STRIKE-MORGAN.

A large number of invited guests assembled at the Presbyterian church in this place, at 2:30 o'clock on Thursday afternoon last, to witness the marriage of Miss Julia Kingsbury, of the First National Bank, and Miss Susan Morgan, daughter of the late Wm. H. Morgan.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. A. R. Stewart, pastor of the church. The bride and groom were thrown upon a dais after two o'clock, and the ushers were in their places and seated the guests as they arrived. The organ playing a beautiful and appropriate music. The bride and groom entered the church at 2:30 o'clock accompanied by their bridesmaids and groomsmen. They took their places upon an improvised platform in front of the pulpit. Dr. Stewart performed the marriage ceremony in a beautifully impressive manner; the soft pathos of the organ lending to the scene. The pulpit was handsomely decorated with floral designs above which shone a star of burning gas jets. A parol of evergreens was suspended over the heads of the bride and groom, and a white dove surmounted by a double floral wreath.

At the close of the ceremony the bride and groom were accompanied by their bridesmaids and groomsmen to the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Morgan on Main Street where a sumptuous collation was spread and the bride and groom were socially enjoyed.
