New Year.

With the close of the present week, another year will have departed, and be numbered among the things that were. Eighteen hundred and fortytwo, is rapidly drawing to an end, and next Sab- ter. bath morning, will usher into existence its young successor. As this is the last paper we shall publish prior to that time, it may not be amiss to anticipate the period, and wish our readers "a happy new year." The close of the old, and the opening of the new year, is a season which always awakens both sad and pleasing recollections in every mind. No matter how elevated and favoured an House. individual may be, he has still moments and actions to look back to, which cause him pain and fice of Pension Agents. sorrow;-and no matter how poor and miserable, on the other hand, may be the person, he has still many bright spots to recur to, on which his memory can rest, and upon which his imagination may revel with pleasure. These emotions of joy and sorrow are more vividly called to our minds at this time than at any other. We are affected very length, on the ground that the President posmuch in the same way by the passing away of sessed information not communicated. the old year, that we are by the demise of an old and intimate friend. Both events tell us of the mutability of all things, and remind us of our own approaching dissolution. Close upon the old year, so full of weariness and trouble, comes the young the bill without amendment. and radient follower, full of joy and promise-a fit emblem of the life beyond the grave. We should not permit this lesson so fraught with instruction to go by unimproved. It presents matter of the most wholesome and important reflection. It causes all persons to reflect more or less. If we but do properly, we shall ever regard the New Year, as a happy period in our lives.

Cirristmas.

Christmas has come and passed; and we believe was never more generally observed before. Notwithstanding the hardness of the times, every body most, seemed to be joyful and merry. The little folks set their plates and hats on Saturday evening, and after passing an unquiet night, got up the next morning to find that St. Nicholas, or Kriss Kringle, as he or she is called, had supplied them most bounteously with all kind of nick-nacks. Their seniors provided themselves with venison, came in their way, and fared sumptuously on Sunday and Monday. Lovers gave and received tokens of affection. Friends exchanged gifts, and all tried to make themselves happy.

been done by Congress, is the passage of the Civil Appropriation Bill for 1843, through the House. It passed final reading in that body on Thursday last. The Bankrupt Bill and the Bill to refund Gen. Jackson his one thousand dollar fine, occupied the attention of both Houses the greater part of the weck. The general impression is that they will be enacted into laws during the present ses-

The Legislature.

On Tuesday next, the fifth General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, under the New Constitution, will assemble at Harrisburg, and commence its labors. There never was a time, since the establishment of the State, by Wilham Penn, at which a more important duty devolved upon our Legislators, than is presented to those who are to meet next week. Upon their wisdom, prodence, and correct legislation, rests the fame, honor, and prosperity of Pennsylvania. A short time will be sufficient to see how they acquit themselves of their high responsibility.

The Matiny.

As soon as the inquiry is concluded, all the facts connected with the mutiny will be made public, and then every one will be capable to form an opinion for himself, of this high handed proceeding.

United States Senators.

The Hon. William Allen, has been re-elected U. S. Senator by the Legislature of Ohio, for six years from the fourth of March next. Mr. Allen is the youngest, and by far the least talented and gentlemanly member of the Senate. He is the same individual who fabricated the infamous slander upon Gen.
