Election, Tuesday next, Nov. 2d.

"Give us Garfield and our Daily Bread," was the significant motto upon one of the Republican banners last Friday.

It was a stupid forgery—that Chineselaborer and General Garfield no time to brand it as such in very vigorous language.

PRIVATE DALZELL, we are informed, was in town last Saturday, coming to attend our Mass Convention, but by mistake coming a day too late.

THE epizootic, or horse disease, seems to be again working itself this way and horses hereabouts may not escape. It seems to be in a milder form than before, but owners of horses should prepare for it by giving their animals good care and avoiding exposure as much as possible.

THE Tuesday next following the first Monday of November, is the language of the new Constitution of this State when fixing the time for holding the general elections. The first Monday of November this year is the first day of the month, and hence the election next Tuesday is on the 2d day.

One of the congratulatory dispatches received by Gen. Garfield, the day after the Indiana and Ohio election, was from Petroleum V. Nasby and read as follows: "There is lots of agony and sorro all round the corners. Injeany and Barnum's mules kicked over the traces. There is no hope for a postoffice. Lord be merciful to us poor sinners."

In answer to a friend we would say that Messrs. Braham and Bell, our candidates for the Assembly, will both receive the united vote of the party next Tuesday. They are both good men and deserve the full, square vote of all Republicans, and so far as we know each will receive it. We advise the earnest support of both and hope for their election.

On our fourth page this week will be found an interesting "Church Item" from a friend, giving an account of the recent meeting of the Pittsburgh Synod of the English Lutheran Church at Worthington, Armstrong county, Pa. Those who know Mr. Peter Graff, the "venerable patriarch" of the church at Worthington, will bear testimony to all our correspondents says relative to his worth as a man and Christian.

Beware of apathy! It is more to be dreaded now than the Democratic party. The Cincinnati Gazette directs attention to the fact that in states where the test is made in October, the vote is apt to fall off in November. It adds, by way of warning as to Ohio in 1876:

Rep. Dem.
Secretary of state in October, 317,856 311,220
President in 1876 297,817 292,473

Falling off..... 20,039 18,947
The Republican vote fell off, it is seen, 1,092 more than the Democrats. The Republican majority for Secretary of State was 6,636, and for President 5,444. Had the Democrats known their power, as Tilden expressed it a few days since, they might have carried Ohio for President in 1876. These facts are suggestive.

20 ELECTORS.

There are twenty-nine names on the Electoral ticket. Let each Republican voter see that that number of names are on his Electoral ticket before voting it. And let him scan over the names and see that they are the same names as printed in our paper this week. We give this caution in order that there may be no fraud practiced in this county next Tuesday. Very little attention is generally paid to the names of the Electors. But they represent the Presidential candidates, and the omission of one name, or a spurious name inserted in the list of Electors, would be just that much of a loss to Garfield and Arthur. Greater care is perhaps required in this matter than any previous election. George W. Delameter is the name of the Republican Elector on the ticket for this district.

SEND RETURNS.

We will be obliged to friends for telegraphic election news of this county, on the night of the election, from all districts that they can thus send from. Our office will be kept open late to also hear from any other districts in the county with which there is no telegraphic communication.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

We demand that all custom house taxation shall be only for revenue.—Democratic Platform of 1876.

A tariff for revenue only.—Democratic Platform of 1880.

Duties should be adjusted to promote the interests of American labor and advance the prosperity of the whole country.—Republican Platform of 1876 and 1880.

If a candidate of the Democratic or Republican party has friends in the other party who desire to vote him they can scratch out and write in, or what is now more common, use what are termed the "stickers." There is no deception in that and it is the act of the voter himself. But to circulate a ticket of the opposite party with your name printed on it instead of that of your opponent, without giving information of the fact is as dishonest as dishonorable. The below ticket, therefore, represents Garfield and Arthur, and is the same as at the head of our paper, and the one to be voted for by the Republicans of this county:

PENNSYLVANIA ELECTORAL TICKET.

Edwin N. Benson, Andrew F. Shindel, Charles B. Forney, Nathan C. Elshes, Andrew Stow, Edwin H. Fisher, M. Hall Stanton, Jonathan C. Frisbee, George M. Read, George W. Biest, Michael Schall, Walter W. Ames, John P. Tengenard, Nelson P. Reed, Andrew E. Painter, Thomas McKenna, James T. Maffett, Edgar Pinchot, John Mitchell, Calvin W. Gilfillan.

