

where they were now driven, and put the whole to the sword.

The heaviest artillery had been brought to bear upon them, and little doubt could be entertained that the insurrection could be put down. The hope thus held out of the termination of the insurrection was not however realized. The fighting continued the whole of the Sunday with a fearful loss of life, especially to the National Guards. On Monday the reinforcements Gen. Lamoriciere had received from Caen, enabled him to hem in the insurgents in the Eastern part of the city, and although reduced to extremities they still fought with incredible valor.

It was thought on Monday morning early, that they would surrender, but again in the hopes they held out, of the termination of the insurrection, we not immediately realized.

At half past 10 o'clock the fighting was resumed and it was only after a frightful struggle of about two more hours that the Government troops, everywhere prevailed, and the part of the insurrection being broken; the insurgents were either shot, taken prisoners, or fled into the country in the direction of Vincennes.

The eastern quarters comprising the faubourg St. Anne, du Temple, Moulins, and Peperingot were the last subdued. The last hand to hand struggle in the celebrated cemetery of Pere LaChaise, but the Garde Mobile hunted them out from this sanctuary, and they were slaughtered in the neighboring fields.

On Tuesday the insurrection was definitely quelled. The loss of life has been terrific—no fewer than thirteen general officers had been hors de combat; a greater loss than in the most splendid engagements of Napoleon. Among those who fell are: Gens. Megrier, Desart and Bra; Gen. Charolnel and Renault and others, everly wounded.

Four or five members of the National Assembly were among the killed, and as many more wounded, but the most touching death is that of the Archbishop of Paris. The venerable Prelate Sunday volunteered to go to the insurrection as a Messenger of Peace. Gen. Cavaignac said that such a step was full of danger, but the Christian Pastor persisted. He advanced towards his two Vicars towards the barricades, with an olive branch borne before him, when he was ruthlessly shot in his groin and fell mortally wounded. The venerable parent was ordered by the insurgents to the nearest hospital in St. Antoine, where he received the last sacraments, languished and has since died.

The Duke de la Perre Duchesne, M. Laroche was hit in the head at the barricade Rocheport, here in the dress of an owner he was fighting at the head of a party of insurgents.

It is difficult to ascertain, from the telegraphic reports, who were the chief movers in the revolt. But there have been, evidently, men of forcible sagacity at the head of it.

It is probably never correctly ascertained, what extent the sacrifice of human life in this frightful struggle has reached—Some more than the loss on the side of the troops at from 30,000 to 10,000 slain, but we hope this is exaggerated. The number of prisoners captured in the insurgents exceeds 5,000, all the prisoners filled as well as the dungeons and vaults of the Tuilleries, the Louvre, Palais Royal, the chamber of Deputies, and the Hotel de Ville. A military commission has already been appointed to try such as were found with arms in their hands, and they will probably be transported to the Marquesas Islands, or some trans-Atlantic French colony.

A decree has been proposed with that object. We have not space to recount many acts of individual heroism. Many soldiers exhibited sublime courage. On the other hand the savage cruelty with which the insurgents waged war almost exceeds belief. They tortured some of their own prisoners, cut off their hands and feet and inflicted barbarous tortures worthy of savages. The women were hired to poison the wine sold to the soldiers, who drank it, reeled and died. It seems to be believed generally that if the insurgents had succeeded in following up their most admirably concerted plan of operations, and having advanced their line and possessed themselves of the Hotel de Ville, and followed up their success along the banks of the river, that the whole city would have been given up to pillage. Indeed the words pillage and rape are said to have been inscribed on one of their banners. Not less than 30,000 stand of arms have been seized and captured in the Faubourg St. Antoine alone.

Strange and terrible overflow of the strongest passion and emotion of human nature. So vast and horrible a desolation wrought in the heart of a city by the hands of her own citizens, the world has not witnessed in the whole survey of historic memory, and the arms of a stranger and an enemy would have been devoted eternal infamy if they had inflicted so awful chastisement on the great city of Paris. Not even herself could punish her iniquities or avenge her wrongs.

