and pointed out many trees not familiar to us —took us to the aviary filled with beautiful pheasants, English and Chinese, and other rare birds, pointed out many splendid views of the castle and other objects; looking through the thick grove you see in one direction a village spire, six miles off the trees being planted to preserve the view. In another direction, a majestic row of elms shade every thing but where by the clefting of the boughs above as they interlock, you see five miles off another spire, the effect of which is most grand. We visited the great old Blenheim Oak the largest tree in circumference I ever saw, and returning to the park, commenced a walk in it. We first visited fair Rosamond's Well, now enclosed by an iron railing, whose water is as clear as crystal as it comes gushing forth from the hill; close by it are clumps of trees in which two huge oaks mark the entrance to the old Woodstock lodge, being the only mark to note its standing place. About half an hour's walk brought us to the High Lodge, now tenanted by a gamekeeper; where formerly the witty Earl of Rochester lived and died. His bed on which he breathed his last is still kept there, and was shown to us. The view from the top of the Lodge was most magnificent, we could see the country for miles around. The game keeper showed us some of his grace's fine dogs he has kenneled there, presents from some of the greatest men in the Kingdom. I forgot to mention, that on our entrance we first visited what is called the Titian Gallery being a room erected alone for the reception of nine splendid pictures by Titian, presented by Victor Amadus, King of Sardinia, to the great Duke. They are most beautiful, the coloring is exquisite and the paintings well worthy a building by themselves.

We got back to our hotel just in time to take the stage to Oxford, 8 miles, and which we reached before dark, stopping at the Angle. The streets of Oxford present a very fine appearance to a stranger in entering, differing from most of the towns we have seen, being finely built, and presenting at small distances, some one of its many splendid Universities. We spent a whole day in visiting these ancient repositories of learning, the guides having added to their stock of curiosities now every place connected with Dr. Pussey. Thus we were pointed out his lodgings—his followers, known by the manner of wearing the gown—the pulpit in which he preached his condemned sermon, &c. We saw Mr. Newman in one of our rambles, but I thought but little of the great Tractarian even when his name was repeated by our cicerone. My mind was upon other things. The paintings in the halls were very fine, but the halls themselves were to me, yet more interesting. We visited most of the Universities, the Ratcliffe and Bodlean Library, the Picture Gallery and all the objects of curiosity connected with them—were even taken to the kitchen, where they seemed to have a whole butcher shop of meat before the fire at once, joints of mutton, lamb and veal, poultry of all kinds all spitted on great irons turned by machinery. I did not think from the display I saw, there would be any occasion for grumbling. The walks about these colleges are very fine—rows of trees are planted on both sides of the walks, shading them, mostly along the banks of the Cherwell and the Isis, making them delightful resorts if they ever have decent weather. We took a long stroll in the one called Addison's walk, from being his favorite haunt, and I do not wonder, for it would suit any classic mind. The appearance of the members in their gowns and caps strikes a stranger oddly. They doff them very unceremoniously sometimes, when they come to the hotel to see their friends.

We left Oxford at 7 o'clock, P. M. and went by coach to Steventon, on the great Western rail road, by which we went to Slough, where we took omnibus two miles to Windsor, which we did not reach until 10, P. M. In the morning we took a ride of about 15 miles in the Park, to Virginia Water, returning by Runaymede, where Magna Charta was agreed upon. Here, near the battle ground, we first came on the Thames, a stream about the size of our Bushkill. Windsor Park cannot compare with Blenheim, in my opinion. The scenery about Virginia Water very much resembles what we see in the northern parts of Northampton and Monroe, near the streams. It contains some pretty buildings and ornaments. We saw in it a fine sight; three grooms dressed in scarlet with a large pack of hounds coursing about.

We got back and before going to the Castle went to view the Royal Stables lately erected at an expense of some £7,000. Most of the horses were out, yet we were shown a specimen of each kind, as also the carriages and harness. I think we could have no difficulty in eclipsing either. While looking here we had a specimen of practical amalgamation—a thick, robust African had hanging on his arm a simpering white Miss who seemed delighted with her sable attendant. There is no accounting for the taste of the fair sex I know, in the matter of the selection of lovers, but I must confess, I do not see how they can go this. From the stables we went to the Castle. This as you are aware has been the favorite residence of the British Monarchs from the time of William the Conqueror, each improving or enlarging it. The Chapel was unfortunately under repair, and we were not permitted to visit it, but we traversed the whole of the splendid suit of state apartments, the most magnificent in the kingdom, adorned with all that can please the sight or gratify the fancy in such a place. The paintings were beautiful, the ornaments beautiful, the furniture beautiful—the windows command a most beautiful prospect of the surrounding country.

