District Attorney. A. M. CUNNINGHAM, Esq., of Butler borough.

Snow fell at Cleveland, Ohio, on Saturday night last, and a Butler yesterday.

Hon. HENRY D. FOSTER, of Greensburg, Westmoreland county, Pa., died on Saturday last, in the 73d year of his age. He was an eminent lawyer and a man who enjoyed the personal esteem and respect of all who knew him.

CHARLES A. SULLIVAN, Esq., of this place, returned home last Saturday from Indiana and Ohio, where he had been doing a good share in the great triumph the Republicans obtained in those States at their recent elections. He spoke in many of the principal places of each State at the request of the Chairmen of their State Committees, and always to large and enthusiastic crowds. His mission and main topic was the tariff question, and from all we can learn he succeeded in making very effective arguments to the Hoosiers and Buckeyes on that subject. Coming back he called upon Gen. Garfield, at Mentor, and spent a short time with him and his family, as his guest. His description of the General and his family, and of his whole trip, is very interesting. He returns as one of the warriors after a successful battle, bearing his full share of the laurels won.

We had prepared an article in reply to the extraordinary assumption of power claimed by the Hon. John Cassa to be lodged in the State Central Committee of this State, in regard to the local Republican nominations of people, but have concluded to defer its publication until after the election. He may rest assured however that his newly discovered powers, claimed for this State Committee, will never be recognized by the Republican people of the State. His doctrine is as anti-Republican as it would be dangerous in precedent, and he is the first Chairman of a State Committee who has ever put forth such doctrine. It was always supposed heretofore that all political power was lodged in the people, and that a State, or any other Committee, had no power regarding the nominations of our party, only what was given it by rule or consent. His claim to the contrary, now made for the first time, should be immediately repudiated.

MEETINGS LAST WEEK. The Republican meetings held last week are all reported as being very good and quite successful.

The meeting at Sunbury was addressed by S. H. Miller, Esq., candidate for Congress, and General Purviance.

That at Fairview by Mr. Miller, R. P. Scott, Esq., and Mr. S. W. Harley.

That at Byrom Centre by Mr. Miller.

That at Sandy Hill, Middlesex township, by J. D. McJunkin, A. G. Williams and S. F. Bower, Esq's.

That at Martinsburg by J. M. Thompson, G. W. Fleegeer, S. H. Miller, S. W. Harley, and A. L. Campbell, Esq's.

That at Millersport by S. H. Miller and Clarence Walker, Esq's.

That at Prospect on Saturday, by J. D. McJunkin and S. H. Miller in the day-time and Messrs. Bower and Thompson in the evening. This was one of the largest and finest meetings yet held in the county. The Prospect Republicans managed the affair well and fully provided all the attention and comforts they promised. Between two and three thousand people are supposed to have been present, and everything off pleasantly and well.

An account of the meetings to be held this week will be seen in another week place.

On Monday evening of this week there were several meetings held. The only one of which we have received an account was that in Clearfield township, being the first Republican meeting ever held in that township. It was addressed by J. T. Donley and J. F. Peffer, Esq's. Mr. Donley is said to have made a speech that may do some good in that quarter.

MASS Convention!!

At BUTLER, on FRIDAY, October 22nd, 1880.

LET THERE BE A FULL TURN OUT.

Let every Township and Town in the County be well represented.

This will likely be the only County gathering of the Republicans of Butler County this Campaign. Let it therefore be a rousing Mass Meeting. All arrangements possible will be made for the accommodation of all.

TWO POINTS TO REMEMBER. In the full flush of the October triumphs there are two points which must be constantly borne in mind. The result is glorious, but it is not the end. A victorious army rejoices over the past, but it turns at once to the future. Remember, then, these two things:

First, there must be no relaxation of Republican energy at a single point. The final victory is clearly within our grasp, but it is not yet won. The battle goes on, and we must fight with the same resolute, unconquerable spirit until the complete victory crowns our efforts. Our opponents will be disheartened; and yet if their watchful leaders detect a weak point in our lines, or find us through over-confidence abating any of our hard, determined work, they will take advantage of it. Nothing but too great a feeling of security can now defeat us. Henceforward Republicans can fight not merely with the inspiration of a great cause, but with the enthusiasm of assured victory, and let the battle be pressed along the whole line.

