A Fact.

A man in the town of M.—N. H., had, while from home, earned about $6, returned the other day to his family with the cash.—His wife told him that during his absence his family had suffered for food. He replied—'I will go to a store and buy what is wanted, and then we shall have enough. He had refrained from drink for some time; but on arriving at the grocery, it was found he had money, and he was invited to drink a little beer—then something stronger—till he got drunk, spent all his money for rum, and returned to his half starved family at 2 o'clock in the morning, penniless.

The poor wife was greatly distressed, and on the next evening ventured to go to the wife of the rum seller, told the story of her suffering family—and the manner in which her husband had been made a pauper, &c.; whereupon the good lady filled a large basket with pork, bread, coffee, sugar, &c., and then calling her husband into the entry, in presence of the drunkard's wife, said—"Last night you took from this poor woman's husband all his money for rum; I have now filled a basket full of articles of food, and so long as you continue to sell liquor to get men drunk, and take from them their money, thereby making their families poor and miserable, I will deal out to them from the house all they may want to support them." This was more than the husband could stand; the next morning he went to his store and emptied every cask, decanter and bottle of liquor into the road, saying he would no longer sell liquid fire, but would keep a Temperance store.—Boston Jour.

Look Ahead.

Young men, if you will carefully peruse the following article, copied from the Portland Tribune, you will perceive why so many business men fail of success in the prosecution of their undertakings.

"The reason why so many young men fail in business, and burden themselves with debt in the onset of life, is neglecting to look ahead.—How many enter into speculations, or make a purchase of goods without thinking on, or caring for the consequences. We have frequently marked the course pursued by many worthy young men, now embarrassed and without credit, who, in not reflecting on their course and not looking to the consequences, have embarked in a business with which they were totally unacquainted, and seemingly prosperous for a time, but eventually failed, and lost the confidence of their creditors, without a possibility of ever being free from debt.

"A man with a small capital will commence business for himself; and without looking ahead to the day when his notes become due, live extravagantly, and spend a large amount in horse-hire, and on parties of pleasure; and the first intimation he has, that his credit is lost, is the authoritative voice of the sheriff at his counter, who has commenced taking an inventory of his goods. Hundreds of like cases are yearly occurring, which should teach young men an important lesson; to look ahead; to make small purchases; to stick closely to their business, and to live within their means. By one miscalculation; one error in judgment; one breach of confidence, a youth may be ruined, and never again have the privilege of conducting business in his own name.

"Look around you, and tell us who are our most prosperous merchants and mechanics?—They are those who are prudent and attentive to business; who have entered into no speculations without forethought and investigation of those; who invariably look ahead, when any project is presented for their countenance and support. There is no one case in fifty where a young man fails in business, which cannot be traced to his neglect to look ahead when urged to make large purchases, or solicited to enter into speculations. Young men learn wisdom. Never—never lift a finger to act, without looking to the consequences, without asking yourself if you can consistently, with your credit and your obligations to others, do thus and so. Then, our word for it, you will succeed; it cannot be otherwise. Your creditors seeing the judicious management of your affairs, and your attention to business; will be a thousand times more ready to lend you assistance, and if not perfectly convenient, will often favor you in the payment of their demands. Remember, then, the secret of success; and in every undertaking have the consequences and the end in view.

The Way of Success.

True hope is on energy of character. A strong mind always hopes, and has always cause to hope, because it knows the mutability of human affairs, and how slight a circumstance may change the whole course of events. Such a spirit, too, rests upon itself. It is not confined to partial views, or to the one particular object; and if at last it should be lost, it has saved itself—its own integrity and worth.

Hope awakens courage, while despondency is the last of all evils; it is the abandonment of good—the giving up of the battle of life with dead nothingness. He who can implant courage in the human soul, is its best physician.

To seek to govern men by their fears and their wants is an unworthy purpose. The desire to rule by means of cowardice is itself cowardice. Love inspires courage and hope, and thus is doubly the giver and preserver of life. Whatever teaches us boldly to combat the manifold doubts and assaults of life, enables us to win the crown of victory. Special care ought therefore to be taken in education to teach what true courage is—as well in social and domestic, as in public affairs—and by what means it may be best sustained.

Important Invention.

"A man down east has patented an improvement on the corn shelling machine: by the use of his invention he can put in a lot of newspaper bills, and shell out the cash."—[Exchange paper.

Will the patentee please come this way soon, and call at our office? We should be glad to purchase the right for this county; also one of the machines for immediate use.—Hunt. Gaz.

Meteors.

About two in the morning on Friday last, innumerable meteors of surprising beauty were perceptible in the heaven. Vast myriads of shooting stars were seen darting through the air in a S. W. direction, leaving a long and brilliant train of light. The whole atmosphere was illuminated, and at one period the light was so great, as to have enabled a person to read the smallest print with the utmost facility. This magnificent spectacle was visible during a period of ten or twelve minutes.—Calcutta Englishman, Sept. 13.

Distraining for Rent.

"Speaking of Turkey," we heard an extensive tale yesterday. It was told us by the Doctor. A man up town, on going to dinner a day or two ago, found a magnificent turkey, weighing fifteen or twenty pounds, smoking hot on the table. As he smacked his lips in anticipation of his pleasure, he happened to recollect that he had himself purchased a pair of ducks in market that morning, and began to wonder how they became transformed into the dish before him.

"Ben," said he to the boy waiting upon him, "where the devil did this turkey come from?"
 "Why, sa," replied Ben, "dat ar turkey is bin roostin' on our fence dis tree night, an' dis mornin' I seize him for de rent of de fence!"

A great nigger that! We have a shrewd suspicion that he understands the laws of Turkey much better than his master.

Girls now-a-days, wear daggers in their eyes and plant them in our hearts.