I will merely give you a list of the rooms, leaving contents for another time. We entered the Queen's audience chamber, then the Queen's presence chamber, then the guard chamber, then the ball or grand reception room, then the Waterloo chamber or grand dining room, then the state ante room, then the vestibule, then the King's drawing room, then the King's council chamber, then the King's closet, then the Queen's closet, the Queen's drawing room and then the Vandyck's room which again brought us to the beginning. From here we went to the East terrace and walked around it, and I must confess, the prospect exceeds anything of its character I ever beheld, although we have scenery far more sublime and majestic, yet I must cry beat, for the extensive cultivation—it seemed like a beautiful pleasure ground on all sides as far as the eye could reach. After remaining here awhile we ascended the Round Tower or Keep, where formerly the State Prisoners were confined and from which the view is again most extensive. After making arrangements to return to Windsor to visit the celebrated Ascot races, on Thursday next, we took passage for this great hive of morality, which we reached last evening upon the great Western Railway, the crack railroad of the kingdom. And having thus brought myself to this, another resting point, I will stop, leaving further details for the future.

WORMS! WORMS!!

☞ If parents knew the value and efficacy of Dr. Leidy's Patent Vegetable Worm Tea, they never would be without it in their families, as children are subject at all times to Worms.

Dr. Leidy's Worm Tea is composed of vegetables altogether, and may be given to children of all ages. Directions accompany each paper or package.

Children suffer much, of times, from so many things being given them for worms, without any effect. Much medicine, given to children, has a tendency to destroy their general health, and they are more or less delicate ever after.

To avoid the necessity of giving medicine unnecessarily when you are certain your children have worms give them at first Dr. Leidy's Worm Tea. It is all that is necessary.

Reference might be made to several hundred parents in Philadelphia city and county, of the efficacy of Dr. Leidy's Worm Tea. Try it and you will be convinced.

Price 12 1-2 cents a small, and 25 cents a large package. Prepared only, and for sale wholesale and retail, at Dr. Leidy's Health Emporium, No. 191 North Second street, below Vine, (sign of the Golden Eagle and Serpents,) Philadelphia.

Also, sold at Wm. Eastburn's store, Stroudsburg. Jan. 4, 1843.

PETERS PILLS

We have tried Doctor Jos. Priesley Peters' Vegetable Pills, and have no hesitation in pronouncing them the best Antibilious Medicine that we have ever used in our families. We are acquainted with several families in this city who give them the preference to all other kinds, on account of their mildness, and at the same time, certainty of action.—New-York Examiner.

More than ten millions of boxes of these truly valuable Antibilious Pills have been sold in the United States, Canadas, West Indies, Mexico, and Texas, since the first of January, eighteen hundred and thirty-five.

Hundreds and thousands bless the day they were induced by the persuasion of a friend, to try a Box of Doctor Peters' Pills.

They are in use as a Family Medicine, and all who have used them give them the preference to all other kinds, on account of their being a safe, pleasant, and easy aperient—being mild in their action at the same time; though, in their operation, producing neither sickness, griping, nor debility.

Doct. Jos. Priestley Peters,

DEAR SIR:—I have used your valuable Pills these last four years, in cases of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and Sick Head-ache, and have found them, in a majority of cases, the most valuable Pills I have ever used.

JOHN CASE, M. D.

For Sick or Nervous Head-ache, or Bilious Fever, I would recommend Peters' Pills in preference to all other kinds.

R. H. ARMSTRONG, M. D.

The following from the EMMINENT DOCTOR EMMERSON, is considered sufficient.

I have used in my practice, these last five years, Doctor Jos. Priestley Peters' Vegetable Antibilious Pills, and considered them the BEST FAMILY MEDICINE I have ever used.

A fresh supply of these valuable Pills just received and for sale at the office of the REPUBLICAN, Stroudsburg.

Mr. David Williams, of Elizabethtown, N. J. an old Revolutionary Soldier, was so afflicted with Rheumatism, that he could scarcely help himself—these Plasters entirely cured him.
