Rally Whigs, Rally!

The Whigs of Monroe are called upon to assemble in County meeting, at the Court House in Stroudsburg, on Tuesday evening next, to respond to the nominations of CLAY, FRELINGHUSEN, and MARKLE, and to adopt such measures as may be deemed necessary to advance the interests of the Whig Party. It is highly desirable that there should be a large turn out of our friends on this occasion. The campaign is now fairly opened; our opponents are in the field; the election is drawing nigh, and it behooves us to be up and doing. We hope, therefore, that our friends will not be found wanting on Tuesday next, but come to the meeting in their strength, determined to do their utmost to secure the triumph of correct principles.

A number of excellent speakers are expected to be present and address the Meeting, among whom are Alexander E. Brown, Esq. of Easton, Presidential Elector for this District, and Charles Gibbons, Esq. of Philadelphia, President of the National Clay Club.

The Buckeye Blacksmith.

This remarkable personage, who is such an eye-sore to the Locos, and who made more stump-speeches in 1840, than any other man in the country, is now in Philadelphia, and addressed several meetings there during the past week. He has just reached the City from the South and South West, where he has been stumping it for Clay, with marked success, for several months past. His speeches are highly lauded by all the papers.

"The Nation is Rising."

It is not only spirit-stirring, but also soul-inspiring, to open our exchange papers, and see the numerous and glowing accounts of Whig meetings with which they are filled. There is hardly a nook or corner in our wide extended country, which is not lighted up with the Harrison fire of 1840, and in some places the flame burns even more brightly than it did then.... New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Ohio, and nearly all the Eastern, Western, and Southern States, are alive. The best speakers are out; and wherever they can do so, the Whigs are meeting their opponents on the stump. Every thing promises fair. The party is beginning to be thoroughly aroused, and that is all we want to secure a splendid victory.

Tyler and Annexation.

A domestic treaty was entered into on Wednesday morning last, between John Tyler, President of the United States, and Miss Julia Gardiner, of Long Island, New-York, which was ratified by the Right Reverend Bishop Onderdonk, of that State, in the church of the Ascension. The lady is about 25 years of age, and daughter of the late Col. Gardiner, who was killed by the explosion on board the Princeton in February last. The annexed couple have repaired to Washington, and will soon proceed to the Rip Raps, in Virginia, to pass the Honey Moon.

A Compliment to General Markle.

A fine Military Corps has been organized in Philadelphia, and in honor of the Hero of Mississippia, is called "The Markle Rifles." The company has already been inspected, is fully equipped, and promises to become one of the best among the City volunteers.

The Treasury Department.

This important department of our government, which has been without a head since April last, when Mr. Spencer resigned his Secretaryship, has been very unexpectedly filled, by Chancellor Bibb, of Kentucky, accepting his appointment, which was made and confirmed previous to the adjournment of Congress.

Louisiana.

The annual election for Members of the State Legislature, and also an election for four Congressmen, took place in this State on Monday last, the 1st inst. The news of the result, will be looked for with considerable anxiety, by both parties. Last year, the Locos elected all four of the Congressmen; but this year, unless the question of Annexation has hurt us, we shall look for better things. In consequence of this State adjoining Texas, and many of the Texas Bonds, and much Texas Land Scrip, being owned by her citizens, she may have been led astray by the cry of Annexation. Whether she has been or not, we will be able to announce next week.

He has Accepted.

Mr. Polk has formally accepted the nomination made by the Loco Foco National Convention, and has forwarded his acceptance to the Committee appointed to inform him of his nomination. He professes himself favorable to the One Term principle; but will be obliged to come down to the No Term one, as far as he and the Presidency are concerned.

Let it be Remembered.

That James K. Polk is opposed to the excellent Tariff Act of 1842, and to all Protection of American Industry. Also, that George M. Dallas, introduced a Bill into the Senate of the United States to re-charter the U. S. Bank, and voted to pass it by two-thirds, after Gen. Jackson had vetoed it.