Second, it must not be forgotten that the Democrats have the final count in their hands. They hold both Houses of Congress. They see the victory they had confidently expected slipping from their grasp; they are desperate and there is no telling what they might do if they could discover a plausible color of excuse. If the Electoral College be closely divided they may undertake to reject a State and throw the choice into the House; or, if any Republican State have a narrow margin they may attempt to find some pretext for refusing to count its vote. There is one way to baffle all such schemes, and that is to make a majority so emphatic and decisive that even the most desperate partisans will not dare to dispute it.

All patriotic citizens are now interested in securing such a commanding and unchallenged result. The victory is ours; let it be made overwhelming. —Phila. Press.

THE SENATE MATTER.

Least some of our Republican friends may not have understood our views on the Senate trouble in this district, we desire to say that we have no personal animosity to the gentleman who claims he has received a good district nomination. Mr. Greer well knows that it is not a personal hostility to him. Four years ago when he was made the candidate, in a very peculiar manner, we supported him and urged our party friends to do so, as he knows. He was then nominated at a district conferee meeting of which he himself was a member. But it was as a compromise candidate, and was acquiesced in by the Republicans of Armstrong county. Should his present claimed nomination be again acquiesced in by Armstrong county we have nothing further to say. It is their matter more than ours, and what we have copied from their papers was in the interest of fair dealing with a sister county with which we are connected. But it is their fight and must now be settled by them. It was the manner of the proceeding at Pittsburgh that has made the common complaint and that has compelled many to declare that it was not regular or binding upon the party. It is charged by the Armstrong conferees that it was forced upon them, done over their heads and without their consent. But if they, or Mr. Meredith, their candidate, acquiesces in it, we can have no objection. We always support the declared nominee of the party. Others, who are now much interested in this Senate matter, refused not long since to support a regular nominee for Congress in this county, but defied the will of the majority as expressed at the primary election, and refused to raise upon the ticket the name of the county's twice declared choice. We, on the contrary, raised the name of Mr. Greer for the Senate and his name continues on the ticket as presented by this county. This we have done notwithstanding the manner of his nomination, and the strong suspicion that exists that if elected, his vote on the United States Senator question next winter will be for a ring candidate, and not for the choice of this county, Mr. Greer, or some other good Western man. And having done this, and now made known our position, we have done our duty, and leave the balance to the Republicans of the county.

A ROORBACK.

On Saturday last a malicious, malignant and lying address was started in circulation through the 26th Congressional district for the purpose of defeating the Republican candidate for Congress and aiding the election of Caldwell, the Democratic candidate. It is well known that Caldwell is very wealthy, and for the past two weeks certain parties have been negotiating with Democratic leaders in this and Crawford counties, offering for a valuable consideration, to do all in their power to defeat Miller. At last it was decided to issue an address purporting to come from Republicans and get as many persons to sign it as possible.

RESULTS IN OHIO AND INDIANA. The following results in Ohio and Indiana are fairly the subjects for a little crowing:

OHIO. Gives about 20,000 majority for her Republican State ticket. And has a gain of six members of Congress; Legislature and all else also Republican, and the State sure for Garfield on November 2nd.

INDIANA. Republican candidate for Governor elected by about 7000 MAJORITY. A majority of the Congressmen elected also are Republicans, making a change in the delegation of that State.

A majority of the Legislature also Republican, thus securing a Republican United States Senator in the place of the present Democratic one. The State is confidently claimed by the Republicans for Garfield on the 2nd day of November next.

MR. MILLER'S DENIAL.

In another place of this paper will be seen an article copied from the Mercer Dispatch of the 15th, inst., the principal organ of the Republicans of Mercer county. The article relates to certain charges that have recently been made against Samuel H. Miller, Esq., the Republican candidate for Congress in this district. These charges are made in the form of "An Address to the Honest voters of the 26th Congressional District of Pennsylvania," which address is now being circulated through the district. It is signed by three gentlemen of the town of Mercer who claim to be Republicans, Robert A. Stewart, J. G. Elliott and Johnson Pearson, Esq's. The charges attack the personal and political integrity of Mr. Miller. One of them is supported by an affidavit. They are not published in the Republican press of the district, and to any one not seeing their nature can only be gathered from the article we copy that answers and denies them. This answer and denial has the sanction of Mr. Miller, and many therefore be received as his own. It will be seen that he positively and emphatically denies all the charges made. And he claims that they are the work of his personal and political enemies. This throws the burden of proof upon the parties making the charges. Mr. Miller occupies an important relation to the Republican party at present. We all know the necessity for the election of all Republican candidates for Congress this year. If there is any trouble to come after this Presidential election it may come through and from the present Democratic Congress. The importance of securing a Republican majority in the next Congress cannot be over estimated, for more reasons than one. Mr. Miller has the ability to make an efficient and successful member for this district. Considering the importance of this office we therefore deem it a duty to say to all, not to be too hasty in believing the charges made. He is entitled to the full support of his party unless very satisfactory evidence is given to the contrary. For ourselves, we have been supporting him ever since his nomination was made, and intend to continue our support of him. We feel in honor bound to do so, as well as recognizing the importance politically of electing a Republican to Congress from this district.

