ing from one of our excursions I was overtaken by the night, and found my path obstructed by a deep inlet from the river, which being choked with logs and brush, could not be crossed by swimming. Observing a house on the opposite side I called for assistance. A half-naked, ill-looking fellow came down, and after dragging a cance round from the river with some trouble ferried me over, and I followed him to his habitation, near which our boat was moored for the night. His cabin was of the meanest kind, consisting of a single apartment constructed of logs, which contained a family of seven or eight souls, and everything seemed to designate him as a new and thrifty set-