Important Decision.

The Law Journal for July contains an eloquent opinion by Judge Lewis, delivered at the June Term of Common Pleas Court at Lancaster, on a case where a certain man devised to his widow his property, "provided she remain a widow during her life; but in case she should marry again, my will is she shall leave the premises, &c." The widow having married again, it was brought by other heirs of the husband to recover the property. Judge Lewis decided that "the condition in restraint of marriage is void, and the second marriage of the widow does not divest her estate"—"the principle of morality...the policy of the nation...the doctrines of the common law...the law of nature and the law of God, unite in condemning as void the condition attempted to be imposed by the testator upon his widow."

Gen. Scott, Pillow and Worth.
Washington, July 17, 1848.

The charges preferred by General Pillow against General Scott have been withdrawn. The Court of Inquiry, to examine the charges preferred by General Scott against General Worth, will meet on the 1st of August.

Chester County Bank.

During the past few weeks a number of notes of the old issue of this Bank have been paid into the county Treasury, at Lancaster, Pa., by collectors who reside in the Gap, Manheim township, and other notes have been passed in various parts of the county, which may result in the detection of the rogues who committed the robbery. The two men arrested a few weeks since in Bedford county, on suspicion, will be prosecuted by Attorney General Champneys, and it is probable that developments will then take place to trace the money to Philadelphia in the hands of the "smasher" who holds it. The Bank has been offered a return of the money at 25 per cent. on the dollar, which would yield about $13,000, but refused to assent to such arrangement at present. We have some important information that will aid in recovering the lost treasure, and shall send it to the proper authorities.

MARRIED.

On the 15th inst, by the Rev. Wm. Scribner, Mr. Enoch Werkheiser, of Bartonville, Monroe Co. Pa., and Miss Sally Sumner, of Stroud township.

ERISYPELAS is only one among many of the numerous ailments which originate in impurities of the blood; and experience has shown that few, if any, are more difficult to overcome. But the Clickener Sugar Coated Vegetable Pills have grappled successfully with it in every form. Mrs. Jones, of Albany, now upwards of 50 years of age, had been subject to periodical returns of this complaint from her earliest infancy; and latterly, had been so violently affected, as to furnish indications of deranged intellect. Recourse was had, as formerly, to the family Physician; but his prescriptions only deepened the affection inward, as usual, preparatory to breaking out with renewed violence. The Doctor finally recommended a box of Lees' Pills; but through some mistake of the Apothecary's Clerk, a box of Clickener's Sugar Coated Purgative Pills was sent in their stead. Having little faith in Pills of any description, and being rather superstitious withal, they concluded that Providence had a hand in the substitution, and after all, it might turn out for the best. They accordingly made use of them. The result of a very few doses, left no cause to regret their superstitious notions. The patient rapidly recovered, and has had no attack of Erysipelas since. The Doctor was highly delighted at the supposed success of his prescription; but was so completely astonished, when he discovered his error, that he resolved from that time forward, to prescribe nothing else in case of Erysipelas, but Clickener's Sugar Coated Vegetable Pills.

SUMMER WEATHER—It should be remembered that during the intense heat of summer, the process of digestion is performed with such extreme languor, that the food, instead of being dissolved and converted into nutriment, becomes spoiled, or putrid in the stomach. Hence bad breath, disagreeable taste in the mouth, colic pains, dysentery, cholera morbus and other disorders of the intestines.

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills are a certain cure for the above dangerous complaints; because they cleanse the alimentary canal of those bilious and putrid humors, which are the cause, not only of all disorders of the bowels, but of every melaoid incident to man.

Beware of Sugar Coated Counterfeits.—Remember, that the original and only genuine Indian Vegetable Pills have the written signature of WILLIAM WRIGHT on the top label of each box.

For sale by George H. Miller, who is the only authorized agent for Stroudsburg; see advertisement for other agencies in another column.
