

The News by the Acadia.

The steamer Acadia has arrived at Boston, with European intelligence seven days later. It seems that the steamship "United States" left Cowes for New York, on the 3d inst., with eighty passengers and a large cargo, proceeded as far as the Scilly Islands, when an accident to her machinery occurred, and she put back to Southampton. The steamship "Hermann" ran aground in a fog on the 4th inst., off the Isle of Wight, but was gotten off some hours after, and without damage. Ireland was tranquil. Queen Victoria was on a visit to Scotland. France was tranquil, with the exception of some local disturbances in the Provinces. The Bonapartists are making an effort in favor of the election of Louis Bonaparte to the Presidency. The French Republic has been recognized by the Ottoman Government. The Austrians having attempted to make a forced levy on the city of Harina, the citizens rose, and a fearful battle was the consequence. The result had not been ascertained. The Duchies of Slawig and Holstein had refused to acknowledge the armistice concluded with Prussia, in the name of the German Confederation. The mediation of France and England for the Italian question, had been accepted by Austria. Ledru Rollin was about to start a new journal. Four thousand French troops were reported to have arrived at Venice. Italy was in a very disturbed state. The weather continued fine in Great Britain, and prices in grain had declined. In flour, the fall was nearly as great as the advance had been. The manufacturing districts were active. Money was abundant, at 2 1/2 to 3 per cent, on the best bills. Consols 86 1/4 for account. The demand for cotton goods, both for consumers and exporters.

The Dysentery.—This disease has been more prevalent and fatal the present season than any within our remembrance. Scarcely any section of country has escaped its ravages. Children, particularly, have been the objects of attack.

Tasty Work.—In the Maryland Penitentiary they have a German, who appears to be an artist of no mean skill in his profession, which is that of fresco painting. He got hold of some of the refuse dye used in the establishment, and has made his sleeping cell look like a different apartment. Seeing his taste and ability, he has been employed for some time in painting the cells, and he uses nothing but the refuse dye. He works without a pattern, and makes every cell different. This painting, cheery dyes, saves whitewashing. More than that, it is an agreeable relief to the prisoner's eye, which, instead of always resting on a naked wall, finds a variety in the painting. It is a pity the unfortunate man did not exercise his talents in an honest way, by following his business. He has genius, taste and skill, to make a respectable living anywhere.

A New Secret Order.—The editor of the Lyons Argus has a letter from a friend in Ohio stating "the Cass men are becoming so scarce in those parts, that they have resorted to 'secret signs' whereby they may distinguish each other."

In the United States 300 tons of beeswax are produced annually.

The Cholera.—Public attention begins to be attracted to the progress of this disease, and although there is no expectation that it will reach here this winter, yet preparations are making to render it less formidable than it was on the visitation of 1832. Aleppo, in Asia Minor, has always been remarkable for the ravages which that disease has made among its inhabitants. The premonitory symptoms appeared early in July; but it soon changed into Asiatic cholera, and raged violently, so much so that out of a population of 80,000, not less than 1,000 a day would die, until it assumed a mild type when it fell to 120. We must however, recollect this fact, that by the religion of the Mussulmen, no precaution is taken against it, and seldom remedies are applied when the patient is attacked. This arises from their principles and doctrines of fatalism, and as cholera is always certain in its results, if left to itself, no cures are effected. There were only three European physicians and only two Europeans died, and the fact was clearly apparent, that the poor, ill-fed, and those who lived in confined and filthy streets, were alone the sufferers. Hence we can take precaution in time to rob this disease of half its terrors, by keeping up a strict police vigilance, in the dirty and confined streets of our city, together with the free use of the Croton. Cleanliness, pure air, and liberal nourishing food, are great obstacles to the spread of the cholera. —New York Star.

Keen Retort.—Atterbury, bishop of Rochester, alluding to a bill brought into the house of lords, said, "he had prophesied that the bill would be attempted in the present session, and he was sorry to find that he had proved a true prophet." Lord Coningsby desired the house to remark that one of the right reverends had set himself up as a prophet; but for this part he did not know what prophet to liken him to unless to that famous prophet, Balaam, who was rebuked by his own ass. The bishop replied, "Since the noble lord has discovered in our manners such a similitude, I am well content to be compared to the prophet Balaam; but, my lords, I am at a loss how to make out the other part of the parallel. I am sure I have been rebuked by nobody but his lordship." A burst of laughter followed this castigation.

ERUPTIONS OF THE SKIN.—It should be remembered, when the coarser particles of impurity are diverted from their proper channels and become deposited in the skin, that cutaneous eruptions are the certain consequences.
