentiment of the State; and if any circumstances could exist, which would authorize a representative to disregard instructions, they exist here in this State. Elected as were our Senators years ago and sustained throughout their term by successive Legislatures, to be instructed out of their seats by such a Legislature thus elected, would be both unreasonable and unjust."

CONTUMACY.—Three Irishmen, subpœned to appear before the Grand Jury, at the present term of our Court, and testify against another Irishman for selling liquor contrary to law, refused to take the oath. They were brought before the Court, and then refused, one of them in indecent terms, to be sworn. Judge Porter committed all three of them to jail till they shall be willing to testify.—Honesdale Democrat.

PUT NONE BUT AMERICANS ON GUARD TONIGHT.—The Boston Atlas calls attention to the fact that our country is represented abroad by a Frenchman in Spain, by an Italian in Italy, by a German Jew at the Hague, by a Scotchman at Naples, and by an Irishman in Portugal. Sickles and Saunders, we are sorry to say, were born in this country. So much for affairs abroad.—Daily News

Armenian Women.

"The young unmarried Armenian people, of both sexes, enjoy perfect liberty, within the recognized limits of manners and propriety. Custom is here precisely the reverse of what prevails in the surrounding countries. Whilst in the latter the purchase of a wife is the only usual form of contracting a marriage, until which time the girl remains in perfect seclusion,—among the Armenians, on the contrary, the people of both sexes, enjoy free social intercourse. The girls go where they like, unveiled and bare-headed. The young men carry on their love suits freely and openly, and marriages of affection are of common occurrence. But with the marriage the scene changes; the word which the young woman pronounces at the altar, in accepting her husband is the last that is for a long time heard from her lips. From that moment she never appears, even in her own house unveiled. She is never seen abroad in the public streets, except when she goes to church, which is only twice in the year, and then closely veiled. If a stranger enters the house or garden, she instantly conceals herself. With no person, not even her father or brother, is she allowed to exchange a single word; and she speaks to her husband only when they are alone. With the rest of the household she can communicate only by gestures, and by talking on her fingers. This silent reserve, which custom imperatively prescribes, the young wife maintains until she has borne her first child, from which period she becomes gradually emancipated from her constraint; she speaks to her new-born infant; then her mother-in-law is the first person she may address; after a while she is allowed to converse with her own mother, then with her sisters-in-law, and afterwards with her own sisters. Now she begins to talk with the young girls in the house, but always in a gentle whisper, that none of the male part of the family may hear what is said. The wife, however, is not fully emancipated, her education is not completed, until after the lapse of six years, and even then she never can speak with any strangers of the other sex, nor appear before them unveiled."

Manly Sentiments.

George D. Prentice, the brilliant but bitter editor of the Louisville Journal, was lately entertained by a number of citizens, Whigs and Democrats, at Memphis. He related his editorial experience in terms which must forcibly strike every one who has gone through the war of editorial partisanship. It is refreshing to read such magnanimous confessions of doing wrong, in the heat of political excitement—they deserve to be duly pondered by American journalists, especially those who fight the editorial battles of political parties. Mr. Prentice said:

"I know that my Whig friends will both pardon and justify me when I say, that I prize this compliment coming from Whigs and Democrats alike, far more than I could a similar one from members of my own party alone. There was a time, years ago, when I cared little what my political opponents said or thought of me, so I had the regard, the support and the applause of my political friends. But I have long since ceased to feel thus. I have learned to appreciate and to desire the good opinion of all good men. I have learned that candor, and truth, and honor and honesty, and wisdom and patriotism, and virtue, are confined to no party. My devotion to the party with which I have acted throughout my life is unfaltering, but true friends, all true hearts the great lesson of political liberty. I have published some things, which although well intended at the time, I could wish blotted from the memory of my readers, and from my own.

"I have written some bitter things of men who have since passed away from earth, and whose memories I revere, and on whose graves I could shed tears of sorrow and regret. Ah! when I look back through the twenty-six years of my editorial life, and think how many I once denounced who afterwards became my personal friends, or proved themselves their country's friends, and how many I once maligned and toiled for who have since turned ruthlessly and causelessly against me; when I reflect how often the most arduous and devoted political services have been forgotten by those to whom they are rendered, and how often the deepest political injuries are magnanimously forgiven by those to whom they are done; and when I remember how many of my political friends have striven to crush me, and how many Democrats have gathered around me as a band of brothers in the days of my personal peril, I should be guilty of an outrage on my own conscience, and on every feeling and impulse of my heart, if I were not to weed out from my nature the partisan bitterness that once flourished there. I am a Whig, but I will greet every true-hearted Democrat as my brother, and I will greet no false-hearted Whig as such."

Why don't he do it.

When the farmer knows that a gate is better, and as a time and labor saving fixture cheaper than a set of bars and posts, and without calling upon a carpenter, he can himself make one, Why don't he do it?

When he has no other fastening to his gates and barn doors than a stone rolled against them, and in a single evening after supper is able to make a better one, Why don't he do it?

Or when he sees the boards dropping from his barns and out buildings, and like heaps of rubbish laying in piles about his premises and only need nailing on again, Why dont he do it?

Or if he is afraid of the expense of nails, and is always crying up the maxim of Dr. Franklin, save the pence and the pounds will take care of themselves" and he knows the same Dr. Franklin also said, many men are penny wise and pound foolish," and he is not careful to think of the precept contained in the latter, Why don't he do it?

If it is the saving of nearly half the manure of a farmer's stock by keeping them shut in yards, instead of running at large through most part of the winter, Why don't he do it?

If he knows that many of his fields would be greatly improved by ditching, and by the removal of stumps and stones, Why don't he do it?

And when he knows that his pastures would yield double the feed, and of a better quality if the bushes were all cut, Why don't he do it?

And if he can add fifty per cent. to the product of his clover fields, and oveil to his pasture, by the use of gypsum, Why don't he do it?

If a farmer, of fifty acres has (as he should have) use for a good corn sheller and one of many improved fanning mills, and he has not already obtained both, Why don't he do it?

And if it is cheaper, actually cheaper, to burn dry wood than green, and to use a stove instead of an open fire place, Why don't he do it?

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A FAMILY PHYSIC.

THERE has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfect in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other.—This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain, unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been specially cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all those are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Cholic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required.

They have produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action, on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary do ings should never be carried too far as every purgative medicine reduces the strength when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body, and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than anything which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine. Being sugar-wrapped they are pleasant to take, and being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

For minute directions see wrapper on the Box.

Prepared by JAMES C. AYER, Practical and Analytical Chemist, Lowell, Mass.

Price 25 Cents per Box. Five Boxes for $1.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.
For the rapid Cure of Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Whooping-Cough, Croup, Asthma, and Consumption.

This remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease, that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is its field of usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder affections of Colds, Coughs, Influenza, &c., and for Children it is the pleasantest and most effectual medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant requisition in this section, we need not do more than assure people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by—Apia Treadwell, Montrose; D. F. & R. H. Eaton, Harford; Culver & Penney, Dundaff, and by all dealers in medicine every where.
