

not induce the friends of this Tariff even to assign a reason. We tried it in Congress, in the shape of a perfectly respectable call on the Secretary of the Treasury (Walker) for information, and were voted down—on one trial by a tie vote. The friends of the Secretary and his tariff vaunted their ability and readiness to meet the inquiry out of the House; but we have never yet been able to induce them to do so, though we have repeatedly tried. Is it no time that so extraordinary a feature of public policy, which its friends dare not even attempt to justify, should be abandoned or overborne?

5. Because the tendency of our present policy is toward a Centralization of wealth, activity and power upon the eastern shore of the Atlantic. London is becoming more and more the actual metropolis of this country; and its commercial barometer regulates and determines the value of Property and Labor in America. The United States are returning, by gradual approaches, to an essential Colonial position. We receive our fashions and our gew gaws from Paris; our more substantial fabrics are woven in British looms; and we steal our ideas mainly from British authors through the denial of International Copyright. The manufacturer in the centre of the commercial world—which Western Europe, but pre-eminently England, now is—enjoys an advantage over any outsider which can scarcely be withstood. We may be able to manufacture even cheaper than our British rivals, but the clues are in their hands, and while our producer is trying to make his goods known, his British rival has sold thousands of pieces, reimbursed the cost of getting up, and is now able to sell to future customers at a reduction. Our inventors are more capable, original and ingenious than any rivals; but invention is mainly stimulated by the presence of an obvious necessity or advantage, and no carpet-loom, no printing-press is likely to be invented where, printing and Carpet weaving are unknown. If an American now invents anything of decided value, he rushes to England to secure the due reward of his ingenuity. And thus, with a force, akin to gravitation, every new improvement or discovery tends to increase the centralizing tendency and render the dependence of America on Europe more entire and pervading.

6. Because this Centralization is adverse to the interest of Labor throughout the world. The artisan in England and the farmer of Iowa must each receive a smaller return for his produce so long as they exchange with so wide a space between them, than he would receive if the artisan were located and his fabric produced within a day's ride of the farm from which his subsistence is drawn. The barrel of flour for which the wheat-grower in Iowa receives but two or three dollars has cost six by the time it is dealt out to the artisans of Sheffield, though it has paid no duties on the way. And the farmer who grew that wheat could have grown something else which would have paid three as well had the producers of his fabrics been located near his farm.—For every dollar that Commerce gains by these far off exchanges, Labor must lose ten in the cost needless transportation. Efficient and wise adjusted Protection, by drawing adequate markets near and nearer the farmer would save millions now virtually thrown into the sea. It would do this by diverting labor from unproductive to productive employments, and so increasing the aggregate of production and of material comfort throughout the world.

—Such are some of the reasons why we cannot acquiesce in the present Tariff, and why we believe the Country ought to and ultimately must be aroused to change it. If we could only present this question distinctly and fairly—if we could but obtain an unprejudiced vote upon it, freed from the sorceries of party and the malign influence exerted by the abused terms "Democrat" and "Democratic"—we should feel certain of an immediate and overwhelming triumph. As things are we labor and bide our time.—N. Y. Tribune.

Pickled Human Heads.
We have read with much interest a letter in the Boston Advertiser, written by an American officer, dated at Buenos Ayres, Feb. 18th, detailing many particulars in regard to the great battle between Gen. Rosas and Gen. Arzuza. It is known that the former was defeated, took refuge on an English steamer, and is now safe in England.
After the battle, a detachment of troops under Urquiza proceeded to the "Quinta," Rosas' country residence, where they had evidences of the tiger-like ferocity of this demon in human shape. The discovery was made, which even produced excitement there, of several barrels of pickled human heads! They were carefully put each in a cask, 15 or 20, by themselves. Two explanations are given of it—one is, that Rosas intended them to grace a triumphal entry into the city, and another that they were to be sent into the interior as scarecrows at the cross roads, as is the custom in Spain to this day. Either explanation is horrid enough, and does not place this piece of revolting inhumanity in any better light.

Small Note Law.—Evidence.—In the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia county, it has been decided that the prosecutor under the small note law is not a legal witness against the defendant, being interested to one half the amount of the penalty. The Judge held that the law having provided the action of debt as the form of remedy, it embraced the incidents of such action, in respect to the admission of evidence. This will prevent suits for the penalty, where no one is present at the passing of the notes except the person prosecuting.

Enormous Extravagance.
The appropriation bill passed by the Legislature, together with the $850,000 borrowed for the North Branch Canal, and Portage Railroad, amounts to FIVE MILLIONS ONE HUNDRED AND NINETY-TWO THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED AND THIRTY-THREE DOLLARS AND FORTY-FOUR CENTS! a larger amount than was ever expended in any one year before. What say you, tax payers of Old Berks, to such a state of things? Where is all this money to come from?—Berks Co. Press.
The money is to come from the pockets of the people, and go into the pockets of the office-holders, contractors and "brigands" who control our public improvements. What a very economical administration we have to be sure!

The Lebanon Courier speaks in this wise of the late murder at Columbia: "The sworn testimony before the Coroner shows the killing of the negro at Columbia by the slave catcher Ridgely, to have been a cold blooded and unprovoked murder. There was no attempt made to rescue the negro from Snyder and Ridgely, who had him in charge; but as he was making some ineffectual attempts to pull loose from his captors, Ridgely, against the protests of Snyder, pulled a pistol from his pocket, and coolly and deliberately shot the poor fellow through the neck, and he fell to the ground writhing in the agonies of death. To show that Ridgely lies when he states that a mob was attacking them, the testimony proves that no one interfered with them before or even after the negro was killed; but the murderer was permitted to take his undisturbed flight into the State where negro stealers seemed to be looked upon as heroes, worthy of special care and particular honors, and where, we presume, he will be allowed to remain to boast of his great prowess; for we do not believe that Gov. Bigler is free enough from the Slave power to make an effort to protect the State, whose honor has been placed under his keeping, from ruthless murders being committed on its soil. Before he makes any move he must obtain permission from Maryland, otherwise her representation in the Baltimore Convention might not go for James Buchanan. Pennsylvanians should blush with very shame that their State can be overrun with those who defy and violate her laws, and do not attempt to be made to bring them to justice. But such is locofoo "State pride." Let them enjoy the honors of it; and if it will elect James Buchanan, let them have their spoils as the reward of their treachery to the honor and laws of their State."

Whig National Convention.—A Springfield, Ill. correspondent of the Tribune says:—"In Illinois the Whig delegates are unanimous for Scott. In Iowa, the Whig delegation stands two for Scott and two for Fillmore. In Wisconsin, the Whig delegation stands four for Scott and one for Fillmore."
Green Peas and Strawberries made their appearance at Norfolk, on Thursday. The former were held at $1.50 per peck, the latter at 50 cents per quart.
The late earthquake was felt distinctly in Greene and Fayette counties, in Pennsylvania. Some of these shocks were so violent as to stop the motion of mantel clocks, produce an audible commotion among the cupboard dishes, and greatly to agitate houses and other buildings.

When the Russians desire to keep fish perfectly fresh, to be carried a long journey in a hot climate, they dip them into hot beeswax, which acts like an air-tight covering. In this way they are taken to Malta, even sweet in summer.
