

military on their march up,) and proceeded to examine all the houses from which shots had been fired; in one of them a man named John Holmes, was found, and in the same room in which he was, was a rifle heavily loaded. He was brought out and consigned to the care of the military.

In the meantime, General Cadwallader made a brief address to the great crowd assembled below Master-street urging them to preserve peace, and to act in co-operation with the military. The whole affair rested in the hands of the law, and he was bound to see that the settlement was lawfully made.

He made no distinction—knew neither friend nor foe in the matter, and was determined at all hazard to see the majesty of the law vindicated. This brief address, of which we have hardly given the substance, seemed to meet the general approbation, and during the entire evening, the crowd of persons collected, seemed disposed to let matters rest in the hands of the civil and military force.

At half-past eight, the members of the Carroll Hose commenced to throw water upon the burning dwellings, and succeeded in stopping the progress of the fire northward. At nine o'clock, the United States Engine arrived on the ground, under escort of a detachment of the Lafayette Light Guards, and immediately went into service. The Assistance Engine shortly afterwards went into service, also under an escort of military, and shortly afterwards nearly the whole Fire Department were upon the ground. The fire was then stayed, but not until a vast amount of property was destroyed.

The melancholy result of the few hours during which the contest between the Irishmen and Native Americans raged, is briefly told in the following list of killed and wounded.

KILLED.—John Shreeves, painter, shot thro' the head—died instantly.

Geo. Stievel, rope maker, Southwark—bullet entered his neck and passed through one of his lungs and the heart.

Louis Gerble, stone cutter, Southwark—bullet entered his right temple and passed out at the crown of the head, tearing off a portion of the scalp.

Joseph Rice, bullet entered his head, and killed him instantly.

Mathew Hamitt, ship carpenter, ball entered at one of his ears, died instantly.

WOUNDED.—Henry Hesselbauch, inn keeper, ball passed through the fleshy part of the hand.

James Whitaker, ball entered his right thigh and splintered the bone.

Chas. Orte, shot with a slug in the head, the superior part of his skull is fractured.

Geo. Young, bullet entered his left breast and passed out at his back. He is probably dead—the wound is fatal.

Augustus Peale, bullet entered his left arm above the elbow, and badly fractured it. The ball was abstracted and was perfectly flat.

Wright J. Ardis, ship carpenter, shot thro' the hip, dangerously wounded.

John Lusher, bullet entered his left breast, inflicting a mortal wound. He is probably dead.

John Taggart, shot in the forehead and badly beaten, wounds and injuries mortal. He is probably dead.

Taylor, butcher, Southwark, struck by a spent ball in the eye—wound dangerous.

Jas. Brown, broken leg, occasioned by running against an awning post.

A man whose name is unknown, had the patella or cap of his knee dislocated.

Washington Heyberger, badly wounded.

John Fagan, ball entered at his shoulder and passed out at the back.

Two boys were wounded in the abdomen slightly, and we have heard of five men whose names we could not learn, who were wounded more or less dangerously.

Maitland, was dangerously wounded by a shot fired by John Taggart. A negro sitting in the market house, immediately fired at Taggart, and several shot struck him in the forehead. Taggart then ran into a house, but a number of the Native Americans rushed in and made him a prisoner. He was conducted down to Alderman Boileau's office, who upon the oath of one of the spectators, committed him to Moyamensing Prison. He left the office in charge of two officers, and a number of citizens, but when near Beaver-street, the crowd took him violently out of the hands of his conductors, tied a rope around his neck, and dragged him a distance along the street.

His captors then passed the rope over the end of an awning post, and pulled him up for the purpose of hanging him, but the beam broke and he fell to the earth—he was then dragged for some distance and finally left lying in the street, to all appearance dead. He was, however, alive when taken up, and remained so up to ten o'clock last night. He cannot, however, survive.

S. Abbot Lawrence, a young man, a nephew of Abbot Lawrence of Boston, was standing on the outskirts of the crowd, when a bullet struck him and caused him much pain. It appears upon examination, that the ball had struck his waistcoat, and lodged against a coat, which was in the pocket, by which its course was stopped. The coat was completely beat up, and the escape of Mr. Lawrence may be certainly considered providential.

Numerous instances of courage were shown yesterday, especially by those who carried off the bodies of the fallen. One young man who went out to carry off the body of Mr. Hamitt, had a very narrow escape—several shots having been fired at him, two balls passed through the skin of his coat—one on each side of him.

Sheriff McMichael was unceasing in his efforts to put an end to the riots. The military were called out at four o'clock in the afternoon, and they were put in motion at seven o'clock. Had they arrived on the ground at four o'clock, the terrible destruction of life would have been prevented, and the conflagration would not have taken place.

On Wednesday, the disturbances were still continued, but without destruction of life, as late as 7 o'clock. Two churches were burnt, and some 20 or 30 houses. The city was thrown into consternation. The marines were out. Meetings were called to take more effectual measures for the preservation of peace.

ORDER RESTORED.—Thursday there was considerable excitement, but no outbreak. The Catholic Churches were guarded by the military. A report was in circulation that the Irish had taken possession of the U. S. Arsenal at Frankford, but it was without foundation.

Gov. Porter, with three companies from Harrisburg and Lancaster, arrived in the course of the day. The Governor issued his proclamation.

None of the wounded had died, even the Irishman, Taggart, that was shot and hung—will probably recover.

The whole number of lives lost is 9. Besides the names given above, there were two, Wm. Wright and George Schiffer, who were killed on Tuesday.

Thus has terminated the most disgraceful scene ever enacted in this country. The inefficiency of the public and the military department is manifest. One thing is evident, that the only way to quell a mob is by Martial law.

The bill of expense for property destroyed, which the city will have to pay, will be very large.
