Knitting Machine.

We went vesterday to the machine shop of Mr. Charles Evans, No. 5 Quarry street, above Second, to see in operation a knitting machine the invention of one of our cunning brethren of the East, Mr. Richard Walker, of Portsmouth. N. H.) The machine is called the Patent Rotary Knitting Loom. It is a very small affair, not more than 22 inches in length, 12 inches wide, and 18 inches high. The movement wheels of the machine are very few, but very eccentric. The needles, or teeth, however are wonderfully ingenious. The machine is propelled by steam; and a young woman can with perfect ease, attend to three of these machines, and with them weave NINETY PAIRS of stockings a day.