Dorr Sentenced.

This notorious individual, who caused so much trouble and alarm in Rhode Island, two years ago; has been sentenced to confinement in the State Penitentiary, for the term of his natural life. An impressive lesson to all demagogues, to restrain their ambition within lawful limits.

On the Stump.

The Hon. Charles Naylor, of Philadelphia, who has abstained from a participation in all political meetings since 1840, has again taken the stump, and raised his eloquent voice in favour of the peoples candidates, CLAY, FRELINGHUSEN and MARKLE.

State Senate.

Twelve Senators are to be elected at the next general election, in place of the following gentlemen:

- Philadelphia city--Mr. Spackman, (Whig.) Schuylkill, &c.--Mr. Hughes, (Dem.) Susquehanna, &c.--Mr. Dimock, (dem.) Luzerne and Columbia--Mr. Kidder, (dem.) Perry and Cumberland--Mr. Gorgas, (dem.) Franklin and Adams--Mr. McLanahan, (dem.) Huntingdon and Bedford--Mr. Mullin, (Whig Clearfield District--Mr. Bigler, (dem.) Allegheny and Butler--Mr. Darste (whig) Beaver and Mercer--Mr. Stewart, (whig) Crawford and Venango--Mr. Farrelly, (whig) Those who hold over are-- Democrats--Messrs. Baily, Black, Champneys, Chapman, Ebaugh, Enue, Eyer, Fegely, Foulrod, Heckman, Hill, Horton, Sherwood, Sterigere, and Wilcox--15. Whigs--Messrs. Rabbit, Crab, Craig, Kline, Quay, and Sullivan--6.

Tables Turned.

The coarse and blasphemous language attributed to Henry Clay, (which have resounded through the columns of the Loco Foco prints) "Go home, God d---n you," &c.--was uttered by C. C. Clay, a Loco loco member of Congress, and not Henry Clay. Thus it is that these desperadoes procure all the blasphemy of their party and endeavor to cast it upon the head of the noble-minded. Shame! Shame!

SEE THEM COMING!

Get out of the way you're all unlucky, Clear the way for old Kentucky.

Stand Clear!--Here they Come!! 15 At a Haul!!

We lean from an authentic source this morning that FIFTEEN members of the old Van Buren party in this city, have openly proclaimed their purpose not to vote for free trade candidates. They go for Clay, Frelinghuysen and the Tariff--as all men will who understand and value their true interests. Brag and bluster is the game of the Polk and Dallas party throughout the country. It is the surest symptom of weakness.-- Newark Daily.

The Cry is Still they Come! MORE SCREWS LOOSE!

The Hagerstown Herald of Freedom says, that within the last few weeks several Democrats left the Loco Foco ranks and joined the Clay Club, among others Anthony Campbell, Esq.

AGAIN!

The Norristown Herald says that one of the Secretaries of the Loco Loco Convention, held at Harrisburg, which nominated H. A. Muhlenberg for Governor, has joined the Clay Club.

Another Haul!

On Friday last, says the Miners' Journal, the locofocos held a meeting at Schuylkill Haven, and on the Monday evening following four Germans, who had never voted any but a locofoco ticket, registered their names as members of the Schuylkill Haven Clay Club. They said they did not like the complexion of the meeting, and besides they had had a surfeit of locofocoism. They will hereafter advocate a Protective Tariff, and all other measures of the Whig party.