Official Vote of Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, October 23.—The following are the official figures of the total vote for Governor at the October election in this state, as received by the Secretary of State: Porter, Republican, 230,291; Landers, Democrat, 223,740; Gregg, National, 14,863; plurality for Porter, 7,551.

Three Thousand Voters Supposed to be in the Day Procession—Thirteen Hundred in Torch-Light Parade at Night.

Last Friday is admitted on all hands to have been the greatest day ever witnessed in Butler. The unfavorable appearance of the weather did not keep the people back—though the cloudy morning doubtless prevented many more from coming. Every township and town in the county was represented in some form or other. From many, large delegations came in wagons, with banners, mottoes, glee clubs, etc.—several delegations came on horse-back. The procession, when fully formed, was supposed to be 2 miles in length. When it broke up, about two o'clock, every alley and stable in the town was crowded with horses, carriages or wagons. The scenes and incidents would almost indescribable, and we cannot particularize when all were so deserving of praise. An oil derrick was in the procession in operation; and a number of them "same old coons," caught and brought in for the occasion. Many good devices about the tariff and the late rebellion were also to be seen.

After the people had some refreshments a meeting was organized in front of the Court House, with Hon. John N. Purvis as Chairman and reporters of the press as Secretaries. Owing to the rain coming on it had to adjourn into the Court House. Addresses were then made by S. H. Miller, Esq., Republican candidate for Congress, and Col. John M. Thompson. The speech of Mr. Miller was able and eloquent and much commended by all who heard it.

TORCHLIGHT DISPLAY.

But the great feature of the occasion was the torchlight display and parade at night, which the people generally remained in the town to witness. Marching clubs, with their bands of martial instrumental music, came from Parker, Martinsburg, Petrolia, Millersburg, Prospect, Portersville, Harrisville, Freeport, Buffalo township, and other places. Mounted companies came from Petersville and form Penn, Washington and Concord townships. These, with the two Butler clubs, when all were formed into line, made a process on that filled both sides of Main street in passing up and down the same. The best of order was preserved and all kept step to the music in admirable style. In addition to this music was that given by young ladies in front of the Court House and in various places in the town, who sang their campaign and patriotic songs with much effect. The young ladies from Middlesex township came in a large decorated conveyance, fitted up for the occasion, and sang in the same, attracting the attention of all. But it would be impossible to particularize—suffice it to say it was a grand and interesting occasion, and one that will be long remembered. The Republicans of the county seemed to have been holding themselves up for the event and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed as well as patience endured. Not a single accident happened as we have heard of, although many had to reach their homes in a rather dark night. We congratulate all that the Mass Convention in Butler, October 22d, 1880, was such a success. To be sure there were some features that might well have been omitted, such as the fantastic parts, which detracted rather than added to the procession. The enthusiasm of the people this campaign surpasses that of all previous, and all should hope, that whatever may be the result of the Presidential struggle, all will endure for the better to our great and common country.

MIXED TICKETS—CAUTION.

We are informed that what are generally termed spurious tickets are already in circulation in this county. A spurious or mixed ticket is one purporting to be that of a certain party, but at the same time having printed in it the name or names of some of the candidates of the opposite party. They are generally gotten up to deceive, that is, with the hope that some of them may be voted without the voter detecting the fraud. Nothing could be more dishonorable in any candidate than to resort to this mode of endeavoring to steal votes from his opponent.

If a candidate of the Democratic or Republican party has friends in the other party who desire to vote him they can scratch out and write in, or what is now more common, use what are termed the "stickers." There is no deception in that and it is the act of the voter himself. But to circulate a ticket of the opposite party with your name printed on it instead of that of your opponent, without giving information of the fact is as dishonest as dishonorable. DEATH OF A GOOD WOMAN.

All of this county—and they are many—who were acquainted with Mrs. Mary M. Marshall, wife of Hon. Thomas M. Marshall, of Pittsburgh, are exceedingly sorry to learn of her death, which happened on the 20th inst. Mrs. Marshall was one of those estimable women that it was always a pleasure to meet. With her husband she made frequent visits to this place within the few past years, and made many friends by her agreeable and social disposition. We sincerely sympathize with Mr. M. in this, his great loss.

A BIG SUCCESS.

Mr. wife and myself are in fine health with dyspepsia and nervousness and was in bed two weeks with a complication of disorders her physicians could not cure, when I was led by real Parker's GINGER TOMES, Having been offered to me a large sum of money for my services, I accepted it and the result was most gratifying, making me with ease and comfort, and in a short time, fit for all sorts of exertions. This service has been of great benefit to me, and I am now in full strength again.