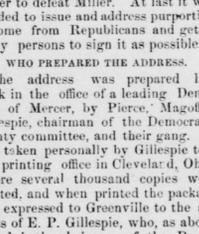

Some people cannot help being sneaks. They were born so, and all their associations since have only more fully developed this characteristic. Being sneaks they choose the night for their work, whether to rob a henroost, or to insult their neighbors, for a sneak is always a coward. The midnight sneaks who chalked the figures "329" on the pavements and doorsteps of Sharon on Wednesday night are no exceptions to this rule. They would do any contemptible devilry they could find—if they thought they would not be caught at it. Down south, where they could have plenty of company, they would be the very foremost of masked sneaks, whipping and otherwise maltreating defenceless negroes, because they voted the Republican ticket. Our Sharon sneaks, however, would confine their attention to the women and children; and only then when they greatly outnumbered the latter. As to its political effect, we hope they will keep up their dirty work until the day of election; it will be better than a torch-light procession to get out the full Republican vote in Sharon.—Sharon Herald.

by the Republicans of Mercer county.

All the facts were at the time fully stated in our columns, but in this connection we will give them again.

Mr. Miller and the two other delegates from Mercer county went to Harrisburg as Blaine men, and on the only two votes in the convention touching the Presidential question voted with the Blaine men. He and they voted for the amendment of Butler B. Stange, to strike out the name of Grant and insert the name of Blaine, and to instruct our delegates to Chicago to vote as a unit for Blaine for President. When this amendment was lost, and when the original motion was passed, Mr. Miller voted against instructing our delegates of vote for Grant.

A ye and nay vote was taken on each of these propositions, or questions, and the names of those voting ye and nay published in the Philadelphia Press and Times the following morning.

As before stated, this whole matter was subsequently passed on by the Republican county committee of this county and the action of the delegates approved by a vote of 48 to 3.

Such is a brief review of this address which was prepared, published and paid for by the Democracy of this district, and signed by three persons in Mercer county, who are put forward as a mask to cover the Democratic infamy. The fact that the signers of this address, who have heretofore professed to be Republicans, have placed themselves in the hands of the Democrats, makes their motives appear very questionable, and already we have heard it suggested that they have done what that great moral showman, P. T. Barnum, is said to do—allowed the use of their names for a consideration. But this we do not charge.

If this address was only to be circulated in Mercer county we would never have referred to it for in this county and town where Mr. Miller was raised and for the past ten years has followed his profession, a denial is not even necessary. In this county Mr. Miller is personally known to every Republican. For sixteen years he has been taking an active part in every canvass, and his voice has been heard in almost every school district in behalf of Republican principles. He has never held a nomination or opposed a nominee, but in every campaign he has gone before the people and urged them to stand by the ticket.

It is true that the Democracy, as a party, do not like him; and it is also true that these three gentlemen, who have acted as stool-pigeons for the Democratic leaders, are personally hostile to Mr. Miller. They have a personal, not a political, grudge against him.

We predict that this roorback will prove a boomerang to its projectors. Already Democrats are publicly announcing that if this is the kind of a campaign Pete Pierce & Co. intend to wage against Miller they will vote for him, and we assure our friends in the adjoining counties that Mercer county on November 2nd, will answer the slander and slanders alike by giving Sam Miller a larger majority than it ever gave any Republican.

EDITOR CITIZEN—A young detective on Friday last, October 1st, Anne a little over old daughter of L. E. Shannon, of this place, noticed a looper at the money drawer in her father's store where she was playing. When her father came in, who was absent but a few minutes, she told her simple story immediately and pointed out the thief among a number of other men. He was called to task, acknowledged the fact and paid back the money. This is not the first time this young man has been caught the same trick. It is hoped he will be informed on and brought to justice.