THOMAS LORING, Esq., for many years the Editor of the "North-Carolina Standard," then, and now, the mouth-piece of the Loco Foco party in that State, disgusted with the double-dealing and hypocritical professions of his party, gives notice, in the last number of his "Independent," that he will, next week, run up the CLAY and FRELINGHUSEN flag. It would give us pleasure to publish the whole article announcing this change of views, but must content ourselves with the following pregnant paragraph:

"The Democratic Convention recently held at Baltimore, has developed incidents and characters that demand the attention and scrutiny of every friend of freedom. Here we beheld Bank and anti-Bank men; Unionists and Disunionists; Repudiationists and anti-Repudiationists; Tariffites and anti-Tariffites--met together in a spirit of mutual malignity; and after rejecting from their support every man of mind and merit, we see them affect to harmonize upon 'a man of straw,' and audaciously hold him up to the American People as a proper candidate for the Chief Magistracy of this great and glorious Union. Is this the Democratic Party? Is this the freedom of the Public Will? Are the People to submit to this daring and reckless despotism of selfish politicians and ambitious demagogues? For one, we say--No! We will neither submit nor be cravenly silent. And while we tender our heart-felt thanks and express our warmest regards to the many pure and honest men of the democratic party with whom we have been associated, and from whom we have received many kindnesses, we utterly repudiate and denounce the course of the leaders who hold the destiny of the party under their control. From the triumph of this combination of selfishness, demagogism and disorganization, our country has nothing of good to hope, but every thing of evil to fear; and we believe that a consistent regard for the purity of republican principles, will be best promoted in the support of Whig Candidates for the prominent offices now about to become vacant.

"We shall, therefore, in our next number, place the names of GRAHAM, and CLAY, and FRELINGHUSEN, at the head of our editorial columns, and endeavor to show that the safety and prosperity of the country require their election."

Mr. MAGINNIS, the "Missouri Earthquake" as he was called a few weeks past, and who was one of the Senatorial Electors of Missouri in the Baltimore Convention, which defrauded Mr. Van Buren and nominated Mr. Polk, being disgusted with the palpable frauds practised to secure this result, has publicly declared that he cannot support it, and the party has tried to supply his place on the Electoral Ticket with the name of TUSTEN POLK, of St. Louis, but Mr. Polk also has declined. They are in as bad a fix for electors as they were for Vice Presidential candidates!

Wonder if the Missouri locofocos have found a man to serve on their Electoral ticket? They have failed twice; try it again, for "There's luck in odd numbers, says Rory O'More."

The Columbia Observer, published at the place where JAMES K. POLK resides, gives in its ratification to his nomination thus emphatically:

The Loco loco editors and orators, with rhetorical flourish, term Col. Polk "Tennessee's favorite son." This is fine, but rather hyperbolic to a people at whose hands he has been vainly seeking office for four years. Twice in succession has his suit been rejected, and if Tennessee does not forget her vicissitudes, he will be so boldly discarded in November that he will think of nothing but his farm in Mississippi, where the atmosphere is more congenial--the repudiated among repudiationists.

Col. Polk.

The following is an extract from a letter of Gen. Romulus M. Saunders, published in the Charlotte Jeffersonian:--

"Such a candidate I am happy to say, has been found in James K. Polk a North Carolinian in principle, and by birth, the son of glorious old Mecklenburg of Revolutionary fame. In voting for such a man, the descendant of Col. Thomas Polk, one of those bold patriots who signed the first Declaration of American Independence at Charlotte, Mecklenburg county, N. C., the 20th of May, 1775, I felt I was discharging a proud duty in behalf of the Freemen of the second Congressional District, as well as those of the first District, who will rally to the standard of their country, as did their forefathers at the battle of King's Mountain."

Certainly this is about as bold a piece of folly as even Gen. Saunders was ever guilty of. To talk of King's Mountain and Col. Thomas Polk in praise of the descendant of a TORY who opposed the patriots of 1775, is too much.

The Charlotte Journal fully confirms our information as to the Toryism of Ezekiel Polk, (the grandfather, not the father, of J. K. Polk.) That paper says:--

"We in Mecklenburg are justly proud of the name and services of the Polk family, but to our mortification it is recorded that the ancestors of the Loco Foco candidate are not included in the number. We would not willingly disinter events which have long since passed away--unless driven to do so by the course of our adversaries. We say, however, that though it is true that Mr. Polk is a son of old Mecklenburg, that he descended from a recreant branch of a noble stock, and that if it is desired, we will furnish from living witnesses the proof of the assertion. Thomas Polk was a devoted patriot--the father of the Mecklenburg Declaration--but on that instrument the name of his brother Ezekiel, the grandfather of the Loco Foco nominee, does not appear, and with that circumstance is connected a melancholy and disgraceful history. If the Loco Foco party desire it we will pursue the subject farther."--Oxford (N. C.) Mercury.

