AGRICULTURAL. How floed Cows are Buined.

Milking is an art, and the farm hand who knows how to milk properly is more valuable to the careful dairyman han any other help. Of course anybody can milk, and some can milk a dozen cown before breakfast. The careful manager, however, is not so auxious for fast help as he is to employ those who are careful. The operation should never be hurried, but the milk should would break out, crack open, and the skin separation of the skin sep never be hurried, but the milk should be drawn steady, and as it flows, continual itching and stinging Purchased your remedies; used Cuticura Resolvent interpally, and Cuticura Scap externally, and in less teats, and the rapid milkman forgets that three months effected a complete cure, and this fact in his endeavor to make speed.

Culiard & Foster, Druggiqts, Keene, N. E. The cow that naturally impatient and fretful does not like to submit to rough handling, and her disposition is soon ruined by such treatment. As the udder becomes distended and filled with milk the desire on the part of the cow is to be relieved of its contents, and she willingly submits to it for the relief it occasions. When a cow, therefore, that has been a patient deliverer of milk pecomes fractions the fault can always be traced to the milkman. The careless dairyman is the one who complains of the failure of his cows to keep up the flow, the bloody milk, garget and other evils are the result of his own bad management. There is another point n the treatment of cows that demands attentions, and this is allowing them to stand a long time waiting to be milked. With cows that give large yields it is very painful, and when the udders have been filled to their ntmost, and the milkman is not on hand to relieve them they become very nervous and restless. This will do more to cause a cow to go dry before her period than anything else, and many a good cow has been sent to the shambles through diminu. tion of quantity simply because nature had revolted at her sufferings and allowed her to dry up because her storeiouse was not emptied of its contents at the proper time. She should always be milked to the last drop, if possible, and s the last portion of the milk is claimed to be the richest, the udder should be eft with nothing in it. With regularity in feeding and milking, and kind treatment at all times, the cow will not only become gentle and remain so, but will milk several weeks longer than otherwise. An experienced dairyman needs help that are skillful, and he knows how to judge the milkman's work by the behavior of his cows.