Clarion County's Railroads. When the excitement over the great oil strikes in Clarion county a few years ago was at its height, a railroad was built from the village of Emlenton, on the Allegheny Valley Railway, to Clarion, the county seat. Foxburg was a place that had been called into existence four miles further down the Allegheny River by the oil discoveries. The land on which it was built for miles about it belonged to the estate of a deceased iron manufacturer of Philadelphia named Fox. The great interests of this estate were managed by William L. Fox, a son of the deceased manufacturer. He was only 20 years of age. That Foxburg had been ignored by the projectors of the Emlenton road, and the young millionaire. He at once began the construction of a road from his town to Clarion. The roads were both of the three-foot gauge. Fox's railroad was compelled to climb a hill about 500 feet high to get a start out of Foxburg. This was done by a series of zigzags that carried the road over a distance of several miles, yet left it only a mile or so from Foxburg when the summit was reached. Both roads were finished. W. L. Fox was made President of the Foxburg road. The competition between them was so sharp that neither road made money. Finally the stockholders of the Emlenton road succumbed to the wealthy "boy President." He secured stock enough in the rival road to control it, and both roads passed under his management. He agreed to keep the Emlenton and Jefferson Station, where it joined the other road for Clarion.

Last winter President Fox died suddenly. A favorite conductor of his had been shot and killed by a passenger who had got off the train because he refused to pay fare. Mr. Fox took a leading part in prosecuting the assassin. It was in obtaining the pistol that the murder was committed with, and running nearly a mile to get on the train for Clarion, which was waiting for him, that President Fox so exhausted himself that he died in his seat in the car next the spot where the conductor was shot. After his death the vast interests of the Fox estate began to flag. There was no head to them. Among the changes that followed was the gradual decrease of business on the Emlenton railroad. The succeeding management of the railroad issued orders that all freight, for shipment to Clarion and intermediate points, from other roads, must be sent via Foxburg. This took all that business off the Emlenton branch. Then train after train was withdrawn from the branch, until only one a day was run for the accommodation of the Emlenton people.

Later a meeting of the directors was held in Emlenton. A report that their engineer was received that he had examined the trusses of the Emlenton branch. They are numerous and very high, and are built of hemlock timber. The engineer said that the timbers were greatly decayed, and jeopardized the lives of passengers and employees. A majority of the Board voted to abandon the Emlenton road. No trains have since been run on the road. The people of Emlenton, who are large owners of the stock of the Emlenton and Clarion Company, if this action of the managers is ratified at a meeting of the stockholders to be held this week, will ask for the appointment of a receiver. The defence of the managers for their action is that there is not business enough to run both roads.

Setting on Elections. The question is raised, by some, whether being interested in any bet upon election disqualifies such person from voting at such election. In the case of the Legislature to be found on page 561, Pardon's Digest, requiring Inspectors and Judges of elections to reject such votes. This act is very likely to mislead a person standing as it does in the digest.

The constitution fixes the qualification of voters. A right thus conferred is beyond legislative restriction. The act referred to is unconstitutional and therefore void. Being interested in a bet does not exclude a voter. It is an offence against law which can be prosecuted, but it will not deprive the person from voting.

The principles which govern this case may be found in the 59th vol. of the State reports, page 109. There was an act passed on June 4, 1867, disfranchising deserters, and in the case of McCurdy vs. Taylor et al., above referred to, it was decided unconstitutional.

We make reference to this subject in order to correct a misapprehension of the law as it appears in "Pardon." Without a full examination of the matter, the other day, shared in the error.—Greenville Progress.

The above we fear is not sound doctrine. The courts have not as yet declared that the act of Assembly referred to is unconstitutional, and until they do so any person betting on an election, or bring in any way interested in any bet or wager on the result of any election, and proven so before the board of election officers, it would be their duty to reject the vote of said person.

General Women. None receive so much benefit, and none are so profoundly grateful and show such an interest in the welfare of their fellow women, as the only remedy peculiarly adapted to the many ills of the sex is almost universally subject to. Chills and fever, indigestion or deranged liver, constipation or periodical sick headaches, weakness in the back or kidneys, pain in the chest and different parts of the body, a feeling of lassitude and despondency, are all readily removed by these Bitters.—Courier.

A Big Success. "My wife had been suffering a long time with dyspepsia and nervousness and was in bed two weeks with a complication of disorders her physicians could not cure, when I was led by reading a circular left at my door to try Parker's Ginger-Tonic. Having been so often deceived by worthless medicines, nothing but my wife's dangerous condition could have led us to make any more experiments. But it was a success. Three bottles cured her, at a cost of a dollar and fifty cents, and she is now as strong as any woman, and regularly does her household duties.—D. D. Balfour. See other columns.