An Honest Loco Foco.

The Stockbridge, (Mass.) Visitor, a decided Loco Foco paper, raises the flag of "Polk and Dallas," and in the course of an article upon the "cause and means of sustaining it," has the following very sensible remarks:

"Every party has the misfortune to have attached to it a certain class of politicians, who at the commencement of a campaign, con over the vocabulary of abuse--carefully select every vile epithet, that they may apply them to the opposing candidates. None are more lavish of abuse than those who are apostates to the very party upon whose nominees the filth is thrown. Our party is blessed with no small number of this kind of politicians.

Now that the Presidential campaign is commenced, one can scarcely go amiss of the exhibitions of this class of politicians. We see in one place, paraded some "naughty" thing said of Henry Clay in the heat of passion. In another place he is styled "a demagogue;" in another still, "a rake and debauchee." One cries out a "gambler and horse-racer"--a second, a "rascal"--a third, a "Sabbath-breaker"--a fourth, a "profane swearer"--a fifth, a "slaveholder"--a sixth, a "duellist," and so on, until the whole vocabulary is exhausted; and these epithets in five cases out of seven are applied by persons guilty of the acts of which they accuse others; and who have heretofore been most lavish of praise of the man whom they now imagine they most unmercifully abuse.

Henry Clay is a gallant fellow. He is a whole-souled--whole-hearted man. A man who never betrayed a friend or flinched from a foe. He is a Whig every inch of him. He is just such an opponent as we like. We always know exactly where to find him. About him there is no dodging. He is a Whig to the backbone. He is one of those men who will never consent to fight under false colours--one of those men whom if we defeat there is some honor in defeating him, and if our candidate is defeated, he is defeated by an honorable opponent."

The New Jersey Convention.

The Convention now sitting in Trenton to revise the constitution of New Jersey, have agreed upon the following:--The Governor to be chosen by the people for three years. The Legislature to consist of a Senate, electing one member from each county for three years--one third each year; the House of members according to population every year. The Judiciary to consist of a Supreme and County Courts, chosen by the Legislature in joint meeting, for a limited number of years; Justices of the Peace to be elected by the people; Chancellor and Surrogate General by the joint meeting. Executive officers generally are to be chosen by the joint meeting; the Attorney General, Prosecutors, Secretary of State, and Clerks of the Supreme Court and Courts of Chancery, to be appointed by the Governor, with the approval of the Senate. The Legislature is to have $3 per day for forty days; after that $1 50. It can contract no debt for a longer term than thirty-five years. The Constitution will soon be submitted to a ratification by the people.

The Hon. J. H. Peyton states in Fridays Intelligencer, in answer to the Card of the 19 Loco loco members from N. Y., that it was the Hon. Richard D. Davis who said in the most public manner "that the Democratic nomination at Baltimore ought to meet with no respect from the country, and that James K. Polk could not get one Electoral College, unless it was that of South Carolina, and that would depend upon the caprice of John C. Calhoun."

Thomas H. Benton.

We cannot repress the admiration we feel for the recent bearing of Col. Benton. The Carolina Disunionists have undermined and beaten him with their new Texas conspiracy--they have worsted him in the Presidential contest and probably cut him off from the succession--they have obtained the lead of the party which they have only belonged to some six or seven years, while he has been its Ajax in the Senate since 1827--they have probably destroyed but they cannot conquer nor cower him.-- He looks them as sternly in the eye as ever, and is prepared to do battle with them at any notice, no matter at what odds. His rejoinder to McDuffie on Saturday night is represented by those who heard it as most withering. He laid bare the secrets of private speculation and political treachery which have given life to the cry of Immediate Annexation; he showed that the men who fomented this plot were impelled by the most sordid motives, and bent on gratifying their ambition even at the cost of destroying the Union. He told them on closing that they need not exult too confidently in their ill-gotten victory, for he should meet them at Philadelphia--that he should oppose their intrigues with voice and pen, and if need be with sword in hand, and die defending the Union.

