The Election.

On Tuesday next the General Election takes on Wednesday last for Greensburg. place, when the freemen of Pennsylvania will again be called upon to exercise the invaluable right of suffrage, and choose their public servants for the coming year. In nearly all the counties also they will have to elect their County House officers; a task imposed upon them by the new or amended Constitution. This is an important duty-and as every man is more or less interested in having the public records and papers of the different offices correctly and carefully preserved, great care should be taken to have the offices filled with honest and capable men.

the offices in which are deposited the evidences tion and conviction of any person who was an ac of their Judgments, their Land Titles, their Wills, tive participant in the attempted fraud. and the Criminal convictions. To the Legislature to be then chosen, the people will look for great and important reforms. The credit of the State has been stretched to its utmost point. The interest on the State Debt due on the 1st of August, has not been paid, and no money will be in the Treasury to pay that which will fall due on the to be specie. first of February. And it depends altogether upon the action of the next Legislature whether Pennsylvania must in fact repudiate, or whether she will be honest and retrieve her ancient good name. When the people go to the polls, let them remember these things.

Freemen, to the Polls!

to the Polls, and faithfully to discharge the sacred trust secured to them by the patriots of seventysir, we have no party ends to answer. Whigs have presented no candidates for office, in his district as unable to pay their State taxand are therefore left free to choose who they will es! support, independent of party. It is the duty of every man to go to the polls and cast his vote for those candidates who are the most worthy and deserving of office. The right of suffrage is a privilege which none but freemen possess. It exists, in its purity, only in those countries where liberty has taken up her abode; and in those places where the complete vote for Governor at the late elecit is most dearly cherished, and the most careful- tion, as follows: ly exercised, the people are the freest and happiest. The voters cannot be too careful in examining the merits of the different candidates. If a bad or incompetent man is chosen, the whole community are the sufferers, besides the evil example resulting to others from his defection. Virtue must be the guiding star both of the candidate and the Elector, or else our form of government instead of being a blessing, will become one of the worst of evils.

The Assembly Ticket.

There are two Assembly Tickets presented to the voters of Monroe this fall. The one contains the names of Joseph Kerr, Asa Packer, and Jefferson K. Heckman, and was formed by the Delegates at Ehret's, in Plainfield township. The other is composed of Joseph Kerr, Asa Packer, and Isaac Stout, and was confirmed by a County meeting held at Bath. The only difference be-Isaac Stout for that of J. K. Heckman. They are both loco focos, and it is therefore, as far as party is concerned, immaterial to us which of them is elected. Mr. Heckman represented the District, however, in such a manner, last winter, that the State would loose very little by his defeat.

Politics in Northampton.

The Delegate System in Old Northampton is all in ruins, and the organization of the Loco Foco party entirely broken up. The Regular Tickvention, is a poor affair, and most of the men on were convinced that he had not committed it were nominated against the wishes of a large wilful murder. majority of the party. Mr. Adams' Speech.

We call the attention of our readers to an account on our first page, of the reception of the Hon. John Q. VENTRILLOQUISM PRACTICALLY ILLUSTRA-TED .- In Baltimore, as Wyman, the ventrilloquist, was passing the horse market, he was accosted by a jockey with "let me sell you this poney." "How old is he?" said Wyman .--"Seven last spring," answered the jockey .-"Oh, what a lie!" ejaculated a most unearthly sound "I'm 13, and you know it as well as do." The astonished jockey look around, under the impression that some acquaintance, by way of a joke, had volunteered a speech in behalf of the poney, but discovered no one. This perplexed him, and striking the horse across the neck, the same voice cried "if you do that again, you blackguard, I'll throw you off and kick out your brains." This second speech was too much for the dumfounded rider, who leaped from the horse and started to run, much to the amusement of the bystanders; and it was with great difficulty that he could be persuaded to mount the poney again, after the joke was
