GUNNING-The Waterville Mail states that Mr. Curtis of Bedford, (Mass.) has recently been on a hunting expedition along the lakes and in the forests of Maine, and in company with two Indians, whom he hired, took forty-nine deer, three moose, three bears, and about two hundred patridges. The entire weight was 5,200 pounds. This is the result of four week's hunting. This game was transported to Waterville, and thence conveyed over the railroad to Ipswich. to Mr Curtis' home, where he will thaw and dress it nicely for the market.

Murder and Snicide.

The Hollidaysburg Register of the 19th, brings us the particulars of a distressing case of murder and suicide which occurred in Logan township, Blair county, on Sunday, the 16th inst. It appears that George Peight, the father of a large family, but who had latterly been somewhat unwell, on One of his sons who was residing with a neighbor, came in with a cake in his pocket which he had brought along, and kindly gave it to his father, who took it, broke it, and ate it, and then arose ing to the kitchen. Between the room and kitch- ing. there is a short hall, or passage; in this passage stood a double bitted axe. This he took up and ed against the bill divorcing Absalom Webber passed on to the kitchen, where his daughter, a favorite child, aged about 17, was engaged in washing dishes. Intent upon her work, he doubtless approached with the fearful weapon and aimed the fatal blow ere she dreamed of harm .-Her head was clave assunder, and she fell with- jectment, out a cry or groan. The family in the room heard the dish-pan fall, but thought of no farther mishap. On looking out, however, they saw the poor victim weltering in her blood; but still none thought by whose hand the deed was done. The alarm of course was immediately given; and upon enquiry it appeared that the father had been seen running across a field. He was followed, and his lifeless body was soon found in the fore-bay ticed in the Senate reports. of Mr. Haggerty's saw-mill, into which he had doubtless plunged himself. It appears that he must have struck several blows with the axe.

There was one family, the father of which, after giving in the names of nine children, being interrogated whether there was any more, replied-'Yes, there are four or five more,' but he being unable to call over their names, was obliged to send for their mother, by whose assistance the catalogue was completed. Another being asked what State he was born in, replied that his father had moved round so much when he was a baby, that he was unable to answer correctly.

Gambling.

A taste for Gambling is easily excited, but, when fairly aroused, is too strong to be readily allayed. Nor is it alone in dram shops and raffling houses, that this accursed passion is first stimulated to action. The following facts, given by a correspondent of the Western Recorder, show that customs and practices have been introduced | Farewell Address of Gen. George Washington, to within the vestibule of the Christian church, which | the people of the United States. are directly calculated to inspire the novice with a taste for games of hazard :

A father, in time of a revival, called on a minister to converse with his son, who had formerly a habit of gambling, and for whose spiritual interest they were under much concern. The pastor did so, and was treated by the young man with much courtesy, and he had hopes he had secured his object, of convincing him of the injurious course he an alleged fugitive slave, the wife of a man named was pursuing, and that a reformation would be the result. When about to leave, the young man requested to be heard a moment, and addressed the pastor as follows:--'Three years ago, the Hat lotterry. After much persuasion on the part of company with several other colored persons. a young female friend, I consented against my inclination to purchase two tickets. The prize fell to me, and I was so elated with my good success, that I embraced the first opportunity of gambling on a larger scale, and since then have lost hundreds of dollars. But for that lottery, under the patronage of a Christian Church, I never should have become a gambler.'

Among the phenomena of the day we have one not less surprising than any that has fallen under the notice of Naturalists. A friend has sent to our office a couple of singing Mice, which, strange to relate, possessess such vocal power as to imitate from a distance, like a species of ventriloquism .--An eminet naturalist of this city has seen this phenomenon, and regards it as one of the most extraordinary recorded in natural history .- Charleston News.

By the arrival of the Steam Ship Baltic, at New York, we are placed in possession of one week's later intelligence from Europe. Every thing remained quiet as at last advices. Queen Victoria opened the session of Parliament on the 4th in a neat speech. She spoke of the tranquil state of Europe, of the Popish excitement, and of the difficulties under which the agriculturist's were laboring. On the 6th, Lord John Russel brought forward his plan for the suppression of the Papal

That any act done by them in their offictal capacities should be null and void-that property so bequeated should at once pass to the crown-and that all Catholic functionaries should be prohibited from assuming titles derived not only from the Anglican diocese, but from any district or place in the United Kingdom." (Cheers.)

This proposition met with opposition from all quarters. Some thinking it did not go far enough, be expected; he would solicit a continuance and others treating the dangers from papal aggression as imaginary. It is admitted by the official report of a political opponent; and it writes falshood upon the penny-a-liner who would detract from the merit due to the Whig Executive .-It should be cause of rejoicing to the honest men of all parties that at last our oppressed and tax ridden sons have a day in prospect, when the tax on their farms shall not be equal to a reasonable rent; and it is gratifying to know that the truth is so apparent, that it forces an admission from our adversaries.