A murmur of applause ran through the galleries which could not be restrained. General Clinch of Ga., who happened to be in the Senate, could not resist the impulse to go up to the dauntless Senator, and grasping his hand, told him that he should stand proudly by his side in defence of the Union.

Mr. Benton turned to JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, who had taken a seat behind him to listen to this debate, and taking his hand said, "Mr. Adams, you are passing off the stage, and I am passing away also; but while we live we will stand by the Union!"

The Nation responds to this sentiment. There is a good deal of bluster, at Washington and at St. Louis, about turning Mr. Benton out of the party; but the Disunionists will consult the better part of valor. They would cut an interesting figure in the Senate, after reading out of the party THOMAS H. BENTON and SILAS WRIGHT for resisting their Texas iniquity.-- Tribune, June 20th.

The Closing Scene.

BEST STUMP SPEECH OF THE SEASON.--After the adjournment of the Loco loco meeting on Friday evening last, some one, who is an ardent friend of the party, and we believe a representative from Pemberton, feeling indignant that the name of George M. Dallas had been passed over in silence, and his claims for support not urged, mounted the rostrum, and commenced at the top of his voice: "Feller Citizens--all eyes were directed thither, and he continued--"I don't like this ere proceeding to-night--the Dimekratic party have took up a man for Vice President, and nobody says nothin' about it--he ain't been mentioned to-night--and I want to say somethin' about him--(Loud cries of go on, go on.) I've particularly acquainted with him, and I know him to be the right kind of a feller. I know'd him ever since he wore petticoats, (great cheering) as an officer of the Bar and the Court of Pennsylvania, and he's one of the fust rate a men. Nobody can't bring any remonstrance against him. This ere Polk, gentlemen, I want you to understand, is a man wot is represented to me as a man wot I don't know. But you've heard him largely spaciated on to-night, and I guess I needn't say anything about him. If he is wot they say, why he is entirely fit for the office wot he's sot up for, providin he don't git knocked down. Gentlemen, these ere are all wot I have to say"--and he retired amid the most unbounded applause.--Mount Holly (N. J.) Mirror.

Catch the Thief!--More Stealing!

The Cincinnati Enquirer, a Polko Phoko paper, recommends the formation of "Hickory Clubs." Whereupon the Pittsburg American says: "Cannot Polk stand by himself, that this call is made for stealing the hickory poles and whips and wattles by which the party was whipped into ranks like slaves, some ten or twelve years ago. Though not honest, it may be emblematic enough--the hickory being universally used throughout Tennessee for chastising slaves. WE HAVE OURSELVES SEEN POLK HIRED OUT SLAVES HAVING IT ADMINISTERED NOT SMALL."

The Loco loco papers are stating with high glee that Hon. LOUIS McLANE of Delaware has come out for Polk and Dallas. The joke of it is, Mr. McLane, who was Secretary of State under General Jackson, has always belonged to the Loco loco party.

Polk's Patriotism.

The Editor of the Jonesboro, (Tenn.) Whig says the locos must not talk of Polk's services on the field of Battle, or he will point them to the day on which the valiant Colonel fled from Rutherford county to Maury, when a young man, to avoid being drafted and called out in the service of his country!

Renouncing Locofocoism.

Hon. Ross Wilkins, U. S. District Judge for Michigan, and long an eminent and efficient Van Buren man, has abandoned his party on the Texas question and gone over to political Abolition. We hear of other changes like this.

DIED.

At Hope, N. J. on the 21st June, Mr. WILLIAM J. DANLEY, in the 22d year of his age.

JOB WORK Neatly executed at this Office.
