MAINE .- Gov. Hubbard has ordered a special election for Congress in the Lincoln District, to fill the seat of Hon. Charles Andrews, deceased. The election takes place on the 7th of June.

Something new and important, if True.

We extract the following from a letter from Baltimore to the Washington Tele-

A young man named Force has been residing in this city and partly in Washington for some months past. He is originally from St. Louis, but more recently from Texas. I learn, upon what may be deemed good authority, that he is about to become distinguished as a mechanical genius. He is said to have invented and patented a new motive power, which bids fair to superscede both steam and water. It is stated that a model of the machine is already in existence, and that it has been patented with an injunction of secresy for a certain time. So cautious has he been to avoid infringement, that he had one part of the machinery, necessary for the completion of the engine, made in New Orleans, another part in Baltimore, another in Philadelphia, and another in New York. The separate parts thus constructed were, in due time, collected in Baltimore, and put together by the inventor himself in a room into which no person has been permitted to enter.

It is asserted that the machine worked to the full satisfaction, and beyond the expectations of those most deeply interested in it. I have had an introduction to, and some conversation with, the inventor .-The only idea I could glean in regard to his invention was, that it brought the atmosphere into use as a powerful motiveagent, amounting almost to independent self action. It is asserted-and the truth of the assertion, of course, will be established or falsified when the invention is made public-that this new momentum can be so increased as to propel the largest ocean steamers, or brought down and suited to the delegate movement of a watch. Nothing will be found to bear the slightest comparison to it in point of utility and completeness as a motive power. I give you this statement as I have obtained it, upon what may be deemed good authority.

The inventor is quite a young man, with good common sense and much shrewd- Jacob Goetz, ness, though of moderate education. It is | Mark Miller, his purpose, I am further informed, to proceed to Europe, and obtain patents there; and that he does not design having the patent or principle of his invention made public here until time has been allowed to secure it from piracy in other countries. Some three or four distinguished gentlemen-men of wealth and influence-are pecuniarily interested with him in the patent. One or more of them design accompanying him to Europe. They set sail probably in June next, and perhaps a month or six weeks subsequent to their sailing the patent or model will be exhibited in the United States. I can only say, if the invention proves to be what is claimed for it, the world up to this age has never seen its equal. We shall await pa- Miller & Mackey, tiently the wonderful developement; and in due time award the distinguished author full credit.

Successful Bank Forgeries.

On Tuesday morning, a well-dressed man accosted a colored man upon Central wharf, inquiring if he wanted a job, saying that he wanted some one to clean out his store. The colored man engaged to do the work required, and started off with his employer to his place of business .-On the way the latter stopped near the Smith & Mixell, liquor Custom House, and asked the colored man if he could read and count figures; Joseph Hawk, liquor he replied he could not readily. The man then said that he wanted him to go to the bank and present a check, receive the money, and bring it back to him .- Samuel Bossard & co. He then handed him a check for $1,185 Edinger & Marsh on the Granite Bank, signed by Libbey Amos Kline, liquor & Co. The colored man did as request- George B. The forged checks were so well executed as to almost defy detection.-The one upon the Shoe and Leather Dealers' Bank, was for $1,480, and purported to be signed by John G. Gove. The tearing off was similar to the checks of Mr. Gove, the filling up the same, and the number correct. The forgeries were
